BUSINESS SAFE, RECOVERY SURE, ECONOMIST SAYS

Finds Evidence of Steady Revival.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"Opium!"

That is the word that describes the mental conditions which brought about the present financial depression, Ben M. Anderson, Ph. D., economist of the Chase National bank of New York, told the American life insurance convention at the Hotel Stevens yesterday.

"Reality!"

This is the word that spells the present period of readjustment, the entrance into a situation where reliance is placed on the normal sources of capital rather than on cheap and easy money.

A Case for the Doctor.

"There is no need for fear and hysteria," Dr. Anderson said, "but rather for a careful study of what is the matter with us and what we can do about it. It is not the time for the priest but for the doctor.

"At the moment the volume of business is needlessly low. The fundamentals are not good, but business is lower than this fact justifies.

"In a great bank we talk with many business men and they tell us the truth. During the last five or six months they have been selling more than they have been buying. For the last three or four months the country has been consuming more than the retailers and jobbers have been buying or than the manufacturers have been producing.

Forces for Revival at Work.

"A situation of that sort will lead to a spurt of business, which will taper off unless the fundamentals are right, but which will be good while it lasts.

"The drought has delayed this spurt, but business now is worse than it need be. The way for improvements is being generated by this fact. Nothing is more foolish than prophecy, for we do not know when a drought will come or a spectacular election.

"But I will say that forces are at work which will in time generate improvement.

"What brought us here? We must go back to 1914. For eight years we were producing more than we were consuming. Bankers would tell you that this would make interest rates high. Instead of that they were low. In that fact is the explanation of our main trouble today.

Cause of the Trouble.

"We had multiple expansion of bank credit based on excess reserves. All the loose gold in the world came here until 1927. The federal reserve bank adopted a cheap money policy, which tempted the banks to borrow. Early in 1928 they had to reverse this policy.

"Cheap money is the most dangerous economic intoxicant known. Our trouble today largely grows from an excess of cheap money, when it was easy for everybody, states and municipalities, to get into debt. A wild stock market was one consequence and general business was thrown into intoxicated exhilaration.

"It affected the export trade, which is now being choked by high tariffs. We fed out more rope to Europe, lent more money. Long time bonds for daily bread is not good business. It is optum.

Waking Up to a Headache.

"We are now waking up and have a headache. We have got to get used to doing without cheap money. We must readjust to a situation where we rely on investment savings, business savings, and taxation for capital purposes.

"Many seem to feel that the depression into which we have fallen is limitless, and they have no hope. The veteran who has been through these things before knows better. The student of business history knows better. We have periods of great excitement and enthusiasm, and then of great depression and gloom. They come and go.

"The world goes on decade after decade, and the population grows, production increases and the general welfare grows. Now we are as unreasonably depressed as a year ago we were unreasonably exalted.

The German Situation.

"Particularly exaggerated are our fears regarding the foreign situation, above all our fears regarding Germany, which have been manifest in the market for German securities. Germany is going through a difficult time, but Germany is a veteran in going through difficult times. In 1925-

62,000 See Athletics and Sox Win

Lyons Is the Star for Comiskey Team.

More than 62,000 persons yesterday witnessed the opening games of the two autumn classics of baseball—the world series between the Philadelphia Athletics, American league champions, and the St. Louis Cardinals, National league pennant winners, and the Chicago city series between the Cubs and the White Sox.

At Philadelphia 32,295 spectators paid a total of $152,735 to see the Athletics defeat the Cardinals, 5 to 2, while at Comiskey park 30,204 paid total admission fees of $34,872,50 to watch the White Sox down the Cubs, 5 to 1.

Ted Lyons, the star of the Sox pitching staff, held the heavier hitting Cub team to seven scattered hits to give the American league representatives the jump over the Chicago National leaguers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—The big guns of the Athletics boomed with deadly accuracy in defense of Pitcher Bob Mose Grove today, and another National league entry in baseball's autumnal show crumpled.

Five times, but no oftener, the big guns were touched off against the pitching of the 37 year old Burleigh Grimes. On each of these five reverberating blasts a man with a large black "A" on a white flannel shirt ran home, and the final score in the inaugural of the 1930 world series, played before President Herbert Hoover and 32,000 others, was: Athletics, 5; St. Louis Cardinals, 2.

Tomorrow, with Flint Rhem pitching against George Earnshaw, the Mackmen's second ace, it may be different. But tonight the American leaguers were singing, with more vigor than melody, that in four seasons they have captured 13 and lost only one game in which the universal title was involved.

Cards' Lead Falls to Last.

As a spectacle it was a sight only for those whose inclinations lean toward the American league. Once, and only once, did the Cardinals muster the strength that carried them so sensationally through their own circuit. It gave them a slim lead, but not for long. Later, when you could almost see for a certainty that they were slipping to defeat, they tried to rally again. The rally failed because luck wouldn't give them a break. Meanwhile Burleigh Grimes, snarling and as tough as he always has been, was receding hit by hit, some of them over and some against the fences.

The struggle, which after all was nothing more than the first of a series of arguments as to which of two principals is to go into winter retirement with the large end of a bulky purse, unfolded itself gradually. The Macks, with one of their five hits, hung up a run in the second inning. The Cards, with four of their nine safe clouts off Grove's southpawing, followed with their lone splurge that netted two runs in the third.

Simmons' Homer Ties Score.

The bat of Al Simmons sent the ball over the wall in the fourth to even the score. Then a double by Jimmy Dykes in the sixth, a triple by Bruno Haas in the seventh and a homer by Mickey Cochrane in the eighth completed the little show which, with anything except a sleepy Philadelphia crowd, might have been a sensation.

The crowd, barring brief huzzas when the home runs disappeared over the wall, failed to show appreciation of the occasion except in one instance. That was when Grimes, always tough when he's trying to win, aroused them. In the first inning Grimes, with Cochrane at bat, hurled a "duster" at the Mack catcher's head. Cochrane sought shelter in the dirt. He had heard that Grimes was given to such playful little tactics. Cochrane didn't complain at the time. Neither did the crowd notice that the star spitballer from St. Louis was employing his old habits. But both Cochrane and the crowd awakened eventually.

Keeps Cochrane at Distance.

Cochrane came up again in the fourth, and Grimes kept pushing him away from the plate until the count became 3 and 2. Then Mickey flied

HARVARD SOLVES GIVING EXAM ON JEWISH HOLIDAY

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Through an oversight last spring Harvard college scheduled a divisional examination in the modern languages department for tomorrow, which is Yom Kippur, the Jewish day of atonement. Tonight a novel method was devised to meet the objections of Jewish students to taking an examination on a sacred day. Robert K. Lamb, director of publicity, announced tonight that proctors would be seated beside all Jewish students who desire them and that they would write the examination from the student's dictation. Thus the student would be able to take the examination without performing manual labor.

Prince Duels Wife's Lover; Shots Go Wild

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 1.—A duel "to the death" was fought today by Prince Constantin Apostolides, former Greek cabinet minister, and George Skoyses, one of the wealthiest property owners in Greece. The cause of the duel was a diary which Princess Apostolides kept, and in which she is said to have written of indiscretions with M. Skoyses and various male members of his family. The prince found and read the diary and the challenge to his countryman followed.

They met on the field of honor this afternoon, the locale being the grounds of the Franz Joseph cavalry barracks. Officers were posted at the gates and prevented police from entering to halt the proceedings.

Four Noblemen Attend.

Four noblemen attended the combatants, one of them being the son of Premier Count Bethlen. The seconds were Erwin von Meszaros, noted foils champion, and Count Karl Szechenyi, for M. Skoyses, the challenged, and Count Paul Almassy and Count Andreas Bethlen for the princely challenger.

Pistols were chosen as the weapons for the mortal combat. The husband and alleged lover stood back to back and at a given signal stepped off twenty-five paces. Suddenly each wheeled and fired once, twice, three times.

The Shots That Failed.

The seconds turned apprehensive glances to discover the two standing erect and unharmed. The stipulated number of shots had been fired, but the conditions of the duel had not been carried out. It was agreed beforehand that but one duelist was to leave the field alive.

The seconds held a hurried consultation. They then approached their respective principals and engaged in eloquent, persuasive argument. The grim, negative nodding of two headgradually slackened, then stopped.

Finally Prince Apostolides and M. Skoyses, with an assenting shrug of the shoulders, clicked heels, bowed each to the other, and shook hands in conciliation.

OAK PARK HOME BLOWN UP IN SUICIDE TRAGEDY

Frank A. Porlick, 50 years old, an importer, was found dead last night amid the wreckage of his home at 543 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, following a gas explosion which demolished the rear portion of the story and a half frame and stucco cottage. Firemen, summoned by a neighbor, extinguished a fire which followed the explosion and rescued the body, discovering that Porlick's throat and both arms had been freely slashed with a razor.

Lying upon a dresser in a bedroom of the cottage were two sealed notes, one addressed to Porlick's estranged wife, Mrs. Kathryn Porlick, 21 years old, and the other to his two small children, Robert, 3 years old, and Kathryn, 2. A third note directed that his body be sent to his sister, Mrs. T. V. Maurer in New York.

The police were convinced after investigation that Porlick first slashed his throat and then turned on the gas in the kitchen.

One gas jet of the kitchen stove was found open, though it could not be determined what set off the explosion which aroused the neighborhood, shattering windows of adjacent houses.

On Sept. 26 Mrs. Porlick appeared before Judge John J. Sullivan in Superior court and won $300 per month temporary alimony pending disposition of her divorce suit, charging cruelty.

Robber Raids and Terrorizes N. Shore Home

A masked bandit early this morning invaded the home of Mrs. Leverett Thompson in Lake Forest, one of the show places of the residential district of the suburb, terrorized Mrs. Thompson, her daughter and a maid, and robbed Mrs. Thompson's brother, a noted artist of New York, who was visiting in the Thompson home which is at 788 East Woodland road.

Enters Through Window.

All the Thompson household was asleep when the robber, who had gained entrance by prying open a window in the kitchen, appeared in the maid's room on the second floor, turned a flashlight into her face, warned her to keep silent or be shot, and said:

"You're Mrs. Thompson. I want all your money and the jewels which you purchased in New York and brought home."

The maid assured him she was not Mrs. Thompson, and with an oath he took $15 from a dresser and rushed across a hall into the room of Abram Poole, the brother of Mrs. Thompson, and, pointing a gun directly at Mr. Poole's head, demanded in broken English that he give up his money and Mrs. Thompson's jewels.

Pleads with Robber.

Mr. Poole surrendered $35 and his watch and told the bandit that Mrs. Thompson had no jewels in the house. The robber then hurried from Poole's room and into that of Mrs. Thompson adjoining, with Mr. Poole following and pleading with him not to disturb his sister.

"Mrs. Thompson is ill," he told the intruder, "and the shock of your appearance will kill her." The robber hesitated a few seconds, rushed out and into the room of Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Laura, threw the rays of his flashlight into her face, but did not otherwise disturb her. Then he fled from the house. A moment later the roar of a motor was heard. Whether he had accomplices downstairs was not determined.

Mr. Poole told Chief of Police Lester Tiffany that the robber had been in the house long enough to go to the kitchen and eat some sandwiches. Mr. Poole would not permit Mrs. Thompson to leave her bed to make an investigation to determine whether the silver plate and other valuables on the first floor had been taken.

One Brother Is Author.

Mrs Thompson returned from a visit to New York three days ago. Her husband, a banker and lawyer and former mayor of Lake Forest, died in 1921. Her brother, Ernest Poole, is an author of note, and another brother, Ralph, has a home on Green Bay road, Lake Forest. The family has long been leaders in the industrial and social life of Chicago and Lake Forest.

HALF THEATER OPEN SUNDAY; HALF CLOSED

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—A length of rope will have to be pressed into service Sundays, it was indicated today, to preserve the piety of East Orange from its sister city, Orange.

For Orange is in the process of legalizing Sunday movies, while East Orange stands against any such desecration of the Sabbath. And one of the two largest motion picture theaters in the Oranges, the Palace, stands half in Orange and half in East Orange.

Undaunted by this, Mayor Charles H. Martens of East Orange announced he will rope off that part of the theater within his jurisdiction "to protect East Orange from the effects of Sunday movies in Orange."

Automobiles Show Improved Value at Lower Price

Automobiles were never better, service was never more efficient, dollar-for-dollar values were never higher than at present.

The motor car makers have realized that this would be a year in which increased value would be fully appreciated. They have bent every energy to cutting costs of material, of labor, of overhead, of selling. Price reductions became the rule, not the exception. As a result cars were never cheaper in price nor higher in quality.

Ordinarily an automobile maker made as much money as the next manufacturer. But profits are thin selling cars at current reduced prices. A boost in price next year would be as logical as the cuts were in 1930. It's a splendid time to replace the old bus with a new one.

'DAGO' MANGANO VISITS POLICE, PUTS UP BAIL

Then He Swaggers Out of Station.

A week ago police arrested Lawrence "Dago" Mangano, one of the "public enemies" named by the Chicago crime commission, after they had maintained a night and day watch for several days at his home at 5529 Flournoy street. The following day Mangano was released on $10,000 bond by Judge Lyle on vagrancy charges.

Last night Mangano swaggered into the detective bureau, threw $100 on the desk as cash bond to free Tony Accardo, a minor hoodlum who had been in jail since Tuesday. Mangano and Accardo, accompanied by four bodyguards, left the bureau arm in arm and in high spirits.

As they left Mangano remarked: "We public enemies must stick together. Let's go and celebrate with a spaghetti dinner." Police and bodyguards joined in the laughter at Mangano's sally.

No Move to Arrest Him.

As Mangano is one of the "public enemies" the police are under orders to arrest him on sight. But when he sauntered into the detective bureau no move was made to arrest or even to question Mangano and his four companions.

Mangano had appeared earlier in the day with Edward ["Spike"] O'Donnell, another "public enemy" before Judge Edgar A. Jonas, in South State street court, where their trials on vagrancy charges were set. O'Donnell's case will come up on Oct. 21, while Mangano will face the court on Oct. 27.

Tony Accardo had been booked on disorderly conduct charges last night only a short time before Mangano appeared to post bail for him after Attorney Roland V. Libonati had sought Accardo's release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Says U. S. Asked Release.

Chief of Detectives John Norton yesterday continued to maintain that government agents asked for the release of Tony Tagenti, Capone bondsman, under whose pillow in a south side hotel a secret police list of hoodlums to be arrested on vagrancy charges was found last week. Tagenti was allowed to leave the bureau without being questioned.

"The government asked me to release those ten men found who didn't have records," Norton insisted. "They told me they didn't want them."

HOODLUMS ON PARADE

Judge John H. Lyle's Felony court was the scene of another hoodlum parade yesterday. "Mike de Pike" Heitler, pander; Jack Guzik, Capone lieutenant; and "Three Fingered Jack" White and George "Red" Barker, ex-convict labor racketeers, filed before the bar at intervals.

Each of the four hoodlums came into court charged with being a vagrant and a "public enemy," the latter designation having been made by the Chicago Crime commission. Heitler's attorney, Arnold Berger, told Judge Lyle in the morning that his client was seriously hurt and in the Jefferson Park hospital and presented a bond signed by Miss Emily Melcher, 3640 Wesley avenue, Berwyn, scheduling property listed as worth $35,000.

Demands Heitler's Presence.

"But I can't approve this when the defendant is not here," said the court, "and I certainly won't go to the hospital."

"Do that," Judge Lyle suggested.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Heitler, fat and healthy looking, waddled into the courtroom. His case was called and he was seated in a chair in front of the bench. His bondswoman, Miss Melcher, was also present and Judge Lyle approved the schedule after some colloquy between Berger and Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast. Heitler's case will be heard Oct. 29.

Just before he left the hospital to go to court, Heitler was served with a civil suit summons at the request of his brother-in-law, Louis Cohen, 1511 North Damen avenue. "This is a plumbing bill," grunted "Mike de Pike." "This bird has been trying to make me pay $2,800 for some plumbing for six years. I paid him $1,300 and let him try to collect the rest."

Jack Guzik, chairman of the Capone directorate, squirmed in silence as Judge Lyle twitted him on his rock pile prospects. Guzik's lawyer, Charles Horgan, requested a change of venue and the court turned to the gangster.

"Don't you want a nice speedy trial?" asked the judge. "I can get a jury in here at 2 o'clock." Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne did not oppose a delay until Oct. 7, and suggested that by that time there might be another Guzik in custody.

"That's all right," said Judge Lyle; "brothers ought to stick together. It would be nice (turning to Guzik) if all you brothers could gather on the rock pile and keep one another company."

Ask Change of Venue.

Attorneys Clarence Darrow and W. W. Smith appeared as counsel for Barker and White, requesting a change of venue.

"I'll consent to the change," announced Mr. Ditchburne. "There's no use in upsetting the machinery of the court at this time by continuing to contest these motions. We already have one test case pending."

While waiting for his case to be called Mr. Darrow was drawn into another hearing when Nicholas Pace, 25 years old, 5502 West Van Buren street, was arraigned on a charge of clipping $1,024 from a loop bank's bonds to help support his widowed mother.

The aged attorney moved to the bar and listened silently to the evidence. When it was finished, he said: "You know my tendency to be lenient, but I don't believe Pace should go to jail. It was an unfortunate occurrence and he does not look like a criminal to me. If you give us time, your honor, I am sure we can straighten this out." The case was continued to Oct. 8.

COP IS HELD TO GRAND JURY ON THREE CHARGES

Robbing a taxi cab driver, breaking windows, hitting a pedestrian on the head with a brick, and ending the rampage by rifling the cigar case in a pool hall resulted yesterday in a policeman's being held to the grand jury on charges of robbery, burglary, and malicious mischief. The action was taken in the felony court of Judge Lyle.

Patrolman Charles Osterman, 33 years old, assigned to the West North avenue station, was the offender. He made a plea for leniency, claiming that he had been on the force ten years and was the only support of a widowed mother. He had had a cold, he said, and had taken the whisky as a cure. "I drank some and then I guess I went crazy," said Osterman.

In uniform he robbed Paul Larsch, a cab driver, of $21.48. He broke a window in the home of James Mattis, 106 North Hamlin avenue, and another in a grocery store at 257 North Crawford avenue. A few minutes later he hit Kenneth Ryan, 1410 Kildare avenue, with a brick. He was captured in a billiard hall at 4156 West Lake street, where he had broken into a case and was filling his pockets with cigarets and cigars.

JUDGE REFUSES VENUE CHANGE UNDER NEW LAW

Judge Joseph B. David yesterday backed up the position of the state's attorney's office in the contention that the new change of venue law is invalid. Assistant prosecutors first attacked the law before Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court, where public enemies have sought changes of venue on vagrancy charges.

The case in which a change of venue was refused is that of William Waltman, 35 years old, a bookkeeper charged with embezzlement of $1,000 from the Protection Products company, 1129 Milwaukee avenue.

The old statute gave a defendant a right to a change of venue on the filing of two affidavits of citizens to the effect that the trial judge was prejudiced. The new law requires that the defendant and his attorney must file such affidavits. The state contends that it is against public policy to ask an attorney retained to represent a client to file such an affidavit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—[Thursday.]—Prince George, the king's youngest son, will accompany his brother, the prince of Wales, on his South American trip next spring, according to this morning's Daily Chronicle. Argentina and Brazil will be visited. It is also hinted that Prince George's trip is a preliminary step towards his appointment as governor general of one of the dominions.

MOVE TO TRY DANNY STANTON AS ZUTA KILLER

Will Be Arraigned Today on Fugitive Writ.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

First steps to bring Danny Stanton, public enemy of the Capone brand, to trial for the murder of Jack Zuta near Delafield, Wis., were taken yesterday. A fugitive warrant issued in Waukesha was served on Stanton in a detective bureau cell and his arraignment was ordered for today before Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court.

"If there were no corroborative evidence in support of the ballistic connection of Stanton with the murder would that be sufficient to obtain a conviction in Wisconsin?" District Attorney Herman Salem of Waukesha county was asked.

May Be Enough Evidence.

"I think so," he answered. "At least it will be sufficient to have him bound over for trial, without bail, and it may be strong enough to convince a jury of his guilt."

Mr. Salem did not care to reveal whether any of the witnesses to the murder of Zuta, who was shot by five or six men who hunted him down in a summer resort, had identified pictures of Stanton as one of the assassins. He did say, however, that none of the witnesses had come to Chicago to view Stanton. It will be time enough for that when Stanton is brought to Wisconsin, he said.

The evidence so far against the Capone gangster is that he was in possession of a revolver from which a bullet was fired into Zuta's head. There is additional circumstantial evidence, police said, involving Stanton as one of those who for a month sought to kill the vice monger who had become a power in the Bugs Moran gang and who was suspected of having instigated the murder of Alfred Lingle.

Tests Made with Bullets.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, whose vigilance resulted in the ballistic examination of Stanton's gun by Col. Calvin H. Goddard, said the result was ample proof it was used in the Zuta slaying. The markings on test bullets fired from it were surprisingly identical with the markings on a bullet taken from Zuta's head.

Attorney James McDermott, representing Stanton, said he would make no moves in behalf of the gangster until after the hearing today before Judge Olson. Extradition would be resisted to the utmost, he declared, but the authorities were confident Stanton would be sent to Wisconsin for trial.

"Will you be able to bring him to trial within a month?" District Attorney Salen was asked.

"A month!" he exclaimed. "We'll have him on trial within a week or ten days after we get him here. In Wisconsin it is not necessary to give a defendant the time to prepare for trial he gets in Illinois."

He had sent extradition papers to Gov. Kohler at Madison yesterday, Mr. Salen said, and he expected they would be signed and sent to Springfield, Ill., today.

An additional warrant may be asked for the arrest of Edgar Smith, a friend of Stanton, the prosecutor suggested. Smith was arrested last April after he shot Benjamin Butler, a Stanton beer runner. He was arrested again with Stanton when the revolver later examined by Col. Goddard was found in Stanton's possession.

Indict 4 More as Racketeers; Make Peace at Union Parley

CRIMINAL COURT.

Injee Skinner, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

Robert Ewing, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Dan Williams, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Charles A. Williams.

James O'Neil, larceny, sentenced to two consecutive sentences of 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry Fisher.

Leslie Kidd and Anthony De Lardo, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Robert Cramer, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph B. David.

The grand jury named four more alleged labor union racketeers in conspiracy true bills voted yesterday as the officials behind the movement to rid the city of racketeering were meeting with representatives of labor to promote harmony in the investigation.

Those named in the latest indictments are John Fitzgerald, president of the Oil Wagon Drivers and Filling Station Attendants' union; Patrick J. Berrell, secretary and treasurer; James Walsh and Barney Grossklags, business agents. According to Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury, who are in direct charge of the racketeering investigation, the men conspired to injure private business.

Refused Deliveries, Charge.

Efforts to unionize filling station attendants were not proceeding very rapidly, it is alleged, and the union officials used the short cut method of refusing to allow their members to deliver gasoline or oil from the distributor to the station where the employés were not members of the union. It is charged that threats were made in several cases.

Hold Secret Session.

The meeting was a star chamber session, which for a time, it is said, threatened to be anything but peaceful because labor leaders charged that the investigation was being used to attack legitimate labor. The crisis was soon passed, it is reported, when both Prosecutor Swanson and Judge McGoorty assured the labor leaders that they were not against unionism properly conducted, but were in fact in favor of it.

It was reported that the labor leaders were under a misapprehension about connections of Prosecutor Mueller. They were soon convinced that Mueller was, if anything, antagonistic to the men the labor leaders believed he was coöperating with.

Olander Is Spokesman.

Mr. Olander was appointed spokesman of the meeting, which lasted more than two hours. His statement was:

"The entire industrial situation in Chicago was discussed. We are hopeful as a result of the meeting for a better understanding between organized labor, the Association of Commerce leaders, and the law enforcing authorities."

The racketeering investigation is expected to gather impetus as a result of an investigation bureau with loop headquarters, under command of Detectives Roy Steffens and Michael Ahern. This office will be opened for convenience and secrecy in questioning witnesses.

Mother Gets Writ to Free Children from Nursery

Superior Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday granted a writ of habeas corpus to Mrs. Fern R. Margolis, 2432 Wilcox street, for the release of her two children, who are being held at the Daughters of Jacob South Side Day nursery, at 6401 South Peoria street. Mrs. Margolis said the children, Irving, 5 years old, and Robert, 3, were being held to insure payment of a $90 board bill. A hearing was set for Saturday.

DEFUNCT BANK'S FUNDS LINKED TO DOG RACE TRACK

Investigation Started at Request of Depositors.

An investigation was started yesterday by the state's attorney's office into charges that the funds of the defunct Citizens' Trust and Savings bank, 6 West Garfield boulevard, were used to help finance the Thornton dog race track. Documentary evidence to support these charges was placed in the hands of Assistant State's Attorneys Henry Ayers and Leonard Rice.

Sheridan A. Bruseaux, former chief investigator for the Loesch special grand juries, led a delegation of colored people to the state's attorney's office. Among those asking for prompt action by the prosecutors was the Rev. W. S. Bradden, pastor of the Berean Baptist church, who said 200 of his parishioners were among the depositors in the bank. Attorneys Herman E. Moore, president of the Cook County Bar association, and J. Gray Lucas helped to present the charges.

Link with Dog Track.

The inventory filed by the Chicago Trust company as receiver, disclosed that officials of the bank were also officials of the so-called Electric Holding corporation, which operated the electric rabbit which the hounds chased around the Thornton track. This corporation, it is stated, is not listed with the Illinois secretary of state.

The investigators say they received the hint of the alleged connection of the bank and the dog track through the testimony of John A. Woodrow, vice president and cashier of the bank, at the recent trial of County Assessor Gene Oliver for income tax evasion. Woodrow was a government witness against Oliver, who was convicted.

The inventory filed by the receiver with the Superior court shows that loans totaling more than $40,000 were made to the Electric Holding corporation, to individual officials of the dog track or to bank officials, without security.

Inventory Shows Loans.

J. Homer Ellis, president of the Illinois Kennel club and A. L. Spindler, secretary and treasurer, gave unsecured notes for loans of $6,000, according to the records. The Electric Holding corporation obtained $13,500 of the depositors' money on unsecured demand notes, the inventory shows.

Woodrow is listed as treasurer and Harry R. Vause, a director of the bank, as secretary of the holding company, according to the investigators. Vause, according to the inventory, is listed on unsecured demand notes for $14,250. Some of the notes are endorsed, it is charged, by Ellis and Spindler, the kennel club officials. Harry B. Staver, president of the bank, according to the charges, held numerous conferences with the man who invented the electric rabbit.

California Seizes Beer Credited to Bugs Moran

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Seizure of $25,000 worth of Canadian 9 per cent beer, shipped from Chicago, in local warehouses has revealed a plan of racketeers, asserted to be identified with the Bugs Moran gang, to break into the southern California field on a large scale, police said today.

SET O'BRIEN TRIAL ON CHARGE OF TAX FRAUD FOR NOV. 17

Federal Judge Woodward yesterday set the trial of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, under indictment on charges of evading incomes taxes, for Nov. 17. O'Brien, who is head of a trucking concern, is alleged to owe the government some $70,000 in taxes, interest, and penalties. He was represented by Attorney Leonard C. Reid. Terry Druggan will be the next defendant to face trial in federal court on income tax charges, if his condition permits his leaving the University hospital. A physician will be retained by the government to examine Druggan and report to Federal Judge Wilkerson next Monday.

PREPARE FIGHT TO REINSTATE OUSTED PASTOR

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

John A. Logan Warren, former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Durand, who was unfrocked by the Rock River conference of the church in 1927 will press his battle for immediate vindication and reinstatement by the conference which began its annual sessions in Wilmette yesterday.

Announcement of Warren's intention to fight was made last night by his attorney, B. J. Knight of Rockford, after the conference had decided to delay action on Warren's reinstatement until civil suits growing out of the charges against him had been settled. Warren was accused of misconduct with a maid in his household.

Points to Juries' Action.

"Three civil court juries have cleared Mr. Warren," said Attorney Knight. "How many more juries are needed to convince the Methodist ministers that my client is innocent?"

Attorney Knight said Warren had agreed to withdraw his damage suit for $100,000 against the Rev. Dr. Frank D. Sheets and the Rev. Dr. C. K. Carpenter, Warren's accusers in the church court which unfrocked him, if they would make no move to obstruct Warren's reinstatement at the Wilmette meeting. The attorney refused to divulge just what procedure he would advise Warren to take, saying he would await fuller reports of what took place behind the closed doors of the conference yesterday when action on Warren's case was indefinitely postponed. Attorney Knight pointed out that Methodist disciplinary law follows French court methods and not American courts.

"In France a defendant is regarded by the court to be guilty until he proves his innocence," he said. "I have a method I think will get early action by the church in Warren's case, but I am not ready to state our plans until I have talked to Warren."

Warren Present at Session.

Warren was present at the Wilmette meeting yesterday, but he declined to say anything regarding the handling of his case in the present conference session.

The unfrocked pastor has charged that the trouble, which came to a climax in the immorality charges against him, is the result of politics, both civil and ecclesiastical. Warren attributes the accusations to a frameup, instigated, he said, by people who were disgruntled when he ran for congress on the Democratic ticket in a strong Republican community. Warren polled 16,000 votes as against the normal 3,000 Democratic votes.

Pastor Brings Suit.

When gossip started in Durand shortly after the political campaign to the effect that Warren was guilty of immoral conduct with Hazel Lamb, 19 year old hired girl, Warren brought suit against six Durand citizens, asking $50,000 damages. The tales continued until, Warren charges, the Lamb girl—called by Warren a "psychopathic liar"—swore to an affidavit telling of alleged improper relations with the clergyman. In the damage suit brought by Warren the girl did not appear in court, the defendants being willing to proceed without having her as their witness.

Pastor Unfrocked; Presses Suits.

At the annual conference at Oak Park in October, 1927, Warren was unfrocked and dismissed from the church. He then pressed his slander and libel suits, and in his suit against his Durand accusers first won a $20,000 verdict. A new trial was ordered and the deposed pastor was awarded $10,000. A third verdict of $25,000 was won by Warren in St. Louis courts against a newspaper. The Durand defendants appealed the decision, and the case probably will be heard this month in the Appellate court at Ottawa.

The Rev. W. S. Fleming, who with the Rev. Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago temple, defended Warren in the church court, said last night that Dr Sheets and Dr Carpenter, co-defendants in the $100,000 damage suit brought by the unfrocked clergyman, were being criticized by many members of the conference. It was pointed out by various pastors that the conference had voted funds for retaining legal counsel for the defense of Dr. Sheets and Dr. Carpenter.

"I have been convinced, almost from the start, that we expelled an innocent man" said Dr. Fleming. "Mr. Warren now has us in a nut cracker where we will be forced to do what we ought to do in his case?"

Members of the conference who want Warren reinstated point out that Dr. Sheets and Dr. Carpenter secured the withdrawal of the suit against them on the basis of pledges made to Warren without consulting the conference, whose agents they were. Dr. Carpenter and Dr. Sheets also pledged to support Warren's move for reinstatement at the Wilmette conference.

No course of action was outlined yesterday in the case of the Rev James A. Wilson, Mendota pastor, who was convicted on April 27 of a charge of assault with intent to kill. The Mendota pastor's name was passed without objection as the roll was read. In view of the Rev. Mr Wilson's appeal from the criminal verdict members of the conference state that thus far no decision has been made by the conference. They say, however, that action probably will be taken before the end of the conference.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson's trial followed the shooting of Amos Elliot, the church sexton. The pastor charged that the sexton held a letter reflecting on the pastor's reputation. The shooting was alleged to have followed a struggle for the possession of the letter.

NAB FOUR IN RAID; SEIZE AMMUNITION AND LOADED PISTOLS

Policemen from the office of Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, raided the Monroe hotel, 317 East 17th street, Chicago Heights, late yesterday, and seized four men, two of whom were described as killers. A quantity of ammunition was found.

The two men called killers and from whom loaded revolvers were taken are Genera Soberto, 30 years old, 275 East 17th street, and George Muntsanti, 33 years old, 1309 Fifth avenue, Chicago Heights. The others are John Roberto, 28 years old, 2606 Chicago road, and John May, 225 East 22d street, Chicago Heights. The men and their ammunition were found on the first floor, which Roche characterized as a hoodlum hangout.

Two automatic rifles and an automatic shotgun were found in a closet adjoining the room, along with several thousand rounds of ammunition. Four women found in the hotel were not arrested, but the men were locked in cells at the detective bureau, where they will be sent through the bureau of identification. The four will be questioned further by Roche.

MUSSOLINI URGES DEATH PENALTY FOR SPECULATORS

ROME, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today advocated the death penalty for speculators, who bring on financial crises. The premier, speaking at the first sitting of the national council of corporations, which links all forms of Italian capital and labor, said he already had made examples of speculators in the Aosta and Campobasso districts and would deal more strictly with the type in the future.

"They will now be made to feel more acutely that they cannot fool the public with impunity," he continued. "Because of the infinite evel they express as sowers of ruin and misery, they merit the penalty of death."

Sounds Optimistic Note.

The duce said he believed Italy had reached the bottom in the current financial depression and he expected the country now to start upward.

In discussing the economic situation the premier said no one could expect prodigies since they had not even been accomplished by President Hoover, the most powerful man in the world in the richest state in the world."

He added that Italy was suffering from economic depression along with the rest of the world, but the fact that other nations also were suffering would not be used in his country as an alibi.

Tells of Saving Industries.

He also showed how the government had intervened in a number of cases to save industries and declared:

"The Fascist government is not insensible to the disadvantageous situation, as anti-Fascism wishes to insinuate. It is feeling the pulse of the nation, but not all companies can be saved. Some, indeed, deserve to go to the wall."

SLAYER NORTHCOTT CAPERS IN CELL AS HE AWAITS NOOSE TODAY

San Quentin Prison, Cal., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Gordon Stewart Northcott, who will be executed tomorrow for the murder of three boys on his chicken ranch, persisted tonight in his denial of guilt and reiterated belief a reprieve yet would save his life.

Meanwhile he capered and danced in his cell to the continual strains of a phonograph playing "The Song of Songs," joked with the death watch and gave great care to the selection of his last meals.

Northcott's mother, Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott, in a note to Warden James B. Holehan, asked if her son was not reprieved she be hanged with him tomorrow. Mrs. Northcott was sentenced to life imprisonment for slaying a boy.

TWO INDICTED IN OIL FRAUD ARE TAKEN OFF JOB

Hugh Norris, former alderman and ward committeeman, was relieved from his duties yesterday as chief of the state oil inspection department in the Chicago area, as was William F. Gorman, his chief deputy. They were named in true bills voted by the grand jury Tuesday charging them with conspiracy to fail to perform their duties in connection with the collection of the state gasoline tax. Leo Lowe, director of the department of trade and commerce, made the announcement that W. W. Miller, superintendent of oil inspection, will take charge of the tax collections.

PETER MINUIT'S LAND PURCHASE MAKES PROFIT

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Old Peter Minuit's real estate investment, inspired by Dutch thrift, has provided a neat sum for the proverbial rainy day were Peter here to profit.

The land which Peter purchased for 60 guilders ($24 in later currency) today was assessed for tax purposes at $18,408,682,307. Personal property and other valuations of the holdings of those on the purchase bring the grand total to $24,909,729,247.

Old Peter long has gone to that bourne where gold does not matter. Gone, too, are the sellers of that choice bit of realty.

Rum Helped Seal Bargain.

For Peter bought with his guilders—and liberal noggins of Dutch rum and Holland gin—the island of Manhattan, the heart-center of New York. That was back in 1626! Now and then an Indian bobs up to lay legal claim that he is descendant of those noble red men who sold their heritage under the influence of the bargain sealing schnapps, but they can't make it stick in court.

The realty holdings in Manhattan Island increased $769,568,390 in assessed valuation during the year, but this increase is nearly a half a billion below the increase of the previous year.

Officials of the department of taxes and assessments comparing this year's increase with last year's increase of $1,253,702,357 said they had been compelled "to be conservative in making up the rolls on account of the general business depression and particularly the real estate slump."

Wall Street Gets Blame.

The descendants of the colonists of New Netherland—together with those who joined them later—suffered some severe setbacks during the year for which Wall street—that narrow lane which once wound through Dutch pastures—must bear the blame.

That makes for groans when it is estimated that the tax rate will be raised from 2.55 cents on the dollar to 2.71 cents.

John D. Rockefeller Sr. remains at the top of the personal estate list with an assessable valuation of $1,100,000, the same as last year. Arthur M. Huntington, John D. Rockefeller Jr., Harry Payne Whitney, and Cornelius Vanderbilt Sr. are listed at $500,000 each, their status unchanged from last year.

Gertrude V. Whitney and Helen Hay Whitney head the women in personal estates, with $500,000 each. Florence V. A. Twombly will pay on $350,000, Sarah Duke on $400,000, Louise Carnegie on $300,000, and Mary S. Harkness and Mary D. Biddle on $250,000 each.

In Manhattan Charles H. Tuttle, Republican nominee for governor, had a personal assessment on $20,000 and William H. Vanderbilt had an assessment of the same amount. William Randolph Hearst was assessed at $50,000 and Elihu Root, $2,500. Charles M. Schwab's rating was $25,000 and Jesse L. Lasky was listed at $7,500.

High Property Values.

The highest property valuation in the city is that fixed for 1931 on the United Electric Light and Power company in the Bronx, $49,860,000. For 1930 taxation purposes the value was fixed at $45,000,000. The new Lincoln building on 42d street has an assessed valuation of $20,500,000, the Chrysler building comes on the roll for the first time at $12,500,000, and Al Smith's Empire State building, now nearing completion, at $18,000,000. The Bank of Manhattan building, another new one, will pay on $25,500,000.

PRYOR CONFESSES HE POISONED WIFE FOR LOVE OF HER COUSIN

Martinsville, Ind., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A few hours after he had refused to enter a plea to an indictment charging him with murder for the death of his wife, Ernest Pryor, 32, tonight confessed that he planned to kill Mrs. Pryor so that she would not interfere in his love affair with her second cousin, Miss Elsie Ham.

Pryor stated that he gave his wife, Thelma, a large dose of poison on Aug. 18 and that the following day, when she appeared to be recovering, he administered another potion. She died soon afterward.

Pryor's statement said he was "ready to plead guilty and to throw myself upon the mercy of the court." When he refused to plead on arraignment today, Judge J. W. Williams entered a plea of not guilty for him, but no trial date was set.

POLICE PROBE "RANSOM" NOTE SENT TO WIFE

Police last night were investigating a supposed ransom letter received last Monday following the disappearance on Saturday of Marian A. Sensenbrenner, 28 years old, manager of Wolf's Jewelry shop, 4118 West Madison street.

Sensenbrenner was last seen when he stopped at his home at 4034 West End avenue and gave his wife a string of beads last Saturday morning. He was then on his way to the Garfield Boulevard bank to deposit $90. He never reached the bank.

Harry Iglow owner of the store, suggested that Sensenbrenner might have sent the letter himself. The letter addressed to "Mrs. Wolf," demanded that $1,100 be placed on top of a mail box at Karlov and West End avenues at 1 a. m.

Mrs. Sensenbrenner placed a decoy package as directed on three successive mornings, but they were not called for.

Dr. Chase Cheered by Chicago Alumni.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Harry Chase, new president of the University of Illinois, submitted himself to the scrutiny of a thousand Chicago graduates of that school in a Palmer house banquet room last evening and made an impression more solid than spectacular.

He thanked his hearers for their sedate approval and pointedly promised them that he would come back from time to time for their money. The promise was applauded.

The most quotable utterance in his leisurely talk on policies and needs was this:

"A state university is the best investment that a state makes for its future. It is a great insurance policy which the state takes out on its welfare and prosperity. It is the investment of one generation in the next."

Tells of Five Needs.

The university's five urgent needs, which he has been studying for months, President Chase listed in this order:

1. Strengthening of its Chicago departments, which comprise its college of medicine. "It is my prediction," he said, "that, if adequately supported, this college will within ten years be one of the world's greatest centers of research."

2. Enlargement and strengthening of the relations of the university's college of education with the public schools of the state, and the finding of a successor to the late Dean Chadsey.

Wants Great Art Museum.

3. Construction on the Urbana campus of a great art museum, and vigorous development of methods by which the university can become an authentic contributor to the esthetic life of the state and to the field of the fine arts in general.

4. Revision of the methods of instruction employed during the first two years of undergraduate life. "These problems," said the new president, "are perplexing. Nobody is satisfied. We must be open minded to everything that will make for improvement in this great field."

5. Creation of more loan funds for needy students and more funds for free scholarships. "Funds for student loans for this semester," he said, "have already been exhausted."

Need for Art Museum.

About the needed art museum Dr. Chase was especially insistent, saying:

"I know of no better investment for any one who wants to raise the level of art appreciation in Illinois than to put an art museum on the campus of the University of Illinois in the midst of the largest student population living on any single campus in the United States—and that means the world."

As successor to Dr. Kinley, the canny Scot who painlessly extracted millions upon millions from rural legislators, President Chase now shoulders responsibilities that comprise a student body of 15,000, a faculty of 1,500, and a biennial budget of nearly fourteen millions.

Young with Silvery Hair.

He is a young man—if 47 is young—with silvery white hair and a weighty presence.

Those who have been watching him narrowly at Urbana during the recent days of registration—which is the largest in the history of the school—say he has a sense of humor, but last night he held it pretty firmly in leash.

One observer from Urbana said to many of the banqueters, "He's all right. He kids along, and you can kid him along. He likes sports and says his golf game is the worst in the United States."

Dog Follows Him About.

It was also reported as a hopeful sign that Spot, his scrawny Scotch terrier, follows him all over the campus.

"Kinley," said one of the veterans of the faculty who came up from Urbana with the presidential party, "was adroit. Chase is adroit, too. Take this as proof: Already in one department after another of the university they are beginning to say, 'He's very much interested in our department.'"

President Chase wore a gray suit at the banquet and spoke without referring to notes a speech which he had dictated in the afternoon and to the text of which he adhered pretty closely. The opening story with which he craved the kind indulgence of Illinois was extra.

Comes as a Freshman.

"I come to you," he said, "a freshman in a very genuine sense. I am, too, somewhat in the position of the graduate of the law school of the University of North Carolina who was nevertheless a Republican, and who thought he would go to Texas to make his career. 'Is there,' he wrote to a lawyer friend in Texas, 'any opening in your state for a man who is an honest lawyer and a Republican?'

"Back came the answer by night letter, 'As an honest lawyer you will meet with no competition and as a Republican you will be protected by the Texas game laws.'

"Tonight, ladies and gentlemen, as a man Massachusetts-born and coming to you after twenty years in North Carolina, I throw myself upon the protection of the Illinois game laws."

What Is College For?

Reaching the "but-speaking-seriously" stage of his address to the Chicago alumni, President Chase asked the question, "Are too many students going to colleges and universities?"

He said a good many people were asking that question. Well, the answer, he thought, depended on what you think colleges and universities are for. If their prime object is to enable people to make more money and be go-getters, then, indeed, are too many students seeking them. Nor is their prime object to train "leaders."

"Not everybody," he said, "can be a leader, and not everybody wants to be a go-getter. No, the comprehensive function of a university is to make cultivated men and women who can get the richness out of life and put some riches back into life.

"That is what may be called the function of a state university as a social instrument—this raising of the general level of understanding and good will among the citizens of the state as a whole.

Will Live Better Lives.

"Scores of thousands of people are going to live fuller and richer and better lives because they have known the influence of our university for four years or even less.

"They have come in contact with ideas.

"They have been stimulated in accomplished ways. Their horizons have been broadened, and they go back to their communities better citizens, better men and women, and in a better position to coöperate in the great experiment of American life."

Cites Own Experience.

He cited his own observations as teacher for ten years and as president for ten years in the University of North Carolina as proof of what he called "the social value of education to a commonwealth."

"It is beyond question," he said, "that in a state like North Carolina the amazing recovery in the last decade or so has been due to the fact that thirty years ago there were men who went about preaching that the southern people were too poor not to educate, and that the way back to prosperity and happiness lay through the upbuilding of a system of education for the commonwealth.

"The more progressive of the southern states today are testimony to the fact that education is an investment that brings tremendous returns."

Those in Receiving Line.

In the receiving line which presented the guest of the evening to the Chicago alumni and alumnæ were:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Trees, Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Robert F. Carr, Howard Hare, Miss Alice Howe, and Senator Richard Barr.

In his speech of introduction Mr. Carr said: "In addition to his educational accomplishments, nature and God have done a great deal for our new president. He has, I mean, a gracious personality—and a charming wife."

MARRIAGE LICENSES DROP 12% IN FIRST 9 MONTHS OF 1930

Marriage license figures made public yesterday by County Clerk Robert Sweitzer show that during the first nine months of 1930 28,868 licenses were issued, a decrease of 4,108 over the same period in 1929. In only one month of this year has the number of licenses exceeded that for the corresponding month in 1929. The monthly figures for both years are as follows:

January	2,822	2,634
February	2,621	2,677
March	2,479	2,111
April	2,560	2,792
May	3,900	3,570
June	5,615	4,949
July	3,692	3,217
August	4,637	3,763
September	3,950	3,205
Totals	32,976	28,868

The decrease is approximately 12.5 per cent. Mr. Sweitzer gave it as his opinion that hard times is to a large part responsible for the decline.

CUBAN STUDENT DIES OF WOUNDS IN STREET RIOT

HAVANA, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Rafael Trejo, one of the students wounded yesterday during an anti-government demonstration in the streets of Havana, died tonight. Trejo's death had been preceded earlier in the night by the issuance of a manifesto by President Machado approving the action of the police in breaking up yesterday's disturbances. He added that the majority of the rioters were communists and not students.

Ecuador Cabinet Quits, Returns.

QUITO, Ecuador, Oct. 1.—(AP)—A round robin of resignations—and their cancellations—was completed today. First, President Isidro Ayora, who told congress two days ago he was "irrevocably" through with his job, announced he was willing to carry on until the end of his term in 1933. Then Ayora's cabinet resigned in a body, so he could have a clear board for the game of politics. Today the president issued a decree nullifying the resignations.

Yrigoyen May Be Sent to Spain.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 1.—(AP)—It became known in official circles tonight that Spain has been chosen tentatively as the country where former President Yrigoyen will live in exile. The deposed president was transferred to the cruiser Buenos Aires today.

Japan Takes 2d Census; Figure 89,000,000 Persons

TOKIO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Japan today was taking stock of her man power. Early this morning a quarter million census takers began collecting data from papers carefully prepared beforehand in each household in the empire's second decennial census. Preliminary estimates stated the census would show the population of Japan proper at about 63,500,000 and the whole empire at about 89,000,000.

Vehicle Tag Income in 9 Months Exceeds All of '29

The revenues from the sale of city vehicle tags during the first nine months of this year netted the city $5,238,094, or $100,080 more than during all of last year, according to the report made yesterday by City Collector Eller. The reports shows that the collector's office has issued city tags to 405,484 passenger automobiles as compared to the 402,098 in 1929.

"NOW I EAT WHAT I LIKE," POPULAR WOMAN DECLARES

One after another, men and women all over this part of the country are coming right out in public to tell others about this simple method to end indigestion, and the gas; nausea, heartburn, headaches, etc., it causes.

Just the other day, Mrs. C. H. Brown, popular mother of three, who lives at 1407 E. 88th St., Cleveland, Ohio, enthusiastically declared: "At last I have found real relief for indigestion. I eat what I like now without fear of that old, heavy feeling of stuffiness or of headaches and nervousness.

"I suffered with indigestion for eight years; tried all sorts of medicines and treatments without success. But the first few tablets of Pape's Diapepsin convinced me it was the thing I needed. The stuffy feeling, headaches and nervousness after meals just disappeared. I am sure grateful to our doctor who got me started on it."

Pape's Diapepsin is perfectly harmless; will not form any habit. Get a box from your druggist; and next time something disagrees, chew one of the candy-like tablets. JACK DONAHUE, STAGE HOOFER AND WIT, DEAD

Reluctantly Leaves Show for Deathbed.

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Jack Donahue, whose dancing feet and Irish wit brought him fame and fortune on the musical comedy stage, died at his home on Central Park West today. He was 38 years old.

The actor, always a good trouper, hastened his own death by devotion to the slogan, "The show must go on." He had suffered from sinus infection while touring with "Sons o' Guns." Overwork, coupled with a weakened condition, caused by other ailments, made him collapse last Thursday in Cincinnati. He was forced by physicians to leave the show and come on to New York for treatment.

End Comes Suddenly.

The end came suddenly. The immediate cause of death was heart disease and a chronic kidney ailment, it was announced. He was also said to have suffered from high blood pressure.

Donahue was born in Charlestown, Mass., in 1892, but it was his custom, instead of saying he was 38, to say he way born in "one of those years before the Maine was sunk."

He started as a hoofer at the age of 11, dancing in a medicine show run by one Dr. Fleming, who promised him $7 a week and "cakes" and did actually give him the latter.

From this he graduated to burlesque and vaudeville. He married Alice Stewart, one of his early dancing partners, and was the father of three girls, Alma, Barbara, and Constance Marylin.

Arrives on Broadway.

He made his Broadway debut in "Hitchy Koo," with the late Raymond Hitchcock and then came back to Broadway in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1920. He played also in "Two Little Girls in Blue," "Molly Darling," "Be Yourself," "Sunny," "Rosalie," and, finally, "Sons o' Guns."

Donahue was a writer as well as an actor. He helped write his last show and with Philip Dunning wrote the play, "The Understudy." He always wrote his vaudeville acts and he taught himself, just as he taught himself to dance. Recently, he had started writing for magazines also. The "cracks" he made as his feet tapped the boards were the products of his natural wit.

Commanded Large Income.

It has been estimated that in his last show he was paid about $10 per tap for his tap dancing, and his royalties from writing threatened to eclipse his earnings as an actor. He also had gone into the production field, and he was co-sponsor of "Lost Sheep," now playing in Chicago.

He danced for the love of it as well as for profit, and one of his favorite recreations was an all night dancing spree with Johnny Boyle and Harland Dixon, whom he considered better dancers than himself.

He never had any temperamental difficulties with co-stars in his shows and he was generally considered one of the most likable and natural stars on Broadway. He and George M. Cohan were looked upon as the last of the old time "hoofers."

Funeral services will be held Friday morning.

Second All Colored Fire Company Is Being Formed

The second fire fighting company of which all the firemen are colored men is being organized by Fire Commissioner Goodrich and will be installed in the department as hook and ladder company No. 11 at 9 East 36th place on Oct. 16. Announcement of the new company was made by Goodrich yesterday after a conference at which Mayor Thompson approved the plan. The other colored company is located at 35th street and Rhodes avenue. It is engine company No. 19.

CHICAGO YOUTH IS ARRESTED IN SLAYING OF GIRL

Held for Questioning in South Bend Case.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Authorities investigating the murder of Alice Woltman, 17 year old schoolgirl, slain three weeks ago while she slept in her home, tonight were holding Henry Siwinski, a Chicago youth, for questioning about his relations with the girl and her older sisters.

Siwinski, 22 years old, was traced to Chicago and arrested in his home there at 5639 South Sawyer avenue early today after he had been identified as the youth who is said to have stood beside the Woltman girl's coffin and remarked, "You'll know better the next time."

Siwinski denied having made the statement, although the authorities said he acknowledged having been in South Bend at the time of the murder and having visited the home during the funeral. He formerly worked here and was understood to have been friendly with Henrietta Woltman, older sister of Alice. Henrietta declined to discuss her acquaintance with Siwinski, although she said she felt assured that he was in no way implicated in the slaying.

Identified by Girl's Friend.

Siwinski was identified by Joseph Pietrzak, a friend of the Woltman girls and brother of Alex Pietrzak, who said he and Alice had been engaged to marry. Joseph accompanied the South Bend authorities to Chicago and accused Siwinski of making the unusual remark at the funeral. Several other persons were reported to have heard the statement and are to be summoned by Capt. Horace Hamilton, chief of detectives, to view Siwinski.

The Chicago youth waived extradition and voluntarily accompanied the officials here for examination. He was placed in jail under an open charge. Coroner C. B. Crumpacker and State's Attorney Harry Taylor are to confer with Capt. Hamilton concerning what action, if any, is to be taken against Siwinski.

The investigators said Siwinski left South Bend shortly after the Woltman funeral and was sought for several days before he was found in Chicago.

House Known to Slayer.

Siwinski's acquaintance with the Woltman girls, authorities said, would have given him the opportunity to become familiar with their home. They pointed out that the slayer would have had to know his way about the house in order to have committed the crime.

The slayer gained entrance through a second floor bedroom window, crept through that room into another bedroom where Alice slept, and slashed her throat as she slept in a bed adjoining another in which two younger brothers were sleeping.

The grand jury tomorrow is expected to consider the evidence against George Meyers, a painter, who is held in the state prison at Michigan City under a charge of murdering Marverine Apple, 8 years old, who was raped and murdered just two weeks before the Woltman girl was slain. Meyers is supposed to have confessed. Acquaintances of his said he was not mentally sound.

Mother Seeks Son's Release.

Siwinski's mother came to South Bend this afternoon and instituted efforts to obtain her son's release on bond. The authorities said, however, that Siwinski would not be booked on any charge before tomorrow and that no bond could be provided until after he was charged. The Indiana authorities are allowed to hold a suspect without charges for 24 hours for the purposes of investigation, the police officials said.

4 YEARS BALLOT RECORD ON BONDS IS LARGELY 'NO'

Public Attitude Is Shown on Referendums.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Sixty-nine bond issues, totaling $276,040,000, have been submitted to the voters of Chicago in the last four years. Only $98,170,000 has received approval. That is approximately 35.7 per cent.

In the last three years popular expressions on bond issues have become more emphatically negative. In those three years $221,250,000 in bonds have been submitted on referendums and the voters have indorsed only $43,920,000, or 19.8 per cent.

The record of the city alone on bond issues in the last three years shows even a smaller percentage of approvals. Of the $148,130,000 submitted by the city proper, only $19,420,000, or 13.1 per cent, has been approved.

In the face of this, $42,520,000 in bond proposals will be submitted to the voters on Nov. 4. Of this total, $14,000,000 is sponsored by the state legislature for forest preserves, recreation spots, fish and game preserves. It is estimated that the fees from fishing and hunting will pay the interest on these bonds and eventually pay off the bonds; but to insure the marketability of the bonds at a low interest rate, the full credit of the state is placed behind them.

The city is fathering 10 issues totaling $20,670,000. The money to pay interest on these and all other bond issues to be submitted must come from taxes. Last week the county board decided upon an issue of $2,500,000 to improve the forest preserves, and yesterday they proposed another issue of $2,350,000 to provide a nurses' home for the county hospital.

The remaining $3,000,000 in bonds is an issue by the Lincoln park commission to extend the filled-in land north of Montrose avenue. The Lincoln park board is the only government submitting a bond issue at the next election which has not been turned down by the voters in the last three years.

Delay Sanitary Issue.

Certain public officials believe that the tide has turned sufficiently in favor of public improvements to insure approval of the bond issues to be voted upon Nov. 4. Other officials hold the opposite view. The trustees of the sanitary district need an estimated $40,000,000 to comply with the federal government's orders on sewage disposal in the next two years, but the trustees decided to defer a vote until next February or April.

The south park commission desires several millions to make improvements and prepare some boulevard entrances to the south and east for the world's fair; but that body also delayed its offering until next spring.

The west park board is understood to desire cash for improvements but believes that the time for bonds is inopportune.

Boulevard Bonds Rejected.

The $20,000,000 bond issue for a superboulevard of the west parks was turned down by the voters. The last bonds submitted by the south park commission won by such a narrow margin that the validity of the approval was contested in court for several months. The drainage trustees obtained authority to issue their last bonds, without a referendum, because, as they frankly told the legislature, they were afraid that the people would not approve of them, although the bonds are needed to obey the order of the federal government.

In fact, during the three year period there have been few persons who denied the need of the improvements for which bonds were sought. The opposition arguments have been of a different character. Previous to 1928 a very large percentage of the bonds submitted to the people were approved. The record since that time is as follows:

Year—	Approved.	Disapproved.
1930	$19,420,000	$ 5,400,000
1929	5,000,000	44,696,000
1928	19,500,000	127,234,000
Totals	$43,920,000	$177,330,000

1929	None	15,876,000
1928	None	104,434,000
Totals	$19,420,000	$125,710,000

The last city bond approved was at the primary of last spring. The previous occasion when the voters approved of city bonds was at the mayoralty election, April 5, 1927, when 13 issues, totaling $21,900,000, were approved.

BUCK, YOUNG FLYER, REACHES AMARILLO AFTER A HARD TRIP

Amarillo, Tex., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Robert Buck, Elizabeth, N. J., 16 year old flyer seeking to lower the junior transcontinental speed record now held by Eddie Schneider, arrived here at 1:07 p. m. (central standard time) today, after a discouraging trip from Wichita, Kas.

He decided to spend the night here instead of continuing to Albuquerque, N. M., as planned, when weather charts looked unfavorable.

He took off from Wichita at 8:55 a. m. (central standard time), but was forced to return to the field there 15 minutes later on account of low oil pressure. He took to the air for his second departure at 10:05 a. m. (central standard time).

The youth said his time from Wichita to Amarillo was lengthened fully one hour by strong head winds and necessary detours around storm clouds.

POPE WILL SEND ENVOY TO ATTEND AFRICA CROWNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 1.—The holy see today announced it will send a pontifical mission extraordinary to attend the coronation of Ras Taffari as emperor of Abyssinia next month. The mission will probably be headed by Msgr. Valeri, apostolic delegate to Egypt.

The Vatican also announced today that a special mission will be sent to Rumania to attend the coronation ceremonies of King Carol.

Relations between the Vatican and Abyssinia have been particularly cordial. Ras Taffari recently paid a visit to the pontiff, and in return the Vatican sent a pontifical mission to Abyssinia headed by Marchetti Cardinal Selvaggiani bearing rich gifts. Abyssinians are Coptic Christians.

VESUVIUS HURLS FLAMING ROCKS 300 FEET IN AIR

NAPLES, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The volcano Vesuvius burst into eruption tonight, throwing burning rocks 300 feet into the air and arousing the inhabitants for many miles around. The director of the Vesuvius observatory said there was no immediate danger from the lava flow, but the people continued to maintain a watchful attitude late into the night.

Shifting of the crater about sixty feet produced two fountains of lava, which are casting flaming streams into the sky. Thousands of Neapolitans and foreigners have gathered on the neighboring hills to watch the progress of the tremendous display.

Vesuvius has been more or less disturbed since early in the summer.

Charged with Laziness—

Guilty Simply of Acidity

More than one man today is misjudged and unjustly penalized because of a not understood physical condition rather than any lack of willingness or ability.

So many of us are only half ourselves, only fifty per cent efficient, because we are victims of an insidious condition of acidity! That persistent tired feeling—that clouded mind—that lack of dash and fire—that missing punch that decides so many situations in business—are all usually due to an acid system.

Acidity is brought on by our unnatural eating, excessive smoking and irregular hours. It impairs digestion, and causes fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines and drags us down physically and mentally.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole.

Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active oxygen. Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

Make This Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this acid test: Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If, after taking contents of one bottle, you don't notice a decided improvement in your health, return the bottle to your druggist and he will refund your money.

OIL ACCUSATIONS IN COLORADO TO BE INVESTIGATED

Department of Justice to Sift Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Attorney General William D. Mitchell today announced that his department will investigate the Kelley charges that large oil companies are attempting to obtain possession of billions of dollars' worth of public oil shale lands in Colorado to which they have no legal claim. The inquiry, Mr. Mitchell said, would be conducted by Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson.

The department of justice investigation was ordered after Secretary of the Interior Wilbur had requested the attorney general to look into allegations made by Ralph S. Kelley, chief of the interior department's general land office in Denver.

Sees Misfeasance Charge.

In his communication to the attorney general Mr. Wilbur pointed out that Kelley had charged the interior department with misfeasance and failure to protect properly vast oil shale reserves from efforts by large companies to obtain titles to them "by fraud."

"I have received a request from the secretary of the interior to examine into the charges made by Mr. Kelley," Attorney General Mitchell said in announcing the inquiry. "The request of the secretary will be complied with. The matter has been placed in the hands of Assistant Attorney General Richardson of the public lands division."

Thorough Quiz Planned.

Richardson said later that he would conduct a thorough investigation, "allowing the ball to roll where it will." Mr. Richardson is a close friend of Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman of the public lands committee, who is also planning to look into the Kelley charges.

Kelley in his letter charged the interior department had granted concession after concession to the oil interests because of "great political and other pressure," brought to bear on the secretary.

202D ARTILLERY FACES SHAKEUP BY NEW COLONEL

National Guard Officer Asks Resignations.

A shakeup in the 202d coast artillery, Illinois National Guard, is proposed by the new regimental commander, Col. Charles G. Dawes. This was indicated yesterday with the disclosure that he demanded the resignation of two majors and two captains and is contemplating action against other officers.

Col. Dawes had left for New York when reports of the shakeup move were received, but one of the captains getting the ax has already turned in his resignation, according to an officer of the anti-aircraft unit.

Kraft Indicted by U. S.

The 202d coast artillery, with headquarters at the Broadway armory, was formerly headed by Col. Charles J. Kraft, whose indictment by the federal government in July disclosed an alleged $200,000 Illinois National Guard scandal. The true bill charges that Kraft conspired "with persons unknown to the grand jurors" to put through false claims for battery mechanics, and that he employed men on federal pay to do his private work at the armory, which was rented for athletic events. This situation had been in existence for several years, according to the indictment.

The indictment of Col. Kraft was followed by reports that extraordinary efforts had been made by high Illinois National Guard officials to remove Arthur R. Johnson, army investigator, from the inquiry. Reports that Col. C. L. Corbin of the army quartermaster depot told Johnson he could quit his job or let the Kraft case alone were made the basis of an inquiry by the war department. Johnson was demoted to a clerical rôle by Col. Corbin and his reinstatement was ordered by Acting Secretary of War Payne.

Emmerson Orders Removal.

Col. Kraft was relieved of his command last March under orders of Gov. Emmerson, after Johnson had recommended such action. There were reports that the suspension of two other officers was asked at the same time, but that Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the guard, announced they would be spared because a certain officer had expressed high confidence in their integrity.

The Kraft scandal is not the only one that has stigmatized the 202d coast artillery. In the fall of 1927, Capt. J. Leland Bass of the army headquarter corps was tried by a court martial on charges of mishandling confiscated government alcohol.

The evidence purported to show that 40,000 gallons of this alcohol was hauled on army trucks to the Broadway armory, and that some of it found its way to a Joe Saltis booze headquarters on 22d street. Capt. Roy E Davis was one of the officers of the anti-aircraft unit accused during the inquiry.

JERSEY COMMUTERS WILL PAY 3½ CENTS MORE A RIDE NOV. 1

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—New Jersey commuters' fares between Hoboken, Montclair, and the Oranges will be increased aproximately three and one-half cents a ride, effective Nov. 1, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad announced today.

The increase is based on the "expensive" electrification of this branch of the line now nearing completion.

While the chambers of commerce of Orange, Maplewood, and the business men of Montclair have signified their belief that the rate rise is fair, in view of the improvements, the mayors of East Orange and Orange have announced that they will fight the increase.

MRS. McCORMICK QUIZZES LEWIS ON WORLD COURT

Dares Him to Say He Opposes It.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Ruth Hanna McCormick challenged her Democratic opponent for senator, James Hamilton Lewis, tonight to state whether, if elected, he will vote for the resolution to adhere to the world court.

The challenge came during an invasion of ancient Democratic strongholds in the river counties by the Republican caravan. Mrs. McCormick, riding the circuit in a car with her daughter Katryna and her chauffeur spoke at Pittsfield and here, while the other Republican orators scattered in squads into four other cities.

Mrs. McCormick declared she refused to agree with Mr. Lewis that "he's the better man." She said if her opponent is against the world court she'd like to know the reason he "changed his mind" on the league of nations.

Calls Court Vital Issue.

"My distinguished and eloquent opponent, Mr. Lewis," said Mrs. McCormick, "says I'm trying to resurrect a dead issue. On the contrary, the league of nations is as live an issue as ever it was, only it is being presented in different form. It is embraced in the pending resolution in congress for adherence to the permanent court of international justice of the league of nations. Today I understand Mr. Lewis is not an advocate of the world court. But he's still for the league of nations.

"I am asking him what his position is going to be, should he be elected, which he won't be, on joining the world court. How will he cast his vote?

"Woodrow Wilson was the great exponent of an internationalistic foreign policy, as against the nationalistic policy of the Republicans. He was the great advocate of the league of nations, and Mr. Lewis, then in the senate, was Woodrow Wilson's whip on the senate floor and the spokesman for the Wilson policies.

Basic Democratic Policy.

"The Democrats in the senate today believe in that foreign policy as much as they did then; they still hold to the Democratic idea of taking America into the league of nations, by the back door, if not the front door.

"They are for the world court, and I believe not more than one Democratic senator will vote against the resolutions."

At Pittsfield, in Pike county, traditionally Democratic and dry, Mrs. McCormick addressed a throng said to be about half Republicans and Democrats and her utterances on the liquor issue and referendum got the applause. Courthouse politicians on the outside reported dry Democrats to be splitting away from the party on the liquor issue and to be talking in favor of Mrs. McCormick's position. At Hillsboro, in Montgomery county, last night a similar cleavage was spoken of by political leaders, some Democrats of prominence wearing McCormick badges.

Opponents Cross Trails.

The trails of the candidates crossed at Springfield during the night and the capital was a vortex of politics. Mrs. McCormick in Hillsboro and Mr. Lewis at Carlinville spoke in adjoining counties and each drew a great crowd.

"This estimable and elegant gentleman," said Mr. Smith, "is the Don Quixote of this campaign, tilting at the liquor referendum. He says a democracy should be democratic, and that the voice of the people is the vote of God, yet he, by opposing the referendum, would deny the people the right of expressing themselves."

Senator Otis F. Glenn devoted himself to the "assistant Democrats" in his speeches, saying what Washington needs is more real Republican senators. He said voices now loudest on the "Grundyized tariff" tied up with Democrats in the coalition and impeded the Republican administration.

Lights Into Radicals.

"There is Norris. He was a candidate at Kansas City and failed to get more than the Nebraska vote, so he turned and stumped for Al Smith.

"You all know Borah. He stumped the country for Hoover, and lo and behold, the first day after the inauguration Borah began to fight Hoover and shackle his legislation in the senate. He always goes around with a lightning rod hoisted, hoping some day the nomination may strike his way."

FIRE DAMAGES NORTH SIDE CAFE.

PERSONAL PHYSICIAN TO KING GEORGE IS HERE ON U. S. TOUR

Lord Dawson, who is accompanied by Lady Dawson and their daughter, Rosemarie, said he was "seeing America as most Americans see Europe." They will leave today for New York.

"The king has completely recovered and has no need of physicians now," said Lord Dawson, who left England several months ago to attend medical conventions in Canada.

Lord Dawson visited the administration building of the American College of Surgeons as the guest of Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director general, and while there indicated that he would have his portrait done by an American artist. When shown the portraits of Dr. John Finney and Dr. Rudolph Matas, distinguished surgeons known to him, Lord Dawson praised the works and took down the name of the artist, John W. Corner of Baltimore.

The king's physician said he liked Chicago for its "sociability, optimism, and enterprise."

Candidate for Senator Speaks in Alton.

Alton, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—"Ruth Hanna McCormick and the political ship scuttlers of the Chicago city hall are in a combination to elect the Cook county machine, and eventually reelect William Hale Thompson as mayor of Chicago," James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for United States senator, declared in an address here tonight.

"The lady candidate of the Chicago city hall stated in this county yesterday," Mr. Lewis declared, "that while she is a dry, personal, practical and political, she will follow the vote of the referendum of the Chicago city hall when she knows that the city hall is prepared to manipulate the ballot box to declare for such things as will establish enough wet votes on which to float this county ticket to some place of harbor while they drop the lady, on the ground that her personal intention is to trick them while they are trying to trick her."

"The time has come," Lewis declared in his attack on prohibition, "when Illinois must be a new state in her politics. The Republican organization of Illinois is the only Republican body that is now living its life in the yesterdays of 20 years ago.

"I charge you to look and see how, with the approval of the Republican President, New York turns out of control their old guard against which Roosevelt first opened the fight for reform. New York Republicans have nominated the United States district attorney for governor on his resignation to the President on the ground that the national prohibition law was impossible of enforcement, because of the political machine which corrupted temperance and deprived the people of an honest government.

"Pennsylvania, with the approval of the Republican President, puts out the old force that dominated the Republican party with Tory retroactive policy. Dwight Morrow carried every county of New Jersey on the Illinois Democratic platform. Wisconsin has just given proof of her retention of Democratic principles."

Speaks in Madison County.

Edwardsville, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, Democratic senatorial candidate, spent today in Madison county, third largest in the state, which is expected to be one of the deciding factors in the November election. The county ordinarily gives Republican candidates majorities up to six or seven thousand votes.

The former senator made two talks in Madison county. An afternoon meeting was held at the Madison county courthouse. At night he spoke at the Alton city hall. Pauses were made at the several small cities in the oil industrial center south of Alton.

Mr. Lewis criticized the Republican national administration from several angles. He discussed the shipbuilding program of the government. He said that the vessels built at a cost of thirty millions were sold to a ship monopoly for three millions.

Silent on World Court.

No mention was made of the world court or league of nations. He did discuss the general conditions of Germany, France, England, Russia, and Italy.

He also urged revision of present prohibition for state regulation.

"A survey shows that in this Christian land 500,000 officers of the law have been created and you paid 490 million dollars to maintain these officers on account of two million outlaws.

"A report from the New York homicide bureau shows that nothing has done more to promote murder than the alleged traffic in liquor.

"A remedy would be a return to a condition before and Illinois should prescribe alcoholic drinks to give people, either to the individual or family, and charge a revenue.

"At some central point the grain should be distilled and Illinois should be supplying the government. The state should get a revenue and the farmer who is selling the grain should put the money in his pocket."

LEAGUE FAILS TO LINK COVENANT WITH PEACE PACT

(Copyright: 1930: By The New York Times.)

GENEVA, Oct. 1.—Hopes of action this year on amendments linking the Kellogg peace pact with the league of nations covenant practically ended tonight, when a subcommittee decided to advise the first commission to adjourn the matter until next year, meanwhile resubmitting the project for new suggestions. The British, who fathered the proposal for linking the two instruments, made a three hour stand for it tonight.

Meanwhile the commission itself decided to adjourn all various proposals for continuing the work of The Hague conference for codification of international law until the 1931 assembly, so that the governments will have more time to study them.

Proposals, postponed until 1931, include one by Orestes Ferrara, Cuban ambassador to Washington, which asks the council to examine the desirability of reopening the question of the nationality of married women. Organized women, led by Alice Paul of New York, are backing this proposal.

SOME DRYS DEFY REFERENDUM IN REPLIES TO POLL

Time to Answer Queries Ends Saturday Noon.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Although in an extremely small minority some of the dry members of the general assembly who are candidates for reelection on Nov. 4 say they will ignore a wet mandate from the people if one results from the referendum on the repeal of the Illinois prohibition law which will be held in the same election.

Most of the arid drys, particularly those in districts where there are only three nominees whose election, because of this limition of entries, is considered certain, chose to ignore the questionnaire sent to them by THE TRIBUNE. The first of two questions was whether the candidate favored repeal of the Illinois enforcement act. The second was whether he would favor it if the vote of his district on Nov. 4 favored repeal.

Some of the Replies.

One form of reply to this request for information for the guidance of voters—only a few of this kind being received—was typified by the response of Representative Anna Wilmarth Ickes of Winnekn, who, after failing to return her questionnaire, answered a telegram with this response:

"I was nominated as a dry in the primaries by a large majority. I have not changed my position since."

Other types were exemplified by the following:

"Am not interested in referendums to save face of Ruth Hanna McCormick and CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"F. W. Lewis, Robinson, Ill."

"You've got a lot of nerve to ask any one whether they are wet or dry after the way your pet candidate straddles. Why not be on both sides like Mrs. McCormick? Print this among your replies.

"Frank W. McClure, Abingdon, Ill."

"James C. Mayor, LaHarpe, Ill."

From Evanston Legislator.

In contrast with the brevity of these messages was the telegraphic (collect) reply of Representative Ralph E. Church of Evanston which ran 390 words and which said that he did not feel bound by the result of the referendum in his district. His answer said:

"In accordance with your request, I submit to you the following statement which you state you desire to publish:

"Do you favor repeal of the Illinois prohibition law? No.

"Will you favor repeal of the Illinois prohibition law if the vote of your district in the state referendum on Nov. 4 favors repeal? Not as long as the eighteenth amendment is a part of the constitution of the United States. My oath of office is to 'support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Illinois.' To vote in the general assembly to repeal the Illinois prohibition law, without providing another enforcement act, would be a violation of my oath of office.

"Furthermore, no representative in the general assembly, whether he be wet or dry, Republican or Democrat, need ever feel compelled to vote according to the majority vote in any referendum or election; since such compulsion, if it existed in theory or practice, would be in direct contradiction of the principle of minority representation provided for in the constitution of the state of Illinois [article 4, sections 7 and 8], whereby a minority in any district may always, through the progress of cumulative voting, elect one representative of the three required from each district, and thus secure expression and protection of the minority interests.

"Often each of the three representatives from a district properly represents separate minorities, none of the three having been elected by a majority vote.

The Nov. 4 Referendum.

"In the coming referendum, should the three representatives in a senatorial district agree to follow the majority vote, a large minority, whether wet or dry, will thereby be denied its representation specifically provided for by the Illinois constitution."

The questionnaires were sent to all the Republican and Democratic nominees for congress and for both houses of the general assembly on Aug. 2. On Sept. 25 telegrams were sent to all of those who had not replied reminding them of the questionnaire and asking if they wished to answer.

The list of replies will be closed at noon next Saturday, Oct. 4, and the complete tabulation of the answers and the names of those who did not reply or refused to do so will be published on Sunday, Oct. 5.

VIRGINIA OPPONENT OF GLASS DECLARES RASKOBISM IS ISSUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—"Raskobism" is being revived as an issue in Virginia, where J. Cloyd Byars, who practices law in this city, is running as an independent Democratic candidate for United States senator against Senator Carter Glass, who was nominated by the Democrats for reelection. Mr. Byars is seeking to rally to his support the remnant of the forces which have been led in past campaigns by Bishop James Cannon Jr.

In a letter addressed to John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, Mr. Byars today called upon him to keep out of the Virginia campaign.

"There exists in Virginia a unique political situation, a contest for the seat in the United States senate between two factions of the Democratic party," said Mr. Byars' letter.

"I must remind you that over one hundred thousand Virginia Democrats openly repudiated your leadership and that of Senator Glass in 1928, and perhaps as many more stayed away from the polls for the same reasons."

Mr. Byars said the Democrats with whom he is affiliated "do not believe in Tammany methods in state or national affairs."

Regular Democrats make light of the Byars candidacy and declare that Senator Glass will be reelected by a large majority. Mr. Byars, however, expects to get considerable Republican aid. There is no indication that Bishop Cannon will take an active hand in the campaign.

STATE W. C. T. U. NOT TO INDORSE ANY CANDIDATE

Vote on Referendum, Members Told.

Edwardsville, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—"We cannot indorse any candidates, as we have a national organization composing Republicans and Democrats," Miss Helen Hood of Chicago, president of the Illinois W. C. T. U., stated in her annual address at the fifty-sixth annual convention of the union here today.

"While no candidate can be indorsed," she continued, "we must create an atmosphere in the various districts to have them dry and we must have a dry referendum. We need all the votes we can get to vote 'no' on the repeal questions. Letters will be sent to ministers and leaders in women's clubs.

"I believe prohibition has been a good work. I believe the wets are in the minority. All good Americans should stand by the law.

"We are standing by President Hoover in his law enforcement program, and we urge women to keep on standing by him."

Vote, Urges This Speaker.

Mrs. Florence Richards of Toledo, president of the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance union, was the principal speaker of the convention. Tonight, at a banquet, she discussed "Problems of the Hour." Tomorrow she will address 1,200 Madison county school teachers here on the liquor question as applied to the school children.

"Wets talk about prohibition producing crime," said Mrs. Richards during her discourse. "Then, what about the crime waves of England and France, may I ask? Over there certainly crime is not a result of prohibition.

"The W. C. T. U. has worked fifty-six years to secure prohibition, and I intend encouraging everybody to keep right on. I will have no sympathy for those who fail to vote on the referendum at the November election."

Colorado W. C. T. U. Elects.

Longmont, Colo., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Adrianna Hungerford was reelected president of the Colorado Women's Christian Temperance union today by a vote of 275. Her opponent, Mrs. F. I. Smith of Denver, nominated by insurgents who hoped to unseat Mrs. Hungerford, polled 100 votes.

The election was quiet following disorders of yesterday which police were called to quell.

WOMAN VICTIM OF GOLF SWING LOSES IN SUIT

A jury in Superior Judge Fitch's court yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty in the $25,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Marie Finn, 11 North Waller avenue, against Mrs. Alice Barber, 254 Keystone avenue, River Forest.

Mrs. Finn testified she had lost the sight of an eye as the result of being struck by a golf club swung by Mrs. Barber during a match three years ago on a Wheaton golf course. Mrs. Barber declared she had followed through in the correct professional manner, but that Mrs. Finn, her companion, had accidentally stepped into the way. The jury was out only five minutes.

STATE IN REVOLT AGAINST G. O. P., DIETERICH SAYS

Tells County Democrats Victory Is Possible.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Starred at the weekly luncheon of the Cook County Democratic organization, William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, nominee for congressman at large, told his Chicago audience that the downstate territory through which he has been traveling is in revolt against Republicanism.

"If 25 per cent of the expression that one hears downstate finds its way into the ballot box," he said, "the whole Democratic ticket will be elected.

"It takes a long time for the minority party to break down to a serious extent the ranks of the majority party, but such a break is manifest this year. Conditions have torn from the ranks of the Republican party the great agricultural sections of Illinois, and there'll be no change in their attitude between now and election day."

Hurls Charges at G. O. P.

Former Judge Dieterich charged that the Republican party has destroyed the usefulness of the federal reserve act, that it has abused the protective tariff in order to obtain campaign contributions, that its management of the financial affairs of the nation has led to an average of one bank failure a day, to the liquidation of countless numbers of business enterprises and to bankruptcy sales among the farmers throughout the country.

"This situation," he said, "is absolutely due to the policies the Republican party has followed.

Because of his already proclaimed attitude as a wet, Dieterich devoted only a brief time to the prohibition issue.

"The whole nation," he said, "is coming to realize that under the guise of laws to improve the morals of the people there have been passed laws which have bred 101 poisonous distillations that are destructive of both mind and morals.

"The record of prohibition has at last driven the temperate people of this state into revolt."

Igoe Speaks on Mayor.

The next speaker, Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, said that while the issues of which Dieterich had spoken affect the entire state the special issue in Cook county is William Hale Thompson.

"It is," he said, "whether the rule of the gangster and the hoodlum is to prevail any longer under William Hale Thompson."

Igoe charged that the whole purpose of the Republican county organization in seeking to elect its nominees on Nov. 4 is to gain political power that will enable it to renominate and reelect Thompson next spring. He referred to what Republicans have asserted was a canard, a rumor of a new Thompson boom based on a conference of city lawyers to discuss some phases of the judicial election, and then to a recent meeting of the Republican county managing committee where Thompson appeared unexpectedly.

He quoted from an imaginary speech of the mayor on that occasion:

"This is my committee, these are my candidates and I'm going to run this campaign from now on," was what Igoe said the mayor said in this imaginary speech.

Hits at Mrs. McCormick.

Then Igoe charged Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee for United States senator, with being in open alliance with a city hall organization.

"Let us brand her now," he said, "not as the Republican candidate but as the city hall candidate."

Headquarters for the several Democratic nominees for local offices will be opened on the second, third and fourth floors of the City Hall Square building Saturday noon when there will be a public reception.

ROUTS FIVE HOLDUP MEN.

Barney Cushman, head of the Cushman Motor Delivery company, 464 North May street, yesterday resisted and routed five men, two of them armed, who tried to hold him up in his garage. No shots were fired.

LIQUOR BILL UP UNDER DRY LAW, SURVEY SHOWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Taking issue with the theory that prohibition has largely wiped out the national drink bill, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment today estimated that approximately $2,848,000,000 is being spent annually in the United States for intoxicants. The association in a pamphlet entitled "Does Prohibition Pay?" presents results of more than a year and a half of research work by statisticians and economists.

A second contention of the drys which the association seeks to disprove is that increased productivity of workers has resulted from prohibition.

In working out the national drink bill the association began by computing the total production of materials which can be used in making intoxicants, as reported from trade and official sources, and deducted from these the estimated amounts used in legitimate industry. The materials included hops, grapes, corn sugar cane and beet sugar, molasses, corn meal, grain mash, and illicitly diverted alcohol. The estimate of $2,848,000,000 includes $2,200,000,000 for spirits, $395,000,000 for beer, and $253,000,000 for wine.

The statisticians for the association figured that there is an annual per capita consumption of 1.65 gallons of spirits, 6.50 gallons of beer, and 9-10 of a gallon of wine. The retail prices were estimated to be $11 per gallon for spirits, 50 cents per gallon for beer, and $2.30 per gallon for wine.

Beer Consumption Alone, Down.

"While we do not claim our calculations to be infallible," the report states, "we believe that we are now consuming annually 790,000,000 gallons of beer, 110 million gallons of wine, and 200 million gallons of spirits. The per capita consumption of beer is only a little over one-fourth of the pre-war consumption, but wine consumption is nearly doubled, and spirits consumption is now about one-tenth in excess of the pre-war per capita rate.

"We have calculated the cost to the consumer of the various types of liquor. We secured reports as to bootleg prices in thirty communities. Bootleg prices, however, can be applied to only a small proportion of all liquor consumed. If we were to apply top bootleg prices to our estimates, the total drink bill would be appalling. With the exception of spirits, most liquor is made at home or purchased from neighborhood bootleggers at a fairly low retail price."

Estimate "Wet" Consumption.

The association says that $2,500,000,000, exclusive of revenue, is a generous estimate of what the country would have been spending annually for intoxicants if there were no prohibition.

With reference to prohibition and workmen's efficiency the association says that the report on "recent economic changes" by a committee headed by Herbert Hoover makes no reference to prohibition as a factor in increased productivity and that "there is no evidence that prohibition has had any effect on the productivity of labor."

DEMOCRATS WET AND IN HARMONY IN RHODE ISLAND

Providence, R. I., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Rhode Island Democrats in their state convention today nominated all candidates with harmony, adopted a platform calling for the repeal of the 18th amendment and constitutional reform.

The candidates chosen include: For United States senator, Peter Goelet Gerry; for governor, Theodore Francis Green; for lieutenant governor, Thomas P. McCoy.

The wet plank called for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, repeal of the Volstead law and the state's Sherwood or "baby Volstead" enforcement law, and urged the electorate to vote "no" in the "misleading" state referendum of retention of the eighteenth amendment.

DOMINIONS WARN BRITAIN TO GRANT MORE FREEDOM

Imperial Conference Is Opened in London.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The imperial conference opened this morning in the beautiful Locarno chamber of the foreign office. Representatives of eight nations sat down together to argue out their relationship one to another, and their economic and other problems, which they seek to solve in common or by mutual help.

The meeting was held behind locked doors. A few of the public who could crowd into Downing street were allowed to see the delegates drive up in closed automobiles and hurry into the building, but after they entered all was silence and mystery.

Some Assert Independence.

Late in the afternoon the text of the speeches delivered at the meeting were issued by the British publicity department. While these speeches were mostly of the congratulatory opening variety, yet there crept into some indications that some, at least, of the nations feel that the time has come to assert their independence not only in essentials but in definite formulas.

Prime Minister MacDonald was elected chairman and opened the proceedings with a speech of welcome, in which he outlined the program. He was followed by the chiefs of the other delegations, following in the order of their seniority, as follows: Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Ireland, Newfoundland and India.

Australia Sounds Warning.

The first indication that there are real problems to be met was in the speech of James H. Scullin, prime minister of Australia, who said:

"We hold that it is quite possible to reconcile complete and effective autonomy of the dominions with the unity of the British commonwealth as a whole, but not if we attempt to dot every 'i' and cross every 't.' We are a free association of peoples, and to my mind there is nothing to be gained, and perhaps a great deal to be lost, by attempting to crystallize our relations too closely within the confines of any formal document."

This is evidently a warning notice to dominions which have been insisting on dotting the "i's" and crossing the "t's" of independence.

Hertzog Silent on Secession.

G. W. Forbes, prime minister of New Zealand, to which the British Tories are fond of referring as "the loyal dominion," struck a somewhat different note.

"At this conference it may be hoped that all question as to the status of the respective members of the commonwealth will be finally disposed of," he said.

He argued that if this is not done centrifugal influences are sure to gain strength.

Contrary to expectation, Gen. James Hertzog, premier of South Africa, did not refer to an explicit declaration of the right to secede from the empire. But Patrick MacGilligan, minister of external affairs for the Irish Free State, plunged boldly.

Ireland Demands Recognition.

"For us the recognition of our position as a free and sovereign state comes before all other considerations," he said. "We desire to be able to devote ourselves entirely to the development of the prosperity of our people and to coöperation with the other governments in the commonwealth and in raising the level of human happiness of other countries.

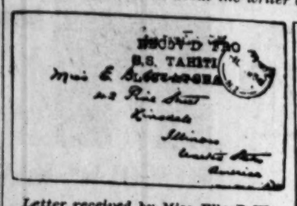
"While certain elements of the old system of imperial control were maintained, even though only in form, the will to coöperate was correspondingly weakened. We must earnestly urge our conference of the need for removing finally those last obstacles to harmonious and easy intercourse. As long as any form of control remained, coöperation had to be tinged with some coloring of compulsion."

JAILED FOR CHURCH ROBBERY.

John Awicki, 35 years old, of Gary, was sentenced to a year in the house of correction and fined $100 yesterday by Judge William E. Helander, after being found guilty of rifling the poor box in the Our Lady of Help Christian church, LeClaire avenue and Iowa street.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.



Letter received by Miss Ella B Warren, 42 Pine street, Hinsdale, Ill.

This letter, sent to Miss Warren from Kaikoura, New Zealand, was recovered from the British steamer Tahiti, which sank in the south Pacific on Aug. 18, shortly after 175 passengers and a crew of 142 had been rescued by the American steamer Ventura. The Tahiti had lost her starboard propeller on Aug. 15, sprang a leak, and then drifted sixty miles for three days before the Ventura finally reached her.

Sea dampness is discernible in the faded writing on the letter, which carries the stamp, "Recovered from S. S. Tahiti. Lost at Sea."

Concerning Kaikoura, Miss Warren writes:

"It is situated on the east coast of South island, New Zealand. I will quote from my friend's letter:

"'July 29.—We are in the midst of our winter season. Snow on the ground is rare in our locality, but we do have modest blizzards, which, however, do not prevent our venturing out of doors dressed in a heavy type of tweed coat. We frequently have whole days of sunshine, followed by mild frost at night.

"'Our mountain ranges are a picture of nature's loveliness just now, the high levels being mantled with snow, presenting a picture of wondrous beauty. The highest peak in the range has an altitude of 8,000 feet.

"'The main road leading to and from Kaikoura for a distance of about 30 miles traverses a rugged seacoast, with low lying hills on the inland side. I inclose a photo of a section of this road, once the site of a Maori village. The inhabitants once numbered 2,000. Now there are about 20. This and a dozen other villages near Kaikoura were wiped out by an invading tribe from North island.'"

BUSINESS SAFE, RECOVERY SURE, ECONOMIST SAYS

its economic position was worse than today, and its financial situation a good deal weaker.

"The Germans saw through the situation then, saw just what was going to happen. German bankers know what they are talking about and they speak the truth. Reassuring messages come from them today. I have no fear of the political situation in Germany. It is an expression of the world unrest. I have no fear of extremist parties getting control. If they did get in control I would not be afraid that they would put through a radical or demoralizing program."

Dr. Anderson declared that the revolution in Argentina had definitely improved the financial outlook for that country, that it meant no change in economic policy, only a change in rulers, and this change was for the better.

Assails Old Age Pensions.

Wendell P. Coler, secretary and actuary of the convention, discussing insurance policy developments of 1930, said:

"Times of business depression lead to discussions of social insurance such as old age pensions and unemployment insurance. This year has been no exception.

"Old age pensions are but a snare when provided by the state rather than by the individual initiative for saving. Old age pensions will destroy the incentive to thrift. England, with her experience with the dole, has shown that her people are willing to live on a greatly reduced scale so long as they do not need to work. Old age pensions will increase the tax burden.

Mr. Coler said he did not think that mutual life insurance companies should be permitted to enter the field of unemployment insurance.

The outstanding policy development of the year, he said, was the family income plan introduced by the Continental American Life Insurance company of Wilmington, Del., and the reversionary annuity issued by the Northwestern National Life company. He said that he hoped this plan would educate Americans away from their worship of cash values in insurance.

Byron K. Elliott, manager and general counsel of the convention, said the most pressing problem confronting insurance executives was the lapsation of policies due to business depression. The insurance companies have been called on for immense sums, he said. These have been promptly furnished and have saved many tottering financial structures.

"Life insurance," he said, "has stood through the period of depression like the house which is built upon a rock."

Charles W. Gold of Greensboro, N. C., said that unless industry combined with insurance to work out some plan for old age and unemployment insurance, state insurance would result. He advocated provision of old age retirement funds by insurance companies, adding:

"In this machine age we cannot lose sight of the fact that the worker is the creator of wealth, and the managerial skill of the directing brain should be used to conserve the human value."

MOODY INSTITUTE GIVES UP APPEAL IN STREET WIDENING

Trustees of the Moody Bible institute indicated in a conference held yesterday in Mayor Thompson's office that they will abandon their proposed appeal to the United States Supreme court in the La Salle street widening case. A settlement of this dispute between the institute and the city will release money in bond funds for the payment of property owners for land taken to widen La Salle street between the river and Lincoln park.

The dispute arose over the amount of the award given to the institute by the local courts for a slice of its La Salle street frontage. The original award was $544,838, and when money was available to pay that amount President Faherty of the board of local improvements offered the institute an additional $350,000 as the increase in the value of the land since the original award was made. Attorneys for the institute refused the proposal and demanded approximately $1,570,000, or $675,000 more than Faherty offered.

The Illinois Supreme court ruled in favor of the city early this year and City Treasurer Peterson began to make payments to the property owners. The institute then announced its intention of appealing to a higher court and the payments were immediately stopped.

Restore your health balance

Every person will find it beneficial to drink Sleepy Water. There comes a time in life when Nature has a hard fight to keep the human system at normal—to maintain the health balance. JUDGE SPEEDS LEENEY TRIAL; SECURE 8 JURORS

Eight jurors were sworn in yesterday in the trial of Mrs. Florence Leeney, who is charged before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court with the murder of her husband, Maurice, a wealthy south side teaming contractor. The trial opened Monday, but not much progress was made in the jury selection until Judge Sabath took a hand in the examination of the veniremen yesterday. The biggest difficulty was in getting men who would say they would inflict the death penalty on a woman.

Attorneys Samuel Hoffman and Charles Dougherty indicated that they would rely on the "unwritten law" for a defense. They will attempt to convince the jury that Mrs. Leeney had a right to kill her husband because he was unfaithful.

"Even if the unwritten law played a part in this case, it is not a real law and should not be considered," Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and Ross Lee Laird informed the veniremen. The trial was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

FAHERTY READY FOR HEARING ON SUBWAY TAXES

Cites Facts Gathered for Former Plan.

President Faherty of the board of local improvements indicated yesterday that the public hearing on Oct. 17 to consider building the State street subway by special assessment, will not be postponed because of the lack of information.

Mr. Faherty is having George C. Lenth prepare a resolution for action by the board next Tuesday the adoption of which is a prerequisite to the public hearing.

"Mr. Lenth will have that resolution ready," said Faherty. "If the board of advisory engineers are not ready on Oct. 17, then here is a plan for a subway," went on Faherty while drawing a black leather book from a drawer in his desk. It has ample information on which to hold a public hearing."

Plan Made in 1928.

This is the plan made after Faherty's trip to Europe and eastern cities, and is dated April 2, 1928. It outlines a four track subway in State street from 16th street northward, turning west in Chicago avenue and hooking up with the elevated road.

It provides for a mezzanine floor, as does the plan of the aldermen. It contemplates that the wires and pipes of the utilities shall be placed in the ground immediately above the subway and immediately below the surface of the street. The aldermanic scheme is to have utility galleries within the subway proper. The Faherty plan proposes cars 10 feet wide. That has been considered by the advisory engineers, but no decision has been reached. For the most part Faherty would rely upon "natural ventilation" while the board of advisory engineers is planning an elaborate artificial system.

Estimate Cost at 50 Million.

The Faherty plan is estimated to cost $48,884,020 while it is understood that the advisory engineers have roughly estimated their proposed design around $50,000,000.

The board of advisory engineers is composed of George M. Wisner, chairman; David A. Wallace, Edward J. Noonan, Mr. Lenth and R. F. Kelker as chief engineer of the subway. No statement has been issued from them indicating whether they expect to be ready for a public hearing on Oct. 17. Mr. Faherty declined to disclose what procedure he will follow if the engineers are not ready for the hearing but he expects them to be prepared.

BANDITS HOLD UP MATTESON BANK; HUNT TRIO HERE

Gangland haunts in Chicago were being searched last night for three bandits who earlier in the day held up the First State bank of Matteson, just south of Homewood, and escaped with $3,335 and $24,281 in securities.

William S. Rea, vice president and secretary, and Henry F. Nortmeier, assistant cashier, who were alone in the bank, at first thought the holdup was a prank of jokers and narrowly escaped being shot when they hesitated to obey the bandits' command.

While two of the men were in the bank a third kept a gun trained on the proprietor of a barber shop next door, preventing him from sounding an alarm. As the trio fled after the robbery they fired several shots through the rear window of their sedan.

The bandit car, which was found deserted a mile north of Matteson, was traced to Charles H. Krutckoff, son of the chairman of the Cook county board of assessors, who had reported it stolen earlier in the day.

SOLDIER SHOT WHEN DESERTER FLEES SHERIDAN

The escape of a deserter and the accidental wounding of a companion by a stray bullet fired at the fleeing man last Monday night at Fort Sheridan was revealed last night following the exoneration of the guard who did the shooting.

The wounded man is William Anderson, 25 years old, of Lincoln, Neb., who deserted from Fort Snelling at St. Paul last July 16 and was captured in Chicago on Sept. 16. He was shot through the right lung and his condition is critical.

MUSEUM GIVEN CHINESE PAINTING 800 YEARS OLD

An old Chinese painting representing a cockfight, long a favorite sport of Chinese royalty, has been presented to Field Museum of Natural History by the American Friends of China, Chicago.

The painting, done in delicate colors on silk, is attributed to Li An-chung, an artist of the Sung period, who lived in the twelfth century. The picture shows forty-six men gathered around the pit. One of the cocks, badly beaten in the fight, is taking flight. The owner of the cock has killed the rival bird.

Codicil to Will Cancels Anti-Saloon League Gift

Bequests of $72,000 to charities are contained in the will of Mrs. Anna Holt Wheeler, which was filed for probate yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. A codicil to the will canceled a $5,000 bequest to the Illinois Anti-Saloon league.

Mrs. Wheeler, widow of Arthur Dana Wheeler, president of the old Chicago Telephone company, died at her home in Lake Forest on Sept. 19. The Rev. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, will receive $75,000, according to the will. The remainder of the estate, valued at $470,000, is left to 27 relatives.

PLAN CAR FERRY TO PASS UNDER CLOSED BRIDGES

Sketches Submitted by Col. Randolph.

Sketches of a car ferry barge that could be operated on the Chicago river without the necessity for opening any of the bridges that have a clearance of 16 feet above the water have been submitted by Col. Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, to the association's harbors and waterways committee. Operation of the new type ferries, Col. Randolph states, would aid in lessening the number of bridge openings each day.

Most of the bridges across the river in the loop district have a clearance of 16 feet, according to city engineers. The use of the new type barge then, Col. Randolph believes, would permit the ferrying of railroad cars at any time of the day or night without causing the spans to rise and interrupt land traffic. Car ferry movements also could be carried on during the hours that the bridges are required to remain closed.

Considered by Committee.

"This is a matter that has been discussed in your committee, and I think I volunteered to submit sketches of such a barge," wrote Col. Randolph to E. M. Antrim, chairman of the committee.

"The operators of existing car ferries would probably be unwilling to junk them and make the investment necessary to replace them with a car ferry that would not require the opening of bridges. Yet when the cost of this substitution is compared with the cost to the city and the general public of the present system it would seem that this special service ought to adapt itself to some type of operation that would obviate the necessity for the frequent bridge openings."

Below Level of Water.

Unlike the old car ferries, the new barges would have a ramp at one end on which cars are run down into the barge so that the car wheels are below the deck level and also below the water level. With the 14 foot high cars standing on tracks that are 18 inches below the surface of the water the cars would clear the bridge with 3½ feet to spare.

The barges, to be of steel construction, 222 feet long, 40 foot beam, and 7 foot depth, would cost between $45,000 and $50,000, according to Col. Randolph. Each barge would carry eight freight cars.

PUBLIC DEFENDER STARTS JOB; GETS PRISON TERM CUT

Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach started off his actual work yesterday by getting a reduced sentence for James O'Neill, 28 years old, father of a small child, who robbed chain stores. Assistant State's Attorneys Andrew Gatenby and Nat Ruvell asked for a prison sentence of one year to life for O'Neill, who pleaded guilty. He was charged with five burglaries.

Bachrach made an investigation of the case and found that the burglaries had netted O'Neill less than $5 each. He asked that the sentence be reduced to 1 to 10 years. This was granted by Judge Harry Fisher.

THE NEXT MAYOR.

As soon as the fall elections are out of the way the chief political question in Chicago will concern the next mayor. For a year and a half Mr. Thompson's present four year term it has been the best fortune the city could expect to have its affairs administered in absentia, and the less the mayor in law was the mayor in fact the more it contrived a semblance of administrative dignity and metropolitan sanity.

Such good fortune is negative and therefore can be only temporary. It was a breathing spell, but it cannot be accepted as a permanent adjustment of the city's politics to its needs.

During the four years which will be included in the term to which the next mayor will be elected it is now apparent that Chicago will require a man above the average which it has been accustomed to get from its politics. Within that period it plans to offer itself to the world as an exhibit of a hundred years of American municipal development. It intends to take upon itself a demonstration, which already has aroused some cynical amusement, to prove that it is a civilized community of miraculous growth, of beauty and ideals, with an intelligent and ambitious citizenship justly proud of the manner in which the work of preceding generations, which in its time was a brilliant achievement, has been carried to a success undreamed even in those older days of great deeds.

Chicago has notified the world that it is prepared to meet the most critical observation and investigation and to prove that its reputation belies its substantial worth and its true self. It could be excused for not trying this. It could allow the truth to come out as it would and in the end be justified by its acts. It has preferred a tour de force. If it fails in essential particulars, having issued something like a defiance to its detractors, it had much better have kept silent.

Chicago's local government has been one of the most conspicuous items in the bill of indictment and, it must be admitted, with much justification for the general reproach. The government is taken as the free will establishment of a people permitted to vote and so registering their decision. Their action in such a matter is fairly taken as descriptive and definitive. It indicates what they want, the regard they have for themselves and for the respect of others, their standards of public conduct, and their desires for their community. The majority of them cannot be coerced or bribed directly or indirectly in a metropolitan election. The most prodigal of politics can reach only a fraction of the electorate with inducements, and therefore a choice of mayor is a fair index to city character. The result may seem inexplicable, but the city cannot quarrel with a contemptuous opinion if it gives so plain an occasion for it.

Chicago's seriousness in all its plans for an exhibition of itself to the world will meet its first test in the outcome of the municipal elections next year, and if the city makes its worst brand of politics its successful brand it will go the rest of the distance to the open gates of its fair lame and bandaged. Its pretensions will be shot. Its instincts will be rated low. Its character will be indicted, and the more it advertises its display of achievements and virtues the more it will increase the amusement of people whose admiration it seeks.

These consequences seem to be plain and self-evident. If buffoonery and rascality get their credentials from the voters of the city the attributes thus vindicated will seem not to be eccentric but normal, not to be the accidents of a temporary confusion of purpose but the consequences of a fixed will. A pretty reputation that will make to take to the ballyhoo stand.

Here is a city even more notorious than it deserves for its clownish maladministration of public affairs, for the rustic rascality of many men in public office, offending all the simple precepts of decent behavior and common honesty, loud mouthed and loutish in public appearances and dependably predatory behind closed doors. Its general reputation ignores the fine realities of its private and civic enterprise and centers upon its record of homicide and murder, of brutal racketeering, extortion, and corruption, its faltering justice and incompetent administration. It will be asked to give the only convincing proof it can that its spirit is for a reform of its public affairs, and if it does not give this proof in the character of the mayor it selects it can expect to have its mood observed as one of empty sound and fury, signifying nothing.

There are many ambitious projects in the minds of Chicago citizens for the correction of ills and the advancement of achievements. If they are to be real they will have public support. If they have public support they will be rid of the blight of deliberate misconduct in public affairs.

The political action of the people of Chicago must produce a mayor and a city government of character and ability, or Chicago in opening its world's fair will be a rowdy with a black eye.

THE PROHIBITION BOLT.

Dry Republican factions in both Illinois and New York bolt the decision of the majority in convention. Anti-prohibition Republicans in both states accepted decisions they did not like when the Anti-Saloon league was selecting or approving candidacies and writing platforms and bided their time until sentiment changed. They did not lead a bolt against the party. This year the party, not being blind to the trend of sentiment in the two states, changed its position on prohibition. The Illinois party submitted the question to the voters and announced its intention to stand by the results. The New York party, going further, nominated an anti-prohibition candidate on a declaration for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The right of a minority to leave a party which does not adhere to its principles is ingrained in the American system. That is the way new parties are formed to advance new ideas. In these state bolts of 1930 the intention is not to form a party by withdrawal from the Republican, but to conduct a punitive expedition against the majority because its decisions are contrary to the opinions of the minority. Thus the minority asserts its right to rule or destroy. The American system does not contemplate minority control, but that is a cardinal doctrine of prohibition. Luckily a political system cannot be maintained upon any such basis. A party undertaking to sustain itself in such fashion disappears. If it endeavors to dragoon majority opinion it will disappear as did the Federalists. If it undertakes a hands off policy of indifference it will go as did the Whigs.

In Illinois and New York the Republican party, with great caution, it will be noted, has begun to respond to what it plainly sees to be a change in the body of opinion upon which it relies for place. It would do that or it would presently be laid away on the shelf with its predecessors. It cannot place its reliance upon a combination of fanatics and bootleggers, ignore the violence and corruption attendant upon prohibition and continue as a party in intelligent sections of the country.

FORWARD AGAINST CRIME.

The arrest in Chicago of Stanton on a Wisconsin warrant is one of the signs of a change in the warfare against organized crime—a change highly desirable and encouraging. Another sign of the same significance was the pursuit of Foster and his arrest in California and return to Chicago. These proceedings mean coöperation among the authorities to an extent not hitherto practiced against the new organization of criminality. There has been until now no efficient coördination to meet the coördination of criminal activities, made possible by prohibition. The war on this new organization was local, although criminal coöperation was interstate. Killers were systematically exchanged between communities, thus enjoying an anonymity and immunity from local detection and prosecution which paralyzed justice. But the folly of this situation at last seems to be realized and under the vigorous leadership of Chicago coöperation against coöperative crime defense is being rapidly perfected.

This is a long step forward, and another is the application of the Illinois vagrancy law, which if courageously and persistently applied will not only break up the gangs in Chicago but offer an example to other afflicted communities.

The force of good citizenship is concentrating and making itself more effective day by day. The success of its efforts is already foreshadowed. Organized crime will not be decisively defeated until the great resources prohibition has brought to it have been shut off by prohibition repeal and the substitution of practicable measures of liquor regulation, but we need no longer fear that this is impossible or remote, and meanwhile improvement of methods of dealing with the existing crime situation proceeds at an encouraging pace.

WHAT THE SCHOOL BOOKS SAY.

Some 400 textbooks used in American schools in the study of history, geography, civics and economics and as readers have been examined critically by Dr. Bessie L. Pierce of the University of Chicago. She finds that England is presented as the traditional enemy of the United States and France as America's traditional friend. The only foreign nation which is portrayed in less attractive colors than England is Germany. Germany is scarcely mentioned in the histories until the period of the world war is reached and then is described as the home of militarism, greed, rapacity, and cruelty, an enemy, in short, of the most unscrupulous kind.

Powerful political medicine was brewed from the school histories a few years ago in this and other communities. Dr. Pierce's study seems to show that the alleged friendship in the texts for England, which started all the trouble, is largely an invention of demagogues, and we have no doubt she is right. A much more real grievance, we think, lies in the treatment of Germany. The authors of the textbooks appear to be among the few persons who lived through the war period who still believe the lies of the propagandists.

It is time that all this nonsense about traditional enmities and traditional friendships, about gentle nations and rapacious nations, be removed from the texts. If historians know anything at all, it is that such generalizations are rubbish. The traditional enmity of England and France did not prevent them from becoming allies and the traditional friendship of England and Germany did not prevent them from becoming enemies in the last war. Every charge of cruelty alleged against the German in the last war could be duplicated in detail in the allegations against the Union army in the civil war. National friendships, so-called, are bred of mutual interests and national enmities of mutual rivalry. The next generation of Americans ought to know that for their own good and the good of their country.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO "VAGRANTS."

[Danville (Ill.) Commercial-News.]

Wonders will never cease. Chicago, in its fight against crime, finally has the nerve to get after the criminal gang which has held it by the throat.

Twenty-six persons, termed "public enemies" by the Chicago crime commission, are hunted by the police. Their warrants for arrest include such notable higher ups as the great Scarface Capone and his brother, Ralph, Danny Stanton, Mops Volpe, Bugs Moran, and Machine Gun McGurn.

Here is a sign of progress. True, the only charges brought against the prisoners in this roundup is "vagrancy." The city cannot hold them long on that trivial charge. But since the alleged vagrants are declared to have "lived lives of crime and disgraced Chicago in the eyes of the world," presumably the authorities are prepared to indict them on more serious charges. If so, a real step will have been taken for Chicago's redemption.

FIGHTING THE HOOKWORM.

HOOKWORM has become a health problem of minor importance almost everywhere in North America. This was principally because of measures taken to control it, but discoveries about hookworm have contributed to the result. One of the earlier discoveries was that Negroes did not harbor many members of the worm tribe and hookworm rarely caused hookworm disease in them. This discovery narrowed the field of work. Another one was that hookworm did not thrive except in regions where the soil was of a certain type.

Dr. Chandler says an experienced hookworm epidemiologist can go into a county and tell whether there is much hookworm without examining any one or even seeing a person. He considers the nature of the soil, the amount of soil water, the mean atmospheric temperature, and the rainfall. Hookworm prevails in regions where the soil is sandy and with a moderate amount of humus. Families who live in the prairies, or where the soils are clay or contain much limestone base, do not need to fear any great amount of hookworm infestation. Another observation is that worms will not thrive where sea water reaches the soil.

Originally the drugs used against hookworm were thymol and beta naphthol. These have been abandoned and either carbontetrachloride and chenopodium, or wormseed, or the two in combination, are the medicines used. Experimentation is being done with tetrachlorethelyne and some other drugs which seem to be better and safer than those now in use.

The more important administrative measures that have served to so greatly lessen the prevalence of hookworm in North America are:

1. Search for the disease among the children.
2. Treatment of the infected.
3. Building of sanitary privies on farms and in small towns everywhere where sewers cannot be run and connected up.
4. Overcoming the barefoot custom in communities where hookworm prevails. In some badly infested countries the plan of giving worm medicine to every person in the community has been operated. However, that plan has not been used in North America.

FRUITS ARE HARMLESS.

M. S. M. writes:

1. What fruits are harmless to one afflicted with uric acid? I have been greatly afflicted since last February, and at times my face and neck are covered with a heavy rash which smarts and itches and makes me very uncomfortable.

2. Also give me a list of meats that should be avoided.

REPLY.

1. Eat any fruit you wish. No fruit makes uric acid.

2. Possibly you should eat sparingly of sweetbreads, roe, and kidney; and you should avoid beef tea. Certainly, fat meats and boiled meats will not harm you. There is no close relationship between meat eating and excess uric acid. On top of all this probably there is no relationship between your symptom and excess of uric acid.

MAY BE AN INFECTION.

A Reader writes:

1. What is the normal temperature for a child of six years? My little boy has had a temperature of 99½ for about a year.

2. Is this a sign of tuberculosis? He eats well, sleeps well, and does not show any signs of fatigue. He is 46 inches tall and weighs 44½ pounds

REPLY.

1. 98½.

2. It may be. It is probable he has some mild infection. Whatever it is he seems to be equal to handling it. My advice is to quit taking the temperature and quit worrying. Things will work out.

Many children have a little fever due to a mild infection. It is better for all parties that the mother should lose the thermometer or forget to use it.

RHEUMATISM AND ITALIANS.

T. H. G. writes:

1. Do the Italian people have rheumatism or arthritis?

2. They use so much olive oil I wondered if it was a solvent for the calcareous deposits in the blood.

REPLY.

1. They do.

2. Olive oil is not a solvent for calcareous deposits in the blood, if there should happen to be such.

FAILS IN CLASS.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Does the discipline manager of a public school have the authority to compel two parents of a student to leave their jobs to come to the school? The student merely failed to hand in six sheets of Spanish work.

W. D. L.

The official has no power to bring the parents in under arrest, if that is what you mean to ask. The pupil's default may be a basis for refusing to pass his work and the parents may choose to go to the school to meet the emergency.

2. Yes.

3. Yes, but we would advise you to confer with the auditor.

THE PRESENT NATIONAL CATACLYSM. (AS CAL MIGHT WRITE IT.)

The present contest between two ball clubs for supremacy is exciting great interest. Football is a splendid sport, or if this is baseball that, too, is a fine thing for youth. The same may be said for golf. It brings a young man out into the open air where he breathes deep and develops his muscles. It is a splendid thing for our country to have the young men breathe deep and develop their muscles. Good health is one of the best things we can have and greatly to be preferred to great riches. Riches have wings, but a man who breathes deep and has good muscles can win his own place in the world and win a good name, which is always better than riches. Riches have wings and fly away, but good health remains. One of the ball clubs engaged in the contest today probably lost. It is often so in games as it is in life. But act well your part, there all the honor lies. Not failure, but low aim is crime. In the bright lexicon of youth there is no such word as fail. The ball clubs that contested today represent the splendid cities of St. Louis and Philadelphia. The latter was founded by William Penn, noted for his many pious and benevolent acts, and, possessing Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell, is one of our national shrines to which all reverent Americans should make a pilgrimage. St. Louis has a population of 817,324, and before the drought was located on the Mississippi river. But these are only two of our great cities; we have many such in this remarkable country. But in spite of the grave fact that one may win and one lose in the great contest now taking place, after it is over they will both press on to a greater fame than ever and increase largely in population and voting strength. Such is the spirit of America. Onward and ever onward, for westward the course of civilization takes its way.

OCTOBER.

The marigolds glow in myriad array,
The hedges gleam purple where the asters hold sway
On the edge of the hill the sumac's ablaze,
The marshes are mantled in lavender haze.

The willows are rusty and ragged and dead,
From the birches the brightness of summer has fled
And only the burr-oak still rustles its leaves
In hardy defiance of the requiem breeze.

The earth has pulled close her mantle of brown
Like a nun who kneels praying in russeted gown;
And as I reflect on the vanishing year,

HENRY FORD was so impressed with the manner in which Anton Lang portrayed Christ in the Passion Play at Oberammergau that he presented him with a nice new flivver of his own famous make. Well, it was all right, from Henry's standpoint. He maybe thinks the flivver can be used in the play for the entrance into Jerusalem scene. You gotta hand it to Henry; it would ginger the Passion Play up a lot.

"THE LINE BOOK OF 1930." Wait; this is just to say that the work of clipping and pasting the things to go in it is now in progress. If there is something you particularly want now is the time to say so. The new Line Book will appear at the usual time (we hope), cost the usual price, one dime, ten cents, with the usual cost for postage, two cents, and following the time honored custom will consist of 64 damn pages set in rubber type so as to crowd in as many prose and poetic jewels as possible. We thank you.

OLD NOAH WEBSTER says that "lower" means to become lower, less; to move to a lower station or to fall to a lower stage; to diminish; decrease; as the river lowered as rapidly as it rose. But when that word applies to the stock market we realize how inadequate is the English language.

DESIDERATUM.

So many things recall your face to me
Of happy days and others bred of rue;
The little things we loved bring back the time
Of days now past when I was one with you.

The odor of fresh mint wet with the rain—
The country roads where we were wont to roam—
An old dog's pleading eyes raised to my face—
The lake-front—and the stormy waves' white foam;—

When thinking on past pleasures once we knew
I feel the stab of swift recurrent pain;
Is it but heartache for lost lovely things?
—Or do some vestiges of love remain?

WE'RE STILL afraid to quote anything Ruth Hanna McCormick says about spies; we don't want Senator Nye to sue us for libel, as he declares he will do. It's taking all the coin we've got to take the dents out of the fenders of the new family gas hack we've acquired. But here's a lovely thing about spies, Sen. Nye:

His was the subtle look and sly,
That, spying all, seemed naught to spy.

Hey! Senator Nye, stop! Hold! Desist! We're not quoting Ruth, that's Sir Walter Scott in Rokeby. You didn't say anything about not quoting what Walter said about spies; you just said Ruth. We can't see why we shouldn't quote Walter until the cows come home. And don't you sue us for libel; we gotta buy gas for that car. And what a glutton for gas our hack is.

FROM THE BATTLE FRONT.—Reinforcements for the allies, made up of East Indian troops and territorials, the latter including a Scotch regiment of sharpshooters, have been hurled at the right wing of the German army in France which is giving way foot by foot before the terrific onslaught. Not only have these fresh troops prevented the Germans from breaking through, but they have gained ground although at a terrific loss. The Germans appear to be wearing out from excessive fighting during the twenty days' battle. Some of the corps have been almost wiped out.

LONDON.—That the Russian forces in the north are holding at bay and even driving back the Germans in their attempt to invade Poland, while in the south the Russians are pushing on toward Cracow and continuing the invasion of Hungary, is the consensus of today's dispatches. Petrograd reports that a German army of twelve corps has been making desperate attempts to cross the River Niemen for seven days and that the battle is at its height in the territory west of the river and close to the East Prussian frontier. The German attacks have been consistently repulsed. A Rome dispatch says it is officially announced in Vienna that the Austro-Hungarian army concentrated at Cracow numbers 2,500,000 men.

ANTWERP.—Throughout last night and today huge German siege guns continued to pound the forts of this city with sledge hammer blows. The German range was accurate and the destruction wrought by the shells was terrible. The bombardment is centered on the forts at Lierre, St. Catherine and Waelhem.

NEW YORK.—Miss Jennie Dufau, Chicago opera singer, arrived on the Tamaso di Savoia. She tells of a thrilling war experience. She was visiting her father, sisters and brother in Saulxures when the Germans occupied the town. With her father, sister and brother she was lined up to be shot as a spy because a telephone was found in their home. Their pleas for mercy went unheeded until a German colonel happened along and saved them.

LONDON.—Lord Salisbury's war policy appears to be more popular at the polls than was anticipated. The Conservatives gained two seats and show increased majorities in several constituencies. Winston Churchill, the war correspondent, is elected from a double barreled constituency in which the other candidate was a Liberal.

HAZLETON, Pa.—Wilkesbarre will become the storm center of the anthracite coal miners' strike tomorrow. The miners hope that a compromise offer from the operators will be read at the massmeeting at that time and that it will be acceptable to the men. President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America will be present. He reiterated his statement that the officials of the union will not stand in the way of a compromise by demanding recognition of the organization.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—In the opening speech of his campaign at Belleville, Lyman Trumbull, Democratic candidate for governor, charged that during the twenty years the Republicans have been in power in Illinois state expenses have increased enormously and taxes have become so excessive as in some cases to amount to confiscation of property.

INDIANAPOLIS.—Senator Barnum of Connecticut, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, arrived here and took quarters at the Bates house. It was learned that he intends to remain in Ohio and Indiana for the next thirty days. He regards Indiana as a naturally Democratic state.

BERLIN.—The tenth anniversary of the battle of Sedan will be generally celebrated tomorrow. The emperor in a proclamation recalls the great deeds of the soldiers at that time, urges continued diligent training for war, and continues: "Then in the future time of difficulty from which may God long preserve us, the army will still be the steadfast guardian of the fatherland."

STATE RIGHTS WON'T WORK.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 28.—Out of the hurlyburly of the prohibition discussion the cry of "state rights" has arisen. It is a good old American battle cry. It recalls to mind a great share of our national history, and its friends are determined that it shall stalk forth again to influence our national life.

At the time of the revolution it became the great rallying cry of the war of independence. Afterward it became the inspiration for the articles of confederation. After these articles had been adopted every state was so busy clamoring noisily for its rights that the central government got little support and almost died of the anemia of neglect.

At last some far seeing statesmen realized that a limit must be put upon this riot of independence and the constitution of the United States was written. After a battle lasting over two years enough states had ratified it so that it became the fundamental law of the new nation. However, the sentiment for state rights was strong enough to write the first ten amendments into the constitution as one of the first acts of the new government. They constitute our American bill of rights.

It was just before the civil war that the cry of state rights rose to its greatest dignity, especially in the south. In fact, at the present time the southern people declare the entire war was fought upon this question and that the matter of slavery was quite subsidiary.

The whole southern position upon the rights of states was correct logically. They had all the good arguments on their side. They quoted the Bible, then Blackstone and other legal authorities. They flooded the land with eloquence—and it was eloquence. Even today speech making is a fine art in the southern states.

Then along came a man who, among other things, embodied the highest type of our fundamental American common sense. His name was Abraham Lincoln, and he answered the eloquent pleas for state rights. In effect he said that the theory was very nice, but it wouldn't work. It was too meager in concept to answer the needs of this great nation. We all remember his words, "This nation cannot exist half slave and half free. We must operate as a unit or not at all."

It took years of war, but finally the south submitted. They agreed to modify their political theories of state rights to suit the needs of the growing young nation, and the institution of slavery was abolished.

Now comes the flood of oratory concerning prohibition, bringing with it the battle scarred theory of state rights. This time it means the right to decide, state by state, concerning prohibition. It has eloquent defenders, evidently well supplied with funds.

There is one pertinent answer to be made to these theories, and it is the same answer that Lincoln so ably defended back in the stormy days before the civil war. The theory sounds well, but it won't work. No state of our Union can set itself against the common laws and practices of the other states. There must be a certain harmoniousness among the members of this great nation. To paraphrase Lincoln, "This nation cannot exist half for and half against prohibition." O. J. H. SCHENCK.

TRADE WITH LATIN AMERICA.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Your editorial entitled "When North and South America Coöperate" appearing in this morning's (Sept. 16, TRIBUNE) will prove gratifying, am sure, to the large number of Chicago men who are deeply concerned with the future of Chicago's foreign trade.

With Germany, England, and other commercially important European countries substantially recovered from the paralyzing effects of the world war, it is inevitable that American manufacturers must lose a considerable amount of trade with European concerns. However, the future prosperity of our country seems to require that we maintain in a large part the enormous foreign trade which we have enjoyed for the last decade. Foreign trade executives are agreed that the answer is increased trade with Latin America. However, before we can hope to accomplish the best possible results along these lines it is essential that our people generally come to understand and appreciate the many truly great achievements of our Latin neighbors to the south. Your editorial is certainly an important step in this direction.

RUTH AND THE W. C. T. U.

Evanston Ill., Sept. 27.—A correspondent today cites the W. C. T. U. stand on the referendum as justification for Mrs. McCormick's straddling. Mrs. McCormick can get no comfort from the W. C. T. U., which looked for a leader and found in her a Cook county politician. The reason the W. C. T. U. advocates a vote on the referendum is because the Republican party has made it almost mandatory and because we want to save the Illinois enforcement law. We believe Mrs. McCormick has permitted herself to become a tool of wet Democrats and wet Republicans of the Cook county gang.

Your correspondent quotes Lincoln; but suppose Lincoln had said; "This country cannot exist half slave and half free: but I'll vote either way, according to a referendum."

GIRL BREATHES WITHOUT 'LUNG'; WINNING BATTLE

Marked improvement in the condition of Miss Frances McGann, 25 year old nurse who last night ended her 231 day in the respirator, artificial breathing machine, at St. Luke's hospital, was indicated when she breathed for two five minute periods without the aid of the machine yesterday. This is the first time she has been outside of the machine for that long, according to Charles A. Wordell, manager of the hospital.

The paralyzed muscles of the chest wall are responding favorably to the exercise being given them by the respirator and the administration of about 234 cubic centimers of convalescent serum, Mr. Wordell said. Dr. John Favill of the hospital staff is attending Miss McGann.

EXILED KING OF GREECE BELIEVES HE'LL RULE AGAIN

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—At least one exiled king, George of Greece, believes he will be called back to the throne by his people.

The former king, who was banished in 1924, said at a quiet west end hotel today he had received many appeals asking him to come to Athens and take the throne.

"Sooner or later my people will call me back," he said. "On my return I shall know neither victor nor vanquished, but will try to achieve national solidarity."

Mexico Fines Archbishop for Baptisms in Open Air

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 1.—Pascual Diaz, archbishop of Mexico, yesterday paid a fine of $250 following prosecution by the minister of the interior for having violated the Mexican constitution by holding a Catholic ceremony in the open air. POLICE, FIREMEN PAID; OTHER CITY WORKERS WAIT

The payment to the police and firemen yesterday of salaries for the last two weeks of September has exhausted the corporate fund, according to V. S. Petterson, deputy city controller. Salaries of other city employes cannot be paid, he said until the Supreme court has passed on the validity of the $12,000,000 working cash fund bonds.

The salary rolls, according to Mr. Petterson, amount to approximately $4,250,000 a month. If the court approves the working cash fund bonds the city may issue $9,000,000 worth for use in the remaining three months of this year. In addition the city will have miscellaneous receipts of about $400,000 a month and a collection of $3,000,000 from the Illinois Bell Telephone company if the phone franchise ordinance is adopted on Nov. 5 at the next council session.

City officials already are concerned about a money shortage in the salary accounts during January of next year. There will be no money in the corporate fund, according to present tabulations, and the city will be unable to avail itself of the remaining $3,000,000 in the working cash fund until the tax levy and budget have been passed. Passage of the two ordinances will hardly be possible before Feb. 1, according to the officials.

CHINESE GUNMEN ATTEMPT TO KILL BRITISH OFFICIAL

Escape After Inflicting Critical Spinal Wound.

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 1.—(AP)—A group of well dressed Chinese gunmen today shot and critically wounded Bertram Lenox Simpson, British commissioner of customs at Tientsin under the rebel northerner, Gen. Yen Hsi-shan.

The gunmen, who are alleged to have spoken the Manchurian dialect, arrived here this afternoon and registered at a Japanese hotel, saying they had come in by rail.

Trace Murderers' Car.

Later they hired a car and three of them drove to the commissioner's residence. After they had shot Mr. Simpson they escaped unmolested, but the police are making a close search for them. The car and the driver, obtained from a garage, were traced.

Mr. Simpson was working in the house when three men drove up, presented a card and asked for an interview. Mr. Simpson was escorting the visitors to his study when suddenly one of them whipped out a pistol and fired twice. One of the bullets entered his spine. The other missed.

Mr. Simpson's status as customs commissioner has not been known since the Manchurian army of Chang Hsueh-liang took over the city last week, supposedly to aid the Nationalist government in the civil war.

He is widely known as an author, writing under the name Putnam Weale, and has been familiar with the orient for many years. He has an American wife, Mary Louise Parrott of San Francisco, whom he married in 1917, and an American grandmother, Sarah Hollis Putnam. She was the granddaughter of Gen. Israel Putnam, the revolutionary war hero.

Nationalist Troops Beaten.

PEIPING, China, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Reports from Nanking asserting that Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang had decided to retire from the civil war owing to serious reverses in Honan province were generally regarded in this northern coalition capital today as propaganda designed to cover up the government's failure to dislodge Gen. Feng from his stronghold in Chengchow.

Dispatches from independent sources stated that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's forces were repulsed with heavy losses after getting within two miles of their objective, while the Kuominchun army of Gen. Feng made vigorous counter attacks and regained most of the ground which the government troops had previously won at high cost.

Bandits Massacre 8,000.

Advices received here state that 8,000 persons have been massacred by an army of bandits at Lihsien, Kansu province. The town was attacked four weeks ago following a siege of months and the bandits were said to have killed all of the inhabitants except some girls whom they carried off.

Youth Shot by Police as He Tries to Escape

Joseph Tyrchta, 17 years old, 804 Holt street, was shot in the right leg last night when he attempted to escape from Patrolmen Fitzgerald and Greeco of the Chicago avenue station. The policemen tried to stop Tyrchta and a companion, who they suspected were riding in a stolen car, at Milwaukee avenue and Wood street. Tyrchta's companion escaped.

JAPAN RATIFIES LONDON NAVAL PACT AFTER ROW

TOKIO, Oct. 1.—Sitting in the presence of Emperor Hirohito at the imperial palace this morning, the privy council gave unanimous approval to the London naval treaty and passed a resolution recommending that the emperor ratify the pact. Premier Hamaguchi is expected to petition the emperor to sign the treaty tomorrow so that formal ratification may be completed. Thus will end a long and bitter controversy between the cabinet and the navy general staff.

The decision of the council was taken by a standing vote at the conclusion of a two hour session during which Count Ito, chairman of the special committee, which has been examining the pact, presented his report, which was approved.

Council Chief Apologizes.

"The privy council approves the London naval treaty unanimously, placing every confidence in the declaration of the government that it will assume full responsibility for the naval replenishment program and lightening the people's burden of taxation."

The session was enlivened by an attack by Viscount Ishii, former ambassador at Washington, against Baron Kuratomi, president of the privy council, on the ground the latter overstepped his authority in demanding a report from the supreme military council and had unnecessarily delayed the work of the committee. Kuratomi replied apologetically.

Ishi, addressing Admiral Takarabe, navy minister, expressed the opinion that Japan's claims were abortive at the Geneva conference, but were realized at the London conference, and he saw no reason for a supplementary naval program. Admiral Takarabe took issue, pointing out that Japan obtained inferior tonnage in submarines and that he considered it necessary to reinforce the navy to a certain extent.

New Naval Row Threatens.

Replying to another question from Ishii as to whether Japan's three principles, 70 per cent in all auxiliaries, 70 per cent in large cruisers, and parity in submarines, were iron rules which could not be changed, Takarabe declared they had merely become the principal points in the Japanese program.

With the treaty disposed of, a controversy is at hand between the government and the naval authorities over the supplementary naval program designed to take up the deficit in the treaty. The latest estimate drawn up by the navy seeks 450,000,000 yen, but the government has pledged tax reduction and is expected to attempt to scale the demand down to about half.

Admiral Takarabe, who has been placed in an embarrassing position between his allegiance to the government and his position as a naval officer, is expected to resign from the cabinet when the naval budget is completed. In ratifying the treaty, Japan followed the lead of the United States. The British government has approved the pact, but the Irish Free State and India must ratify it before King George signs it.

NAVY AND HOUSE DIFFER IN VIEWS ON CRUISER BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Differences of opinion over the inclusion of 6 inch gun cruisers in the warship authorization bill scheduled for introduction in congress this winter threaten to sharply divide members of the house naval affairs committee and high ranking naval officials.

Notwithstanding the senate approved the London treaty, which gives the United States the alternative of building additional 6 inch gun tonnage or accepting tonnage inferiority to Great Britain in the cruiser catagory, Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house committee, has come out flatly against construction by this country of the small gun cruisers during the five year life of the treaty.

Diametrically opposite views are held by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, and several other higher ranking naval officers who will have a voice in preparing the navy's revised building program under the treaty.

Plans of General Board.

Admirals of the general board and navy bureaus have not announced their positions, but indications are that they will recommend authorization of all the 6 inch gun cruisers allowed by the treaty with the stipulation that 8 inch gun cruisers should be built first if funds are not available to build both classes at the same time.

Expounding his views today, Mr. Britten said that the navy's only hope of obtaining 6 inch gun cruiser authorizations lies in its ability to produce designs for a 6 inch gun cruiser which will have a flying deck large enough to carry a much larger number of planes than have been carried by any ships other than carriers. He said that should the navy convince the committee than such a hybrid combined carrier and cruiser could be built, and would be practical, the house committee might recommend construction of a few of this class.

At Work on Models.

Inquiry today disclosed that no satisfactory type of combined carrier and cruiser has yet been designed. The construction corps of the navy and the bureau of aeronautics are attempting to produce a heavily armed cruiser capable of a speed of above forty miles an hour, which will have a landing deck large enough to accommodate from twenty-four to thirty-six planes.

The navy general board is now studying the hybrid cruiser design. Indications are that the board will recommend delaying construction of this type. It is known that the construction corps and bureau of aeronautics are anxious to have one vessel of this type built at once.

Recount Shows Wet Winner Over Cramton in Michigan

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Jesse P. Wolcott, apparent Republican nominee for congress in the 7th district, had an official lead of 81 votes over Representative Louis C. Cramton when the recount was completed tonight. Wolcott's original majority was 102 out of a total vote of more than 50,000 ballots.

Prohibition was the issue in the close 7th district. Cramton is a dry leader in the lower house in Washington, and Wolcott, who is Port Huron prosecutor, is in favor of modification.

REVEAL RUSSIAN PLAN TO COMBAT GERMAN FASCISTI

Seek Allies to Prevent Hitler Revolt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—From intercepted reports to Moscow from Russian agents in Berlin, it is revealed that soviet Russia has ordered the communist party in Germany to become moderate, hoping when the time comes for the expected Hitler fascist putsch, to be on good terms with the German moderate parties and thus be able to help crush the Hitlerites, whom the communists fear more than all the other German parties combined.

In spite of these orders, there has been a split in the central committee of the German communist party. One faction of young extremists, led by Newmann, favors preparations for armed action and wants to be in readiness for the time when the Hitlerites and the Social Democrats come into direct conflict. This, the extremists believe, will be the time for the communists to seize power and set up a German soviet government.

Moderates Seek Alliance.

The moderate group, led by Remmel and Tellmann, insist on an agreement with the Social Democrats, believing their combined forces will defeat the Hitlerites. Moscow is supporting the moderate group, urging peaceful parliamentary opposition to the extreme reactionary elements in the reichstag.

A curious repercussion is that the German government is trying to keep on the right side of Moscow, hoping for a soothing influence on the German communists, but at the same time is supporting the efforts of German industrialists and moderate politicians to establish contacts with other European governments with a view to organizing a common front against bolshevism.

Asks Common Action.

The necessity for common action against communism will be urged by the German government shortly when it asks for a short moratorium of reparations payments and at the same time tries to convince the former allies that compulsory military service is the only way Germany can restore patriotic discipline to the masses and also alleviate unemployment.

According to these soviet reports, President Von Hindenburg supports Chancellor Bruening in his desire to gradually lossen the German relations with Russia. The first step, it is said, will be the removal of Foreign Minister Curtius from office and the appointment of either Friedrich Sthamer, German ambassador to London, or Gottfried Treviranus, former minister of occupied territories. The center parties are said to have reached an agreement with the Social Democrats on this program and they have at their disposal enormous sums of money provided by Jewish bankers, who are afraid of the Fascists.

Hitler's "Revolt Plans."

Adolph Hitler's plans for a putsch are said to be complete. He intends, it is alleged, to sieze power when the reichstag is dissolved. The Hitler deputies, it is said, then intend to refuse to go home and to carry on as a legal parliment. While they are still assembled, "storm troops" of Thuringia and other centers will be in readiness to march on Berlin, according to these reports. The Hitlerites believe that the regular army will offer no resistence and expect the railwaymen will transport troops willingly.

According to the Russian reports, President Von Hindenburg plans to counter this by the appointment of Gen. Von Seeckt as dictator and the suspension of the constitution for a time.

Prince Visits Ex-Kaiser.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Oct. 1.—The former crown prince of Germany is reported to be paying an unexpected visit to Doorn in order to discuss with the former kaiser the possibility of the return of the Hohenzollerns to the German throne after the expected Hitler Fascist putsch. Herr Hitler is an intimate friend of the prince.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 1.—According to official Bolshevik statistics, gathered by the Moscow Pravda and Isvestia, the Russian cheka shot during the first nine months of the present year at the Lubianka prison, 547 persons charged with counter revolution, sabotage, and speculation.

The speculation charge includes the hiding of small change, for which more than 100 persons have been shot in Russia during the last two months.

In a majority of the cases, the accused were not tried, but were merely sentenced to the "supreme measure of punishment" by the cheka.

The total number of executions in Russia is not mentioned, but it is believed to be far above this figure, since those mentioned in the provincial papers were not included in the Moscow statistics.

TALK BARTERING OF SURPLUSES AMONG NATIONS

International Action to Revive Business.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Will international bartering of surplus products be given a trial as a means of remedying the world business depression?

Hints that a number of European nations would look kindly upon such a plan as a means of handling embarrassing surpluses have reached Washington officials, it was said in authoritative quarters here today. Whether the American government would give serious consideration to any plan contemplating the bartering of surplus American products, such as cotton or wheat, for British rubber Japanese silk, or Brazilian coffee, was not ascertainable tonight, although one high official admitted certain suggestions of that nature had come to his attention.

No Concrete Plan Offered.

The suggestions for international barter thus far made have come chiefly from financial and commercial interests, it was learned, and have reached the attention of administration officials informally. It was emphatically denied today that any concrete plan is now before the government. It was said in one quarter today that an authoritative proposal had come from British private sources which contemplated the trading of rubber for cotton. Another report current is that Japanese private interests were sounding out the situation here as to the possibility of exchanging Japanese silk for cotton.

That the proposals for international bartering of surplus projects have been discussed in financial circles has been brought to the attention of members of the Hoover cabinet and it is understood also to the President. Thus far the official reaction apparently has been one of skepticism and several objections to the suggested innovation in the way of conducting modern trade have been advanced.

Counteracts Old Principle.

One official pointed out tonight that any attempt at international barter ran up against the problems of interference with normal trade channels, storage, distribution, and ultimate consumption. It was pointed out that should the United States take 1,000,000 bags of coffee from Brazil the coffee eventually would have to be disposed of and in the process there would be interference with the normal trade of coffee importers and distributors.

The question of how the government would finance any exchanges of products has also been raised. Officials who have reluctantly discussed the proposal privately see little chance for its being tried out in this country.

EXPERTS FAIL TO DECIPHER SECOND ANDREE DIARY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The second diary, on which it was hoped to learn the facts surrounding the deaths of Salomon August Andree and his two explorer companions on White island, has been found too damaged by moisture to read. Unless a new photographic process being tried out is successful the secret of their fate may remain forever locked in the Arctic.

Meanwhile, the gunboat Svensksund bearing the bodies is expected here Sunday. Elaborate plans have been made for the funeral, with schools societies and the trade unions participating in the cortège.

Gov. Kohler Praises Her as a Producer.

Two Wisconsin celebrities were guests of honor yesterday at a luncheon in the Hotel La Salle grand ballroom given by the ways and means committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. One was Gov. Walter J. Kohler and the other was a cow, Pabst Creator Korndyke Heather, champion milk giving Holstein from the prize herd of Fred Pabst Sr. of Milwaukee.

Madam Heather, a handsome black and white animal, was a bit bewildered by her surroundings. But, tethered beneath a bow of leaves at the end of the speakers' table, she behaved patiently while Gov. Kohler and her own paid tribute to her milk giving propensities and spoke at length on the dairy industry in the five central states, of which Pabst Creator Korndyke Heather is a shining symbol.

A Real Milk Factory.

Madam Heather, according to Gov. Kohler, is a veritable milk factory. Her annual output is 25,000 pounds of milk. She is 5 years old, weighs 1,400 pounds and has been winning prizes since she was 3.

At an early age she gave as much as 364 pounds of butter and 692 of milk in seven days and her highest daily score is 50 quarts of milk. Her annual production, judged in terms of food contents was said by the governor to be comparable to twelve fat steers weighing 1,200 pounds each. She has two famous brothers and seven half-sisters noted for their abundant production of milk.

"Some cow," was the general comment of the luncheon guests who looked on while Madam Heather stood without display of temperament as camera men snapped her in company with William R. Dawes, former president of the association, Gov. Kohler, and her master, Mr. Pabst.

Gives Credit to Science.

Unlike her sisters of yesteryear, this supercow gives more milk in a month than her ancestor, the ill fed and ill kept range cow, gave in a year. This Gov. Kohler attributed to the work of science, which has taught the modern cow to give and give till it hurts.

The governor of the dairy state paid tribute to such men as William Dempsey Horan, who brought the silo from France; Harry L. Russell, who introduced tuberculin in Wisconsin, and Stephen Babcock, who devised the milk testers. These dairy pioneers were responsible in a large measure for Wisconsin's present position as the leading dairy producing state in the union, the governor said.

Urges Milk as Habit.

Gov. Kohler urged the stimulation of new habits to increase the per capita use of dairy products. He cited the use of milk in factories as an example, stating that in his own factory at Kohler, Wis., the employés consumed 300,000 pints of milk during the last year outside of family use, and estimated that 12,000,000 pints were consumed by other workers in the state during the last year.

He urged the coöperation of farmers as an aid to the farmer's marketing and producing problems. Because Wisconsin is both an agricultural and an industrial state, he said, it has been less seriously affected by the present business depression.

CHILD HURT IN FALL DIES.

Rose Marie Saseno, 3 years old, died yesterday in Mercy hospital of injuries received a week ago when she fell from the second floor window of her parents' home, at 3234 Princeton avenue.

BRITAIN FORBIDS ALL DEFECTIVES TO DRIVE AUTOS

All Motorists Must Carry Insurance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Drastic changes in the general motor transport laws in Great Britain, including tests for drivers of all classes of automobiles, were revealed today by Herbert Morrison, minister of transport, in explaining the new road traffic act.

Under the new act, persons with extremely defective eyesight or suffering from disabling fits, including heart attacks, epileptic fits, and mental diseases, will not be allowed to take out licenses. All motorists must insure themselves against third party risks, must produce an insurance certificate when taking out a license and be able to produce it on demand by the police at any time.

Eyes Must Be Tested.

An eyesight test will also be required, it is understood, which will take the form of reading number plates at a distance of 30 or 35 yards under ordinary daylight.

The reorganization of public transport is also an important feature of the new act. Steel tires are to be practically prohibited, almost all heavy vehicles being compelled to use pneumatic tires. Newly appointed traffic commissioners will coördinate public traffic. Passenger vehicles will be forced to keep the schedules as given in the time tables, instead of there being, as previously, three or four buses in three minutes and none for the next twenty.

Will Use Nonbreakable Glass.

Nonbreakable glass will be compulsory for all vehicles, but it has not yet been decided whether existing vehicles will have to be refitted with this glass. Where motor buses on the main roads are in excess of the requirements, they will be taken off.

One new regulation which, if carried through, will become an annoyance to all motor owners, provides that the names of those authorized to drive a vehicle must be entered in the insurance policy. This would prohibit anybody from lending an auto and create untold difficulties for firms which employ numerous drivers. If one driver became ill or suddenly left the firm, it would mean that the vehicle would have to remain idle until a new driver's name was placed on the certificate by the insurance company.

1,000 Delegates Here to Attend Lumber Convention

Gathering to discuss ways of improving the lumber business, nearly 1,000 delegates to the 14th annual convention of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' association registered at the offices of the association at 326 West Madison street yesterday. The announcement was made by Adolph Pfund, secretary of the organization.

COL. R. SHELDON, AID TO PERSHING DURING WAR, DIES SUDDENLY

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Col. Raymond Sheldon, U. S. A., retired, a member of Gen. Pershing's staff overseas and winner of three war medals for conspicuous service, dropped dead in a drug store in White Plains today as he stopped to make a purchase. He was 54 years old and lived at Scarsdale.

Heart trouble suffered during his strenuous career, which also included service in the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection, and the Mexican border expedition, was the cause of his death.

During the world war he was chief of staff of the Third division at Château Thierry and of the 32d division at St. Mihiel. He commanded the 307th infantry in the Argonne fighting and was on the staff at general headquarters.

ASSESSORS IN BATTLE OVER TAX HEARINGS

Dissension once more broke out among members of the board of assessors yesterday when John Conroy, only Democratic member, marched into the board rooms where hearings on 1929 assessments were being held and demanded to know by what authority Assessor Charles Ringer was conducting the hearings alone. For the last few days Ringer has been the only member present at the meetings.

The board rooms were crowded with taxpayers when Conroy appeared. Ringer, who is secretary of the board, had called the meeting to order after waiting an hour for the other members. His reply to Conroy's question was that he was merely taking the cases under advisement and would report all matters to the board.

Conroy later declared that Ringer was trying to act as the Mussolini of the board. He said he had remained away because Assessors Gene Oliver and Adam Wolf have been absent. Ringer told the other members that their actions are an invitation to the legislature to abolish the board.

HUNDREDS PAY LAST HONORS TO LORD BIRKENHEAD

LONDON, Oct. 1.—On a simple trestle before the altar in the ancient chapel at Grays Inn, his favorite place of worship, the body of Lord Birkenhead lies in state by his own wish and that of his family, and will rest there until the funeral on Friday.

The coffin is draped with a purple pall bearing a white cross on which are three small sheaves of flowers. In the center is a bunch of pink carnations and deep red roses, "From Juliet," Lady Birkenhead's tribute to her husband. At the head of the coffin is a bunch of orchids and the foot is strewn with pink and red carnations, Lord Birkenhead's favorite flower.

Hundreds of people from all walks of life passed through the chapel today to pay their last respects. Among these were many of the barrister's old colleagues. Lord Greenwood, treasurer of Grays Inn, today said: "Lord Birkenhead was the greatest bencher at Grays Inn in modern times. The inn was proud of him and he was proud of the inn."

BANDITS USE CHLOROFORM TO LOOT RESIDENCE

Chloroform was used early yesterday by bandits who robbed the home of Lee Goldstein, 5235 Drexel boulevard of $650 in cash and a box containing $5,000 worth of jewelry which was later recovered. Sergts. McLaughlin and Czemikowski of the Hyde Park police station, who were called to the Goldstein home, noticed the odor of chloroform upon entering the place. Both Mr. and Mrs. Goldstein, who did not become aware of the theft until after daylight, complained of dizziness.

The police found the rear window jimmied. The bandits took $650 in cash from Goldstein's clothing. The jewelry box was found in an alley with its contents undisturbed. The police were convinced that the Goldsteins had been chloroformed by the bandits before they began to loot the home.

FORD OFFERS HIS 'CURE' FOR 'HARD TIMES' IN BOOK

New York, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Henry Ford blames the present industrial depression on business men who watched the stock market instead of their business, and believes the cure lies in quantity production and intensive marketing of high class goods.

Mr. Ford outlines his opinions in a book, "Moving Forward," which will be published tomorrow by Doubleday, Doran & Co. He predicts that in 1950 the American workingman will get a minimum wage of $27 a day, advocates high wages as one of the fundamental laws of business, and says genuine overproduction has never existed.

Depends on Service.

Mr. Ford believes that while a man has a right to work, his right to a job depends on his ability to give valuable service. He says belief that a company owes a living to those who work for it is based on "our traditional conception of master and servant."

"Indeed," he says, "many worthy people cannot comprehend any other relation, and during those periods when the men who should be leading business fail to lead, and consequently work is slack, the cry, 'Give men jobs,' arises. Every one would recognize the absurdity of employers parading bearing signs 'Give us orders.' There is essentially no difference between the actual position of the employer and the employé."

Outlines Business Principles.

The book says the fundamentals of business principles are: First, to make more and better goods as cheaply as possible and force them on the marmarket; second, to strive always for higher quality and lower prices and costs; third, to raise wages gradually and continuously and never to cut them; and, fourth, to get the goods to the consumer economically so he may benefit by low cost production.

"No one has yet been born who can manage both to manipulate the market for its stock and also do business in such a way that it will be profitable," Mr. Ford says. "The two do not and cannot mix."

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL.

AMPUTATE LEFT ARM OF DEETJEN, MARTYR TO STUDY OF X-RAY

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A victim of devotion to the Roentgen or X-ray, Dr. Christian Deetjen, a pioneer of the science, suffered the loss of his left arm at the elbow today.

The amputation was performed at Mercy hospital by Dr. Alexis McGlannan, who has performed a number of operations in the last twenty years to check the spread of the subtle poison which has affected most of the early X-ray specialists. In 1911 he grafted skin to burned places on other portions of Dr. Deetjen's body.

The operation today was the latest of more than a dozen Dr. Deetjen has undergone in his career of more than thirty years. It was successful, hospital authorities reported.

Dr. Frederick H. Baetjer, Roentgenologist of Johns Hopkins Medical school, has undergone more than 75 operations, the most recent a few months ago. He has but one finger on his right hand, and but one eye.

Dr. Deetjen previously had lost a finger. Protective screens, devised in recent years, have removed the danger to X-ray specialists, and patients, exposed only momentarily to the revealing and healing ray, were never in danger.

LAKELESS CITIES BUILD LAKES AND SHORE HIGHWAYS

Decatur Among Leaders in Development.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Thriving Illinois cities being visited by the Chicago Association of Commerce good will party of business men have taken a lesson from Mahomet by substituting inland lakes skirted with wooded hillsides for the proverbial mountain. Where a decade ago they were dwelling on prairies or along the rivers, a half dozen sizable cities have constructed so-called impounded lakes with park developments and shore drives rivaling those of Lake Michigan.

Decatur is credited with the largest project of this type, the Chicago ambassadors learned tonight in the course of a banquet given by the local Association of Commerce. Citizens provided a financing plan which has developed a fourteen mile lake and park system costing $2,250,000 and comparing in beauty with Wisconsin lakes. It was described as typical of others developed in Galesburg, Bloomington, Danville, and other Illinois communities.

Soy Beans New Crop.

Macon and nearby counties have become the largest source of soy bean production in America, declared Walter Rowe, president of the farm bureau, in describing a new farm crop which has suddenly become popularized here for its soil building ability and its utilization in industry.

T. C. Burwell, vice president of Staley Manufacturing company, told of twenty-five years of research and merchandising of corn products, centered in Decatur. Corn starches of many kinds are shipped to every country on the globe, as well as sugars and other corn products. A new corn by-product, for coating magazine paper, is being developed with encouraging possibilities, he declared.

Editors on Program.

H. C. Schaub and W. F. Hardy, local editors, described the city on a program with William Harris, superintendent of schools, and G. A. Williams, vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. Clarence A. Walt, Illinois Power and Light corporation official, presided over the delivering of greetings and sounding of encouraging reports from Chicago by Charles N. Wheeler of North American Power and Light company; Dr. R. A. Clemen of 1933 century of progress exposition, and John N. Van Dervries, of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The third day of the Chicago association's pilgrimage carried word of determination on the part of Chicago to rid itself of an undeserved reputation regarding crime, and plans for the World's Fair in 1933.

The envoys breakfasted in Bloomington with local leaders, including H. H. Hoblit, Chamber of Commerce president, Congressman Homer Hall, and others.

Here in the heart of the wealthiest agricultural country in the nation business men took an optimistic view of economic conditions. Present lowered costs on grains were said by farm leaders to be offset by increasingly important live stock and dairying development into the heart of the neighborhoods most loved by Abraham Lincoln.

The Chicagoans exchanged greetings at Lincoln on their way to Springfield. In the city named for the Great Emancipator roses were passed out, reminding the tourists that Illinois leads the nation in production of these flowers.

Wife Sues E. R. Willoughby, Stock Exchange Member

Elmer R. Willoughby, member of the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, was sued for divorce in the Circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Alice E. Willoughby of 1140 North Elmwood avenue, Oak Park. The bill charges Willoughby with misconduct with another woman. Mrs. Willoughby alleges her husband has frequently taken the woman on airplane trips and has given her an expensive automobile. The Willoughbys were married on July 25, 1916, and separated in May, 1929. They have four children.

IF THERE'S A WINNER THERE MUST BE LOSER

More Expert Dope from the Bench.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—Well, folks, there you are—what did I tell you?

We did it all right, and it was a mighty proud bunch of fellows who rushed to the old showers after the ball game. It was a hard game for us to win, and it was a hard game for them to lose.

I don't mind telling you that there was a little catch in my throat when my boys came through for me and for the millions of their supporters and well wishers throughout the country.

And I don't mind telling you that, although we were happy to win for the sake of winning, our greatest satisfaction was that we did not disappoint our followers who followed us throughout the long hard grind to the fall blue ribbon event of baseball.

I can tell you it feels mighty good to be out in front when you are playing such a strong, aggressive combination, worthy to test your mettle to the very quick. One game to the good is one game to the good. I always have said that and I always will, because I belong to the old school, and while one swallow does not make a summer it is better than half a loaf.

Quite a Test, Indeed.

Now don't get me wrong. We are not underestimating them. They played their best under the hardest pressure, with the eyes of the whole baseball world either trained upon them or listening over the radio. This is quite a test, to have the whole baseball world straining at the leash and watching your every move like a hawk.

I am justly proud of another thing, too, and that is that some of the dirt flying from the bench was not to be despised. I don't like to say this about myself, but I know the way I chose my pitching selection for the day had a great deal to do with salting the old ball game away on ice. I crossed them up by selecting the man they expected me to select, because they undoubtedly thought I would resort to strategy and feed them a dark horse at the last minute.

I cannot overemphasize how much the right mental attitude counts for in a crucial test in baseball, or, for that matter, in anything else, and when you upset your opponent you disturb his mental attitude.

It Is Mighty Wonderful.

The point I am trying to make is, you take there early in the game, fans, when all you faithful and loyal fans, unseen to us fighting for world series glory down there on the old ball field, in the great classic which has become a national institution in the life of our country, because of our love for clean sport and healthful outdoor exercise, and at the same time giving you a spectacle well worth watching, and which has added so much to baseball history from year to year down through the list of illustrious stars such as Cobb, Wagner, Speaker, and the Delehanty boys, in every town and hamlet, is a mighty wonderful thing when you come to think about it.

Hose Show Punch in First and Eighth.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Ted Lyons, the well dressed man from Vinton, La., had one of his good days at the opening of the Cubs-White Sox city series yesterday, and when Ted is right opposing slugging gentlemen have little use for their baseball bats. The Cubs were no exception and as a consequence took a pretty spanking. The score was: White Sox, 5; Cubs, 1.

Such stellar batsmen as Hack Wilson, Kiki Cuyler, and Riggs Stephenson were made quite ludicrous in their frenzied efforts to obtain a clew as to where Mr. Lyons was throwing the ball. Gabby Hartnett was the only hitter respected as such by Lyons and Manager Donie Bush, who was able to come close to solving Ted's stuff. Gabby got two singles.

Bell Leads Hitting.

Lester Bell, listed by the Sox board of strategy as one of the main chumps of the north side hitting gentry, rewarded the relaxation which his presence at the plate occasioned by leading both teams in batting with a double and a single, while Clarence Blair, listed simply in the Sox plans as a left handed batsman with especially large feet, made two singles, both infield scratches. There were seven hits off Lyons, two each by the aforementioned fellows, and a healthy single by Pat Malone, the losing pitcher.

Lyons had control of the situation almost every second of the hour and 39 minutes it took to play the game, but there were two instances in which he more than justified all the fine things fans say about him whenever his name comes up at fanning bees.

In the sixth inning his handling of a bunt from Danny Taylor's bat made the eyes of the National league performers bulge, and in the seventh, with two out, Ted actually kidded no other than that steady campaigner of Stevie. With the bases full Ted threw three balls to Stevie. Then he whizzed three strikes past the Alabaman, Stevie being so nonplussed that he failed to get his bat off his shoulder to offer at any of the pitches. It was a great prank from the White Sox point of view, but just a little too brutal for Cub consumption.

Patronizing Doesn't Pay.

Malone wasn't such a bum pitcher himself, except, perhaps, that he exercised the famous Cub patronizing manner toward the American league seventh placers at the beginning of the game, with the familiar result. All season second division athletes have been blasting this nonchalant, pitying attitude. The Sox, reminiscent of the Cincinnati Reds in July, expressed resentment in a great big way.

The Sox rushed over three runs in the first inning before Malone was able to realize what was going on. Pat then appreciated that he had a job on

Cards Stormy Over Defeat by 'Lucky' A's

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP)—It seemed almost as though the St. Louis Cardinals must have really won that world series ball game today—the way they slammed down the concrete runway into their dressing room when it was all over, mouthing expressions of disgust, breathing defiance, confidently predicting for the morrow.

GABBY STREET.

There was nothing sullen and beaten about the Red Bird flock. Old Burleigh Grimes trotted along in the van, a big grin on his face, his teeth clamping on a wad of gum. Behind him pounded grizzled Gabby Street, his manager, swinging his arms, arguing, eager, sorry it was over for the day.

"Lefty Grove! Hell!" said Frankie Frisch in disgust.

"Listen," said Street, "if that's the best they've got we'll beat them. We'll beat Grove the next time. Five hits, five runs. Why, man, you've got to be the luckiest team in the world to win like that!

"We'll not only beat Grove the next time but we will show them a real left hander before we get through," Street continued. "Bill Hallahan is a better southpaw than Grove. He's faster and he has more stuff. Grimes will be back at them and he'll beat them. I tell you we'll win this series."

Up in Connie Mack's tower room the old master, with one victory toward the world championship, leaned back contentedly and discussed the proceedings.

"It was a great thing to win," he said, "and of course I am glad. St. Louis has a splendid team, a grand team. I think it will be a fine series between two clean playing ball clubs.

"Grove was not worried at any time. You cannot worry Grove. He was good but not as good as I have seen him. Make no mistake; he was good. He put them where he wanted them and when he wanted them. Only two or three balls really got away from him during the game.

"In my opinion Boley's stop and throw on Douthit in the seventh was the turning point of the game. After that it seemed all over. It was one of the greatest fielding plays I have ever seen in an important series. Bishop's catch of Frisch's line drive also was important and Cochrane made a magnificent catch of Mancuso's foul in the eighth."

MAROON LINEMEN PICKED FOR FIRST GAME WITH RIPON

The University of Chicago line, which is expected to oppose Ripon college Saturday in one-half of a double header featuring Ripon and Hillsdale, was picked during practice yesterday. Brislen was at center, MacKenzie and Hamberg were guards, Trude and Horwitz filled the tackle positions, and Weln and Cowley were at the ends.

Lou Kanne, first choice to fill the shoes of Capt. Errett Van Nice in the back field, appeared with a charley horse yesterday, but should be in shape by Saturday. Boc MacNeille, a reserve tackle, was kicked in the neck during scrimmage with the freshmen, but the injury is not serious.

Both first and second varsity elevens spent the afternoon trying to solve wing back formations executed by the frosh. Ripon and the University of Wisconsin, which the Maroons will meet on Oct. 11, are reported to be using wing back formations in practice.

SHIFT WILDCAT BACKS

A new Northwestern back field was used in yesterday's practice for the Tulane game Saturday. Lee Hanley was switched to right half back, where he will continue to call signals. Pug Rentner was at full back, with Reb Russell at quarter, Hank Bruder continued at left half.

Since the opening day of practice Rentner and Russell have waged a hard fight for the full back berth, and both showed such promise that it became evident that it would be hard to keep either on the side lines. Both have revealed power as line plungers.

Illness of Al Moore, who has been at right half back, caused Coach Hanley to experiment with the new lineup. Moore is confined to the infirmary with a mild attack of influenza. It is doubtful whether he will be able to play Saturday.

The new combination gives the Purple added weight and experience. With Rentner and Russell in the lineup at the same time the back field will average about 185 pounds.

TULANE ENTRAINS TODAY

New Orleans, La., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Tulane's southern football champions will leave tomorrow morning for their game with Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., Saturday.

Thirty-four men will make the trip. They are:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CITY SERIES.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, you said how I better go out to the city series game and see if I could see anything that Ed Burns didn't see and write a story about it. So I figured Ed would see everything that could be seen from the press stand and I went out into what would be the left field bleachers back of where Jolley stands, only they aren't bleachers any more out there—they're part of the grandstand.

Well, if I had had my race track field glasses I could have seen the things Ed saw, perhaps, but I heard a lot of things way out there which Ed didn't hear and most of it was that it was a helloffaway from the plate to pay one buck to try to see, but at that, after the game was over the bozo who had been the noisiest about paying one buck said it was worth more than that to see Ted Lyons stand the Cubs on their heads, for he said his favorite view of the Cubs was when they were on their heads and I guess that was the majority view of the 30,000 spectators, because most of them were Sox fans.

But there's one advantage of being out so far. The merchandise butchers who ordinarily step all over your feet peddling red hots, ice cream cones, soft drinks, et cetera ad infinitum, must figure every one who paid a buck to sit out there is too sore to spend any more money, so they didn't infest the place and you could really see what you could see if you were farsighted.

Well, I suppose Ed saw all the hitting and so I needn't say much about that. It was my kind of a game, though, a game in which the pitchers had a chance, and you know you and I argue about that because I like a 5 to 1 game better than a 11 to 9 game, because I don't think it's baseball when they're knocking 'em over short fences all the time for home runs. Which probably just proves that I'm old fashioned.

But, say, Arch, if Ed tells you about the hitting, let me tell you something about the fielding and pitching. Why, in that sixth inning when the Cubs were trying to get going, were two of the greatest plays in any one's memory. When Wilson came up with one gone, there were the usual boos and cheers, to both of which Hack is accustomed. Well, Arch, Hack hit a sharp bounding ball toward center which looked like a sure hit. But what did Kerr do but run back behind second, nab the ball and while off balance peg it to first. It went to Clancy on the first bound, but Clancy held it and Hack was declared out, despite his protests. It was perfect execution on the part of both Kerr and Clancy.

Then on the very next play, Arch, Taylor crossed the Sox with a beautiful bunt toward third and that fellow Ted Lyons who was having a great day, recovered it and arched it to first because he did not have time to get set for a throw and Taylor was out. Those two plays were worth the price of admission alone, if I had paid any admission, and there was still that seventh inning to come, when the Cubs might have broken up the ball game.

In the seventh, Arch, the Cubs gathered three hits and three strikeouts. And they had three men on bases when the third strikeout came, and, more than that, Lyons had given three straight balls to Stephenson, pinch hitting for Farrell, and it looked like a walk which would force in a run and leave Kiki Cuyler at bat. Well, Lyons stuck two across the heart of the pan which was O. K., for Stevie had Ted in the hole, but Ted put the third one right across, too, and Stevie was fanned without taking his bat off his shoulder, and that was the best chance the Cubs had to get anywhere.

So, Arch, it was a nice game to watch, but if you send me to any more games I think I'll sit in the press stand instead of the left field pavilion, even if I do see the same things Ed Burns sees. Regards,

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

P. S.—I took a street car out to the game when I had plenty of time, but it cost $1.05 taxi fare back, and I gave the driver a 20 cent tip, because you said you wanted early copy, so I suppose that will be all right in my expense account, won't it?

ST. LOUIS FANS STORM RADIOS TO HEAR SERIES

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Thousands of St. Louis residents forgot all about business duties today to listen to the radio reports of the first world series game in Philadelphia between the Cardinals and the Athletics. They were clustered in front of radio shops downtown, at street corners, everywhere where a loud speaker had been set up.

While practically every fan who listened to the radio reports was disappointed at the outcome of the first game, there was no gloom in the Cardinal office. Club officials pointed out that the Yankees won the first game of the 1926 series, but the Cardinals came from behind to win the deciding game. They also pointed out the Cardinals have been most dangerous all season when they were trailing.

"There are six more games to this series," they kept telling one another around Sportsman's park.

BOTTOMLEY AND DOUTHIT MAY BE TRADED TO REDS

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Enquirer says it has information that negotiations are practically completed for a deal between the Reds and the Cardinals whereby Red Lucas and Joe Stripp of the Reds are to be traded to the St. Louis Cardinals for Jim Bottomley and Taylor Douthit. The paper says its information comes from a person identified with the St. Louis management, adding the deal will be completed after the world series.

McCARTHY LOOKS OVER BIDS FROM YANKS, RED SOX

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Joe McCarthy, deposed manager of the Chicago Cubs, told the Associated Press tonight that, while negotiations were strictly in the preliminary stage, he had virtually rejected an offer to manage the Red Sox in preference to accepting a chance to pilot the New York Yankees in 1931.

McCarthy made it plain he had reached no definite agreements nor signed any contracts, but clearly indicated the New York club wanted his services and he was in a receptive mood to undertake the job of trying to put the Yankees back on top of the American league heap.

Will Confer with Ruppert.

The ex-Cub boss admitted having a telephone chat today with E. G. Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, and added that he expected later in the week to go to New York for perhaps a final conference with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club.

"However, I have talked positive terms with no one," McCarthy said, despite the fact that he had been closeted earlier and for some time with Bob Quinn, president of the Red Sox, who are understood to have first call on McCarthy's services.

Not a Question of Money.

It was indicated that the prospect of trying to uplift a tail ender was much less attractive than the chance to take over a first division outfit, such as New York, with assets that helped capture six pennants in recent years.

"It's not always a question of money," McCarthy said in answer to a question as to whether financial considerations would not prompt his decision to accept a New York offer. "I want to go where there is the most opportunity."

FRISCH GETS HIS 42D SERIES HIT TO EQUAL RECORD

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Frank Frisch, St. Louis Cardinal second baseman, equaled the record for total hits in world series play by getting two safeties in the opening contest today. A double and a single ran Frisch's total to 42 to tie the number made by Eddie Collins in six series. This is the sixth series for Frisch.

Collins, now nonplaying captain of the Athletics, sat on the Philadelphia bench and saw Frisch pull up level with him. As Frisch will have at least three more games in which to get a hit, he should break the record before the series is concluded.

English Kept Out of Series by Sickness

Woody English was out of the lineup because of a deep cold. Farrell and Beck both did some shortstopping and made no mistakes. But it might take years and years for either to get a hit off Lyons, whereas Woody would have had a chance to get hold of one. It was said there is no telling whether Woody will get into the series.

WOODY ENGLISH.

The Sox had a star casualty to report, too. Tommy Thomas, who is a great hand to take canned dainties to his room, and leave part of the contents in the can for consumption the next day, again got bit by ptomaine bugs. He thinks, however, that he'll be strong enough to pitch the fourth game of the series.

The south side fans were on Hack Wilson. His every appearance at the plate brought forth a shower of lemons and other missiles, none actually designed to injure the new home run king.

Manager Donie Bush, whose passion as a National league manager was thrashing the Cubs, confided before the series that his greatest concern was to stop Wilson, Cuyler, and Hartnett. Lyons gratified his desires by squelching Hack and Ki completely, but Gabby wasn't so easily tamed.

There were many kicks on the inefficiency of the ushering force. This, perhaps, should be condoned on the grounds that the Sox force isn't accustomed to handling large crowds.

There were at least two organized fan groups at the game; the Theodore Lyons Marching club of Chicago and the Donie Bush Marching and Pleasure club of Marion county, Ind.

Cuyler's record was: Fouled to Tate; thrown out twice by Cissell; thrown out by Kamm. Hack's record was: Walked; popped to Kamm; thrown out by Kerr; flied to Watwood.

Bell batted .667 to lead both clubs. He walked to fill the bases in the second inning; fouled to Tate with Kelly on first in the fifth inning; singled with Hartnett on first in the seventh inning, and doubled with Kelly on first in the ninth inning.

Manager Bush's mother called him from Indianapolis before the game. "Be sure to win," she said, "and don't get bounced out of the game for arguing with the umpires." And Donie didn't yelp at the umpires on a single occasion.

EXTRA BASE HITS OR NOTHING—THAT'S HOW THEY PLAY BALL IN PHILADELPHIA

Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia first baseman, scores the first run of the world series. With one out in the second inning, he tripled to right field and came in on Bing Miller's sacrifice fly. Burleigh Grimes, the Cardinals' veteran spitball hurler, allowed the defending champions only five hits, but every one meant a run.

that I want to let you fans in on. Come on, fans, and sit down beside me here on the bench in the old dugout, and I will take you into my confidence about a little thing that happened out there in the fray today which the newspaper boys, who are all my friends and a fine body of men, could hardly appreciate because they could not be expected to know what was going on in a manager's mind, as only a privileged few really know what he is thinking about and even those few sometimes get crossed up by the lightning of strategy. At the psychological point of the game, with two on and two out, I told a certain party to step up there and bust one, as we say. Now, here was a situation where if he had hit one hard enough there would have been the old ball game for you right there.

But, as it turned out, he took three, as we say, and the situation was turned the other way around. But that is the way life goes, and I would not care much for any man, be he a society millionaire or a poorly garbed workingman, if he cannot take the bitter with the sweet and keep on trying.

Judge Always Fair, Square.

Now, I have heard a heap of arguments pro and con about the lively ball, and for my part I will stick with Judge K. M. Landis, the supreme arbiter of the national pastime. I have known the judge for I guess it must be nigh on to ten years now, and I always have found him a fair, square arbiter who gives everybody an even break without fear or favor, guarding the corner stone of the game against the fangs of the gamblers who always are hovering about ready to besmirch the very bulwark of sport. I defy any one to show me where he has not been an asset to the game at all times and I want to go on record right here and now one hundred per cent for the judge.

What a Difference Foul Makes!

his hands and started bearing down. Beginning with the second inning and continuing until the eighth Malone allowed only one hit, a scratch infield single by Cissell with two out in the sixth. In the eighth Pat was touched up a bit, and perpetrated an error besides, giving the Sox one earned run and one unearned one.

Four of the Sox runs were earned. The marker with which the Cubs escaped a shutout was scored by Kelly with two out in the ninth, after George was given first on an error by Kamm, causing the score to be set down in the records as unearned.

Cubs Are Confused.

The playing of the Sox, aside from the talented pitching of Lyons, was better than that of the Cubs. They made no mistakes of judgment, while Malone, Blair and Kelly repeatedly were in an uproar as to the proper covering of balls hit well inside of first base, a confusion pardonable once in a while, but a bit stupid when repeated three or four times.

The Sox fans got great satisfaction, it is said, out of the capable play of Bill Cissell and Smead Jolley, generally figured the nervous factors in the Sox defense. Cissell made some handsome pickups and he never threw the ball better in his life. Big Smead had some anxious staggers under long flies, but he seized every opportunity faultlessly not only on the flies but through the capture of ground balls on three singles and a double which came his way. Through his skilled conduct Smead held two runners at second who had progressed on singles and George Kelly didn't even feint a dash to the plate on Bell's double in the ninth, though Smead, just to show his arm, threw to the plate, regardless.

Sox Take Early Lead.

Both ends of the first inning were a source of joy to south side partisans, the first half showing an airtight defense and the latter half developing much smacking of the ball and the scoring of three runs before a double play ended the session.

Lyons pitched only seven balls to dispose of the Cubs in this opening inning. He threw two strikes past Blair, one wide one, then the third strike. Farrell took a strike, then popped to Kerr back of the pitcher's box. Cuyler fouled the first pitch to Tate.

Malone started his day's labor by pitching four wide ones to Kerr. Watwood singled to right, Kerr going to third. Reynolds doubled off Danny Taylor's glove near the left field wall, Kerr scoring and Watwood stopping at third. Jolley beat out a single to Kelly, Watwood scoring and Reynolds taking third. Cissell forced Jolley, Malone to Farrell, Reynolds scoring. Clancy then hit into a double play, Blair to Farrell to Kelly.

The Cubs filled the bases in the second inning, but the threat ended when Jolley stepped across the left foul line and pulled down Malone's high one, which was foul by about a foot. Wilson walked to start the second inning, but was forced by Dan Taylor, Cissell to Kerr. Hartnett singled to left, Taylor stopping at second. Kelly forced Hartnett, Kamm to Kerr, Taylor stopping at third. Bell walked, filling the bases. Then the inning ended with the aforementioned long foul by Malone.

Kamm Is Passed.

The Sox failed to get the ball out of the infield in the second inning, but Kamm walked on four pitches with one out and got to second on an infield out.

It was three up and three down for both clubs in the third inning and three up and three down for the Cubs in the fourth inning. The Sox escaped the same fate in the fourth only because Clancy was given a pass. It was in this inning that Malone, pitching to Kamm, let loose a wild pitch. It did not upset the big boy, however, as witness the fact that he then proceeded to fan Kamm for the third out.

Kelly walked on four pitches at the outset of the fifth inning, but Bell fouled to Tate. Malone ran the count to two balls and two strikes then singled to left, Kelly stopping at second. Blair fanned and Cissell threw out Farrell. Lyons, Kerr, and Watwood went out in order in the Sox end of the fifth.

In the sixth Cuyler, Wilson, and D. Taylor supplied infield outs. Hack was retired and swell work by Kerr and Clancy which inspired a terrific roar from the pudgy one. The last putout gave Lyons his chance to show the Cubs what the Lyons fans mean when they claim their hero is one of the best fielding pitchers in baseball. Danny Taylor apparently hadn't heard about Ted's talents as a fielder, however, for he bunted. It was a beautiful bunt, too, but Ted simply grabbed it with his bare hand, straightened only a little bit and threw out the speedy Danny by about four feet. In the Sox part of the sixth Cissell got a scratch single with two out, but immediately was caught trying to steal second.

Cubs Fill Bases.

The Cubs loaded the bases again in the seventh, but production was blighted when Lyons rose to the greatest heights of the game. Hartnett opened the inning with his second single and the third hit off Lyons. Kelly fanned on three pitched balls, but Bell singled to right, Hartnett stopping at second.

Malone fanned on three pitches, but the bases were full when Blair bounced a single off Clancy's glove. The ball was deflected to Kerr, who threw to Lyons covering first, but Clarence was adjudged safe by an eyelash. Stephenson batted for Farrel and the members of the Theodore Lyons Marching club sat agape as Ted threw three wide ones to Stevie. Then Ted threw three sweet strikes past Stevie and the inning was over. The Sox went out in order in the seventh.

Cuyler, Wilson and Taylor again were soft for Lyons in the eighth, but in their half the Sox stepped out and put the game in the locker. Lyons started it with a line single to center and moved to second on Kerr's sacrifice bunt. Watwood dumped a scratch single between home and third, Lyons stopping at third. Reynolds sent a sacrifice fly to Wilson and Lyons trotted in from third and Watwood went to second.

Malone Drops Throw.

Malone, who during the afternoon had displayed his well known aversion to covering first base, was a bit slow on getting over to receive the ball after Kelly had picked up Jolley's grounder. Pat dropped the throw, Watwood scoring. Cissell singled off Bell's glove, Jolley stopping at second, but the inning ended when Cuyler made a nice running catch to capture Clancy's long fly.

The Cubs ducked a shutout in the ninth in the following manner: Hartnett flied to Jolley, but Kelly was safe when Kamm made a low throw to first. Bell doubled to left, Kelly stopping at third. Grimm batted for Malone and popped a foul to Clancy for the second out. Blair shot a liner between first and second and Clancy made a nice leaping try, but the ball failed to stick in Bud's glove and Kelly got home with the lone Cub score, Bell pulling up at third. Heathcote batted for Blake and ended the game with a tap to Kerr.

Touchdowns were scored by Arthur Williams, and Frosty Peters, former Illinois quarter back. Peters ran 40 yards after he intercepted a pass. He dropkicked both extra points.

MACKS' VICTORY FAILS TO EXCITE HERBERT HOOVER

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP)—President Hoover was among the few onlookers at the opening world's series battle who did not consider the weather severe enough to wear a topcoat. The chief executive, attired in a brown business suit, sat calmly throughout the game with arms folded, not displaying the enthusiasm he showed during the last game of the 1929 series here.

Coats, furs and even blankets were used by the fans to keep warm during an afternoon in which chilly blasts swirled in and out of the big park, kicking up dust around the infield and perhaps contributing to the failure of Lefty Grove to warm up properly to expectations as strikeout king of the American league.

Grimes, a hard fighter on the mound, had only one squawk to make during the game. This was in the sixth, when he kicked on a decision behind the plate by Umpire George Moriarty, old Detroit infielder. Burleigh then fanned Cochrane.

Bing Miller contributed to the superlative defense of the A's with a bare hand, running stop of Frisch's double down the right field foul line in the fifth. On similar hard blows Haas and Foxx of the A's got triples. Haas was aided, however, in going to third base by the fact that his drive caromed into the bullpen among Cardinal pitchers, who were no help whatever to Ray Blades in retrieving the ball.

Burleigh Grimes had the heavy hitters of the A's constantly in the hole with fine control, but he suffered disastrous lapses in throwing "extra base balls" at Cochrane, Simmons, Foxx, Haas and Dykes. This was Burleigh's first series appearance since he twirled for Brooklyn in 1920 against Cleveland. The spitballer won one and lost two in that battle. He has been with five National league clubs in the course of a checkered career.

Grimes had the best batting average of the day, anyway. He hit safely twice in his three times at bat for a percentage of .667, and could have done no worse than the pinch hitter who replaced him in the ninth, Puccinelli.

Sunny Jim Bottomley, rangy first sacker of the Cardinals, failed to meet expectations at bat and was one of the few completely baffled by Grove. Jim fanned and fouled out twice, failing to get the ball out of the infield on his fourth attempt.

The only near casualty of the day was when one of Grove's fire balls shot past Cochrane and struck Umpire Moriarity square on the chest protector. Moriarity took the pad off, walked in a circle, and then resumed his position. Of course, the unfeeling fans laughed.

The press box had a full quota of experts drawn from the ranks of present and former stars. Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, and John McGraw were in this company.

When Connie was asked what the argument was about between Grimes and Cochrane when the latter struck out in the sixth he said:

"O, you know how it is in a tight ball game. Things are said that are not meant."

Simmons almost won an automobile when he poled his homer in the fourth. The drive missed by a few feet a sign outside the grounds, which promised a sport model to any ball player hitting it.

Old time fans who lament the passing of base running and smartness on the path, enjoyed the duel of wits in the first inning between the Cards' battery and Cochrane on first. Grimes and Mancuso finally outwitted the A's catcher and he was nailed trying to steal.

out. He was back again in the sixth, and this was when the day's big rumpus occurred. Burleigh, always bluffing his spitter, but actually using it only on tight occasions, had Mickey so timid that he held his bat on his shoulder while a third strike curved over.

It took the third strike to awaken Cochrane to the fact that he had been outsmarted. Before he fanned he had watched Grimes bark at Umpire Moriarity on a close ball that made the count 2 and 2. The next was outside, making it 3 and 2. The next was the third strike. Then Cochrane walked toward the bench, but not in silence.

Cochrane barked long enough to arouse the customers. They booed and yowled at Burleigh, but he was pitching world series battles exactly ten years ago, so he wasn't annoyed. Of course, Cochrane later sent his homer over the short right field wall, but this was only the fifth hit, and anybody able to hold the Macks to that number is pitching baseball.

Players Refuse to Be Awed.

Neither team appeared to be especially distressed by the money and prestige involved. The infields were flawless, with the Cardinals having an edge because of the consistency of Gelbert at short and the indomitable Frisch at second. The outfields were not called upon except to catch ordinary fly balls.

If anybody wants a real hero for the day he can find him. He didn't hit any live balls over short barriers, but he was the heart of the entry from the midwest. He was and is Frankie Frisch. His fielding was perfect, but it's always that way. He was at bat four times. Twice he hit safely. Twice he was stopped, once because Bishop skidded far to his left for a hard grounder and again when Bishop leaped into the air to catch a hard liner. Two were on base at the time.

First Inning Uneventful.

The first inning was uneventful, except that, with two out, Cochrane walked after Grimes had knocked him down as a warning. He was retired in an attempt to steal second base.

Round two, however, changed the setting. Before Cochrane attempted his futile steal in the first inning Simmons had tried to hit what Grimes was throwing and couldn't. Before he could conclude his legal appearance Simmons was paroled on Cochrane's vain steal. Thus the Polish boy from Milwaukee was back to start the second. He could no nothing better than tap to the pitcher.

Then the ponderous Foxx hit a long fly close to the extremity of the right field line. Blades took it on the rebound off the wall, turned to throw and let the ball drop behind him. Foxx, who was half way to third, started back for second and then reversed and reached third. They scored it a triple. A moment later Miller sent a fly to Blades, and Foxx ran home after the catch.

St. Louis Fills Bases.

When St. Louis jumped out in front with two runs in the third it looked as if the luck of the Mackmen was about to desert them. Mancuso, who didn't fear Grove's speed even though the day was cloud laden and gusty, singled to right. Gelbert did the same. Grimes bunted, and Grove, in reaching for the ball, fell flat, giving Grimes a hit.

The next happening was a fly by Douthit. It went to center, and Haas, who a year ago hit the homer that decided the world title while Pat Malone of the Cubs was pitching, almost lost it. He staggered and finally caught it off his shoes. He didn't regain his balance until Mancuso had scored and Gelbert had gone from second to third. Adams sent a fly to Miller. The throw was wide and late, so Gelbert easily scored after the catch. Frisch then bounced a single over Grove, but Bottomley, who didn't get the ball out of the infield, fouled out.

There were two out in the Macks' fourth before Grimes encountered more than he had anticipated. Simmons waited until he had worked the count down to two balls and one strike. He reached out for the next pitch and the ball landed on the pavement behind the low right field wall. Grimes fanned Foxx to end the inning.

Grimes Begins to Weaken.

The disintegration of the stout hearted Grimes set in after he had fanned Grove to start the sixth. Bishop with a count of one ball and one strike made the Macks' first attempt to bunt. He missed. Eventually Grimes walked him, which was an indication of weakening. Dykes came along and worked the count down to 2 and 2. Grimes tried to get the next one over, and Dykes whacked it. The ball came down with a bang against the wall in front of the pavilion in left field. Bishop tore around to the plate and Dykes pulled up at second. Grimes then fanned Cochrane, purposely walked Simmons, and whiffed Foxx.

The seventh inning, in which St. Louis made its second bid for recognition, started with Gelbert being tossed out by Dykes. Grimes lashed a ball between first and second for his second hit of the day. Douthit bounced sharply to short, and Boley fumbled momentarily, but Grimes, being a pitcher, was slow afoot. Boley recovered in time to throw him out at second. Adams contributed to the possibilities by singling through short. Then came Frisch. He ripped off a high liner toward right center. Bishop jumped up and stabbed it with his leathered hand. It stopped everything. There was only one Cardinal hit thereafter. It was Hafey's double through short with one out in the eighth.

A's Work Squeeze Play.

In the home portion of the seventh, Haas came up with one out and lined over the head of Bottomley. The ball came down by inches inside the foul line and eventually Blades fished it out from among the occupants of the St. Louis bull pen. In the meantime, Haas was on third. Then the Macks put on the squeeze play. Haas raced for the plate and was only a few feet away when Boley bunted. Grimes threw Boley out at first, but there was no chance to stop Haas.

Then in the eighth Cochrane completed the day's scoring, as well as the hitting, by sailing his homer over the right field barrier. It was a line drive on the first ball pitched by Grimes and would have been good for a homer in any park.

FORWARD PASS RULES CONFUSE MR. GRIDIRON FAN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When is a forward pass completed? Mr. Average Fan may reply it's completed if caught before it strikes the ground. Or he may say it is completed if thrown to an eligible player. Both answers are incomplete.

The revised code of football rules devotes four pages to forward passes and like most technical phraseology the rules are difficult for the layman to understand. A review of rules for forward passes is apropos.

A forward pass may be made only from scrimmage. This prohibits the defensive team from using the play. The passer must be at least five yards behind the line of the scrimmage when he throws. These are easily understood fundamentals.

Must Be Seven on Line.

The rules provide that at least seven men of the offensive team must play on the line of scrimmage. The players on the end of the scrimmage line are eligible to receive forward passes. The back field men [a player is considered a back if he is one yard behind the line of scrimmage] also are eligible. Thus five men, two ends and three backs are eligible.

All opponents are eligible to receive the pass and run with it after interception. Furthermore, if an opponent touches the ball it may be retrieved by any one of the players on each team before it falls to the ground.

However, if the forward pass is touched by an eligible player of the offensive team, he is the only one of the offensive team who may handle the ball. The other originally eligible men on the offense no longer may recover, except if the ball is touched later by the defense.

Reviews Technical Point.

This gives rise to a situation which the average public seldom understands. For instance, the passer on team A throws to his left end who juggles the ball and it is recovered by a half back of team A before the ball strikes the ground. The pass is incomplete and counts a down. The penalty cannot be refused. This means that if the end and half back touched the ball and a defensive player then recovered it cannot run with it.

Here's another point. If an eligible player runs out of bounds, either along the side line or over the end zone (scoring zone) he no longer is eligible. A qualification for this rule provides that if a defensive player touches the ball the man out of bounds again is eligible, providing he has come back into the field of play before the defensive player touched the ball.

Following is an example which occurs occasionally: Team A passes to an end as he runs into the end zone. However as he catches the ball for what appears to be a touchdown he steps on either the side line or end zone line. It is not a touchdown, but an incompleted pass. Since the pass is incompleted over the end zone the ball goes to the opponents on their 20 yard line for an incompleted pass over the goal lines is a touchback.

One Pass Per Scrimmage.

Only one forward pass may be made from one scrimmage. There is no limit on the number of lateral passes (passes thrown parallel or backward). A lateral pass may be thrown regardless of relationship to the scrimmage line.

If a forward pass touches an ineligible player the ball goes to the opponents at the point of the foul. If an ineligible player interferes with a forward pass his team is penalized 15 yards from the point of the previous down. This ruling was clarified in the 1930 code and it completely abolished the "screen" pass. Linemen, who are ineligible, can not cross the line of scrimmage on a pass play, or if they do, other than to block opposing linemen, it is considered interference.

A final point, and well understood, is a second or more incompleted forward pass in the same series of downs brings a 5 yard penalty.

Injury Puts Irish Tackle in Hospital

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Frank Leahy, veteran Notre Dame tackle, was injured in scrimmage today and taken to a hospital, where physicians said he probably would be unable to play against Southern Methodist university Saturday.

The varsity continued to throw passes frequently in scrimmage today. The first string scrimmaged against a frosh eleven this afternoon and ran up six touchdowns, four of them by air and two on running plays. Carlieo was not used, and Rockne tried three reserve quarter backs in his place in an effort to find a suitable substitu c Mullins, Schwartz, and Brill made up the rest of the back field.

Emmet Murphy looked the best of the three signal callers used this afternoon. Christman and Cronin were the others tried out.

PURDUE TACKLE INJURED.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Purdue's supply of veteran ends was cut in half this afternoon when Paul Calvert, 1929 letter winner, turned up with an injured shoulder that will keep him out of Saturday's opener against Baylor. Ed Moon remains as the only veteran wingman. Moss and Bateman, sophomores, are leading candidates for Calvert's job.

The varsity scrimmaged the frosh today and a back field of Pope, Purvis, White and Yunevich gained ground consistently.

OWEN REJOINS ILLINOIS.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Boyd Owen, 175 pound sophomore end, who was used regularly until two weeks ago when he was injured, returned to the University of Illinois football team today.

Coach Zuppke experimented with his line up today in an attempt to fill the full back and half back positions vacated by Capt. Robinson and Clifford Evans, who are temporarily out of the game with injuries. Claude Myers, Fithian, Ill., was tried at half back. Art Schultz has been used at full back since Capt. Robinson injured his shoulder.

The freshman team used Iowa State plays against the varsity again today. Coach Zuppke reminded the players that Iowa State was good enough to tie the championship Illinois team of 1927.

MICHIGAN BATTLES FROSH.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Freshmen tried their skill today against the running and passing attack which Michigan will employ Saturday against Michigan State. The second team gave the yearlings more trouble than the varsity eleven.

Williamson replaced Daniels at right end, but the change was only temporary to give the Toledo boy experience. Daniels and Hewitt will be at ends when the game starts Saturday.

INDIANA READY FOR OPENER.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Indiana's football team is rounding into shape for the first Western conference battle of the season with Ohio State at Columbus Saturday. Men who saw the most service against Miami last Saturday were given light workouts today, while the rest of the squad was divided into two teams, one led by Mankowski and the other by Baxter, for a double scrimmage against the freshmen. Hoover, who showed promise as a half back two years ago, is now an understudy to Ross, who is expected to be one of Indiana's best ball carriers this year.

HE'LL HIT DRAKE LINE

Oregon Will Arrive Today for Workout

Football teams of the University of Oregon and Drake university, which meet at Soldiers' field tomorrow night, will arrive in Chicago today for brief workouts. It will be the fourth practice for Oregon since it left Portland for Chicago Sunday. Drills were held at Pocatello, Denver, and Omaha.

Although back fields of both teams will be comparatively light line men will average more than 190 pounds. Dr. Clarence Spears, for five years coach at Minnesota, is coaching the Oregon team. Last year the far westerners won the co-championship of the Pacific coast conference with California, Stanford and Southern California.

Drake's squad, coached by Ossie Solem, is in good condition for the game. Last year the Bulldogs played Notre Dame at Soldiers' field and led the Irish, 7 to 6, at the end of the third quarter.

OLD RUTGERS PLAYER DIES.

Hudson, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Ezra Deane De Lamater, 79, who played on the Rutgers college football team which in 1869 introduced the game to American colleges, died here today.

Mr. Pheasant Likes a Nip of Tomato Juice

BY BOB BECKER.

The ring necked pheasants up our way have taken up the tomato juice cocktail idea judging from their activities in gardens near us. Tomatoes left on the vines during the last few weeks have been cleaned out by the ringnecks who haven't been the least bit timid about stalking right into backyards to get drinks and meals from the ripe vegetables.

Other garden truck also has been raided by the bold ringnecks much to the dismay of home owners who had ideas of doing their own harvesting.

For several years we have noted a constant increase in the number of pheasants in spite of the thousands of hunters who comb northern Illinois pretty thoroughly each fall.

Ringneck Like Quail.

However, birds which live close to towns on protected lands do not stray far enough from their hangouts to encounter much trouble from hunters. As far as we can judge the ringneck is no more of a traveler than the quail, many of which never travel farther than a half mile or a mile from their nests during their lifetime.

The habit of the pheasant to stick pretty close to home is one reason why they have increased in our neighborhood. And with this increase has come confidence and even boldness in their behavior. Given half a chance the pheasant will calmly walk into a backyard or even on a back porch and grab himself a meal. Now he is running true to form in taking up the tomato juice habit in north shore gardens.

Pheasants Eat Flowers.

Of all our game birds in this section the pheasant is easily the most "easy-come-easy-go" bird as far as food habits are concerned. South Dakota has proven that by the examination of hundreds of pheasant stomachs.

DE PAUL PREPARES OFFENSIVE PLAYS FOR BUENA VISTA

Offensive plays were given considerable attention by members of the De Paul university football squad yesterday. When the Blue Demons open their season against Buena Vista college of Storm Lake, Ia., here Saturday many of their plays will be constructed around Frank Hartman, fleet 155 pound half back.

During scrimmage yesterday Hartman proved one of the most consistent ground gainers when used for end runs. His tackling, blocking and passing were also outstanding.

Urban, Canisius Grid and Cage Coach, Resigns

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Luke Urban, for nine years head football and basketball coach at Canisius college, resigned today, giving as his only reason the statement, "I think it is for the best interest of Canisius and for myself." His resignation was to take effect at the close of the coming basketball season.

Loyola Meets Georgetown 11 Tomorrow

Loyola's Ramblers will play their first intersectional football game of the season tomorrow night when they meet Georgetown university at Loyola stadium.

The back field upon which Loyola will pin its hopes will be slightly changed from the one which faced Carroll college in the opening game last week; John Smith, veteran full back, will start against the easterners. This means that Hank Ployhart, who played last week, or Wallie Durkin will draw the assignment as running mate to Capt. Les Molloy.

Since both schools have heavy forward walls with marked defensive ability, it is likely that the passing game will be resorted to by both teams. The Georgetown back field is well equipped for this method of attack. Phil Mooney, former Loyola academy star, is a talanted passer besides being a great open field runner. He plays at half back. Leary is at the other half back post, Schalzi at quarter and Bordeau, capable line plunger, at full.

Knox College Center, Half Back, Are Injured

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Don Bellinger, half back, and Kemp, center, who seemed certain of places in the starting line-up when Knox opens its season against Macomb Teachers' college Saturday, were injured in practice today and will not be able to play for several weeks.

Badger Guard Eligible, but 2 Others Lost

Madison, Wis., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Dave Tobias, regular guard on the University of Wisconsin eleven last fall, was declared eligible today, but the good news was more than counterbalanced when Paul Ellicker, sophomore half back, suffered a broken collar bone and Walter Gnabah, first string lineman, withdrew from school.

The Badgers will open the season with Carleton and Lawrence here Saturday, but they were preparing today for the Big Ten game with Chicago, Oct. 11. Freshmen completed a number of Maroon passing plays during a long scrimmage, largely due to the accurate throwing of Ernie Kaeser, former Madison Central High school back.

Linfor's long runs and the plunging of Lusby and Oman featured when the varsity was given the ball.

COLONELS BEAT ROCHESTER, 6-5, IN LITTLE SERIES

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Louisville American association champions defeated the Rochester International flag winners, 6 to 5, in the seventh game of the little world series here today.

Had Rochester won the Red Wings would have left Louisville tonight wearing the championship crown of the minor leagues, which they have futilely sought for the last two years.

The tally now stands four games for Rochester and three for Louisville, with five needed for the crown. Rochester lost the little series to Indianapolis in 1928 and to Kansas City last year.

$20,000 HORSE, SOLD FOR A SONG, WINS AT 11 TO 1

BY FRENCH LANE.

About this time a year ago there was a 2 year old filly in Kentucky which had never faced the barrier on any race track, but which could not be purchased for $20,000. She was owned by Harry Morrisey, the starter on Chicago tracks, and the daughter of Cudgel-Buckwheat had been named Kincsen. Mr. Morrisey, who specialized in blood lines as well as presiding at the starting gate, was of the opinion this was one of the best bred horses in America.

When his starting duties ended in Chicago last November, Morrisey loaded Kincsen into an express car and shipped her to New Orleans. He was going to cut her loose there some day and win the wager of his life, and at the same time prove to the world that this offspring of Cudgel-Buckwheat was really a champion.

Wouldn't Run for Morrisey.

But Morrisey couldn't get Kincsen into a running mood at New Orleans. He started her three times. She wasn't able to poke her nose down in front and so he sold the filly for which he had refused $20,000 for $7,500. In her next two races Kincsen stepped out to victory.

But since last March 4, in New Orleans, Kincsen has been a sort of a turf loafer. She started just once, at Lexington on April 17, only to be beaten badly.

Kincsen came back to the races at Hawthorne yesterday in a $5,000 claiming race. She was up against such speedsters as Cheers, Bramstar, Poppyfield, Black Diamond and Blushing Maiden. The fans backed all of them except Kincsen. Then came the race. Poppyfield went out to make a dizzy pace. Bramstar was running second and Black Diamond third. Kincsen had only one horse beaten and that was the favorite, Cheers.

Kincsen Rallies to Win.

They rounded into the stretch in that order. Poppyfield and Bramstar and Black Diamond went a bit wide. Jockey De Peso shot Kincsen through on the rail. She ran so fast in the stretch that she made up some eight lengths and went on to win by a length. Poppyfield saved second money by a head from Bramstar.

After her bad luck in the early stages Kincsen ran the six furlongs in 1:12, and you should have heard those Kincsen backers cheer when the mutuels prices were hung out. She paid $24.36 to win, $10.48 to place, and $5.86 to show. Poppyfield paid $7.10 to place and $4.48 to show, and Bramstar was at $8.88 to show. It will be quite a while before Kincsen runs to be claimed for $5,000 again, and maybe after all Morrisey bred a champion on his Kentucky farm. He would rather do that than send 600 fields away in perfect alignment.

Kincsen raced in the silks of Mrs. J. H. McCoole.

THREAT TO WRECK CARDINALS TOLD IN HOCKEY SUIT

Edward J. Livingstone, Canadian hockey promoter, who is suing Maj. Federic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks, for $700,000, testified at the trial in Federal Judge Carpenter's court yesterday that McLaughlin threatened to induce his players to break their contracts.

Livingstone charges that McLaughlin conspired with officials of the two major hockey leagues to force his Chicago Cardinals out of the American Hockey association and to break his lease with the Coliseum. Livingstone exhibited contracts with four players who, he charges, were induced to quit the team by McLaughlin.

A. B. A. ADOPTS A LIMITED BRANCH BANKING POLICY

State Bank Groups May Lodge Protest.

BY O. A. MATHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Oct. 1.—Under a swing of the gavel of President John G. Lonsdale, the American Bankers association today was committed to a policy of limited branch banking. Heretofore, the association has stood against branch banking and whether this policy should be changed was the chief issue before the annual convention.

The issue was fought out on the floor of the convention this morning and the advocates of a new policy won, but under circumstances that may bring another contest at next year's convention on the charge that today's action was illegal. Tonight little groups of delegates representing the state banks were discussing the advisability of protesting President Lonsdale's action in gaveling through the change.

The general session today included the election of officers. According to the seniority rule of the association, Rome C. Stephenson, vice president of the St. Joseph County Savings bank, South Bend, Ind., was promoted from first vice president to president and Harry J. Haas, vice president of the First National bank, Philadelphia, was elevated from second to first vice president. Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company, New York, was elected second vice president.

When Fight Started.

The fight over the branch banking question started when the resolutions committee presented its report, which was read by Max B. Nahm, chairman, who is vice president of the Citizens National bank, Bowling Green, Ky. The section of the resolutions dealing with branch banking follows:

"The American system of unit banking, as contrasted with the banking systems of other countries, has been peculiarly adapted to the highly specialized economic life of the United States. The future demands the continued growth and service of the unit bank in areas economically able to support sound, independent banking of this type, especially as a protection against undue centralization of banking power.

"Modern transportation and other economic changes, both in large centers and country districts, make necessary some readjustment of banking facilities. In view of these facts, this association, while reaffirming its belief in the unit bank, recognizes that a modification of its former resolutions condemning branch banking in any form is advisable. The association believes in the economic desirability of community-wide branch banking in metropolitan areas and county-wide branch banking in rural districts where economically justified."

Protests Definite Stand.

Immediately following the reading of the resolutions, C. F. Zimmerman, president of the First National bank, Huntingdon, Pa., spoke from the convention floor protesting against any definite stand on branch banking being taken. He demanded that no action be taken reflecting on the state banking system.

Several other delegates offered similar protests and finally a redrafting of the resolution was agreed to. After some delay, the resolutions committee and the protesting bankers presented an addition to the resolution. It reads:

"The association supports in every respect the autonomy of the laws of the separate states in respect to banking. No class of banks in the several states should enjoy greater rights than banks chartered under the state laws."

President Lonsdale called for an affirmative vote on the resolutions and a chorus of "ayes" came from the floor. But then he swung the gavel without calling for a negative vote.

"How about the noes?" a score of delegates shouted. But no vote was called for, although delegates on the platform said later that President Lonsdale had turned to F. N. Shepard, executive manager, and asked if there had been a negative vote. Mr. Shepard said he had heard no "noes."

Other sections of the resolution expressed the belief of the bankers that the present depression has about run its course and that gradual but definite improvement may be expected. The European policy of government doles in times of unemployment was condemned and some system of private insurance was recommended.

The part played by American bankers in helping set up the Bank for International Settlements to disburse German reparations was commended, although it was stated that the association "realizes that public opinion in this country is still opposed to active participation on the part of this government in the settlements growing out of the treaty of Versailles."

Another section of the resolutions protested against discriminatory taxation of national banks to the benefit of state banks and indorsed pending legislation designed to base state taxation of banks on income instead of capital or surplus.

Preparations for the visit of President Hoover, who will address the bankers tomorrow night, were in full swing today.

I. C. C. Probes Railroad Policies of Reciprocity

BY SCRUTATOR.

Examiners for the interstate commerce commission yesterday continued their investigation to determine whether American railroads use their purchasing departments as levers with which to force manufacturers to ship over their lines. The other half of the proposition is that manufacturers may be forcing the railroads to buy from them under threats that they will route shipments some other way unless they are favored with purchasing orders.

The hearing, being held at the Hotel Sherman, was devoted to hearing the testimony of two officials of the Chicago and North Western railroad, E. A. Clifford, purchasing agent, and H. W. Beyers, vice president in charge of traffic.

Each freely admitted that they preferred to buy from sources that were at least on good terms with large shippers. But as their testimony developed, this meant only that reciprocity in purchases of transportation and equipment is along the same line as belonging to a fraternal organization in which each member is obligated to trade with his brother when all things else are equal.

As It Would Work Out.

As this would work out, Jones and Smith present bids to the railroad to furnish a carload of ties. If Jones is a heavy shipper, or is allied with some one who has heavy tonnage for the road, while Smith has no such connections, Jones would get the order. This is qualified by the statement that in quality, price, and service Jones must give all that Smith would give.

Mr. Beyers admitted that he frequently had called the attention of his road's purchasing department to the fact that certain companies were good customers for shipping tonnage and had asked that others be taken off the list of firms from which the railroad bought. It was always understood, he added, that firms which were dealt with must make good on a strictly business basis.

It was apparent from the testimony that a large part of the North Western's purchases through Mr. Clifford, amounting to thirty-five or forty million dollars a year, were made with the reciprocity idea in view. Mr. Beyers made it plain, however, that he would consider it illegal and in the nature of a rebate for the railroad to pay more for any article than it was worth in order to hold traffic.

Introduces Correspondence.

M. C. List, attorney for the interstate commerce commission, introduced into the hearing correspondence between railroad officials tending to show that certain equipment firms were regarded as controlled by large packing houses or officials of other manufacturing companies in Chicago. Nothing definite was demonstrated to prove that the shipping power of these concerns was sufficient to enable the equipment firms to get any more for their products than competitors were willing to take for similar goods.

The commission is interested, Mr. List explained, only in seeing that small railroads are not penalized through the buying power of large railroads and deprived of freight revenue because they are not heavy buyers from the controlled equipment firms. Officials of other railroads are to appear next Monday and President Fred W. Sargent of the North Western has been summoned for next Wednesday.

The questionable feature of reciprocity, of trading with friends, hinges on whether railroads pay more to those friends to hold their traffic in competition with other roads. That some of them do, and thereby indulge in unfair competition, is at least the suspicion of the commerce commission.

CANADIAN ROADS TO START $21,000,000 PROGRAM AT ONCE

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Senator G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, announced today the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways would launch at once a $21,000,000 program of construction and improvement, entailing the employment of 10,500 men.

The railways will place substantial orders for 100 pound steel rails, he said. Canadian National has agreed to increase its purchases of coal by about 200,000 tons.

Of the $20,000,000 fund set up by the government for unemployment relief, $1,000,000 will be devoted to augmenting the grade separation fund for the removal of level crossings and $4,000,000 will be used for "direct relief" for those unable to obtain work. About $12,000,000 will be available for the construction of public works by provincial governments and municipalities, aided by the dominion government.

In order to assist prairie farmers who are victims of the low price of grain, the dominion government and the Manitoba government will contribute dollar for dollar to transport cattle from Winnipeg stock yards to farms in that province.

Improved Sentiment Lifts Wheat Prices 2—2¼ Cents

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Strong commission houses were persistent buyers of wheat yesterday and there was a noticeable lack of the nervousness so much in evidence recently. Weakness in Liverpool, which closed 1¼@2d lower, had only a temporary effect, the surplus in the pit being rapidly absorbed by houses with eastern connections. Later shorts became uneasy and covered freely, lifting prices 2⅛@2¼c from the low point and the finish was within a fraction of the top with net gains of 2@2¼c with December at 80¼@80⅝c; March, 83⅞@84c, and May, 86⅝@86⅞c.

Renewal of intimations that eastern speculators would commence to pay more attention to the grain markets had much to do with the change in sentiment. These intimations have been heard from time to time during recent weeks, but have lacked confirmation. Winnipeg wheat was firm and finished 1⅝@1¾c higher, hedging pressure being readily absorbed. The decline in Liverpool was based on the acceptance of low prices by Russia on offers to the continent and to liquidation which ran into stop loss orders. Buenos Aires was unchanged.

Millers After Cash Wheat.

There was some buying of May wheat here credited to eastern mills and the shipping demand for the cash grain showed considerable improvement with 129,000 bu sold by local handlers. There have been reports of late of a liberal flour business induced by the low prices. The government weekly weather crop report attracted some attention as it mentioned need of rain over a considerable area. The trade as a whole was more disposed to pay attention to bullish news than for some time, December at the high point was 80⅝c, or 4¾c above the low on Monday.

Private crop estimates showing an average of 241,000,000 bu, or 3,000,000 bu in excess of a month ago, and compared with 228,000,000 bu harvested last year, had no effect on the market. The three Canadian provinces have an average of 357,000,000 bu, against 282,000,000 bu secured last year.

Feeding of wheat to live stock is on a heavier scale than recently, estimated R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. expert, who now places the prospective minimum at 160,000,000 to 170,000,000 bu, the highest figures so far, while Donovan looks for 150,000,000 bu or more. Foreign demand was slow, with sales of around 300,000 bu, largely Manitobas, reported in all positions. Portland, Ore., reported charters had been made of late for 17 full cargoes to the United Kingdom and the Orient while all parcel room was booked for 60 days ahead.

Corn Active and Higher.

Private crop estimates, while showing an average of 2,003,000,000 bu, or 20,000,000 bu more than the government's September returns, were construed as moderately bullish. With buying by commission houses, local operators and shorts prices advanced 3@3¼c from the inside figures and closed within a fraction of the top with net gains of 2⅛@2⅝c. December finished at 82½c, March at 83⅞@83½c, and May at 85c. Foreign shorts were credited with covering during the day, while there was selling of corn to close spreads with other grains.

Feeding of new corn has started unusually early this season, as indicated by the private reports. This more than offset the prospective heavy substitution by the use of wheat. October corn closed at 83½c, or 6¾c over the December. Shipping demand was less aggressive with sales of 45,000 bu.

There was no material pressure on oats with cash and commission houses good buyers.

CURB MARKET STOCKS PUSH SHARPLY HIGHER

New York, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Along with stocks on the big board Curb market shares were carried sharply higher today in the inevitable reaction which comes after a prolonged selling movement.

Transactions aggregated 720,100 shares, as compared to more than 1,000,000 yesterday, but leading stocks were carried up 1 to 7 points, canceling most of the decline of the last two days.

Several of the stocks which were heavily sold on announcement of the Sisto failure yesterday, made substantial recovery. Cuneo Press gained more than 4 points and National Rubber Machinery more than 3.

CITES "WRITE-UP" IN MINNESOTA POWER ACCOUNT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The federal trade commission, investigating the financing of various public power utilities, received testimony today from Samuel Meisels, one of its examiners, that an account of the Minnesota Power and Light company showed a total "write-up" of $22,071,111 over that shown on the books of predecessor companies.

"There were possibly other write-ups which the commission examiners did not know about because certain books were refused to them," Meisels said. "If all questionable items were included, the write-ups would total $30,293,346."

American Smelting Cuts Price of Lead to 5.35 Cents

CLARENCE STOOL MADE HEAD OF TELETYPE CORP.

With the taking over yesterday by Western Electric company of the recently acquired Teletype corporation Clarence B. Stool assumed the presidency of the company, succeeding Sterling Morton. A recent exchange of 150,000 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph stock at an approximate market value of $30,000,000 was involved in the sale of Teletype corporation to the parent company of Western Electric.

Mr. Stool was formerly vice president in charge of operations for the Western Electric. Stanley Brachen, formerly assistant engineer of manufacures of Western Electric, becomes executive vice president, and Howard Krum, Teletype vice president in charge of engineering and sales, retains that position.

MONTGOMERY WARD SALES SHOW DECLINE

September sales of the company amounted to $21,332,576, as compared with $26,127,589 in the same month of 1928. They represented a decrease of $4,795,013 or 18.35 per cent. Sales for the first nine months totaled $191,153,121, compared with $193,698,785 in the corresponding months of 1929. The decline in sales for the nine months was $2,545,664, or 1.31 per cent.

Liner Reaches Italy with Sixty Barrels of Gold

Boatner Estimates Higher Great Western Sept. Net

September net income of the Chicago Great Western railroad, after interest and all charges, will show an increase of approximately $15,000 over September, 1929, and net for the first nine months of the year will be $106,000 ahead of the comparable period of 1929, V. V. Boatner, president, estimates. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, Mr. Boatner estimates that net income, after all charges, will approximate $790,000, or about $100,000 more than last year.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 1. — Wall street snapped out of it with a bang today. Leaders and would-be leaders of the stock trading fraternity put on their company faces and went on a buying spree that, before it ended with the session, had boosted values anywhere from 1 to 6 points throughout the active list and erased losses of as much as 8 or 10 points on the accounts of some of the more volatile descriptions.

It was the first real rousing old time rally the street has had a chance to revel in for some time.

Except for the upturn in the commodity markets there was nothing much in the day's news to provide impetus for the recovery. It was rather a "technical" comeback, with most of the buying representing short covering. The market Tuesday afternoon had indicated that it was in an oversold condition and this served to bring in a flood of buying orders from those who had been heavy sellers for the last week or longer. Also there was considerable buying by speculators who figured that the market was naturally — due and overdue — for a turn.

Opens Strong.

The improvement was a cumulative affair. Opening prices were stronger all around, with such leaders as United States Steel, Westinghouse, American Can, and Central Electric showing the way with initial gains of a point or so. Demand grew apace, with prices in some cases jumping as much as a point between sales, and the harassed shorts scurrying to cover in dismay.

American Can ran ahead rapidly, and within a short time had increased its gain to 5 points. By quitting time it had added another point or more to its showing, running up to 123¼. Westinghouse performed similarly and

CHICAGO STOCKS SURGE FORWARD; BUYING IS BRISK

Grigsby-Grunow Shares Exhibit Strength.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The technical reaction, which has been awaited anxiously for a week or more by speculators and traders, finally developed yesterday. Stocks on the Chicago exchange surged forward from one to five points in a brisk buying movement.

Aggressive support came to the long suffering motor shares enabling the issues to recover from the lows which had been set on the previous day. Bendix, Borg Warner, and Auburn Automobile each made substantial headway and finished near the day's top prices.

Conspicuous strength among the specialties was exhibited by Grigsby-Grunow, which pushed forward more than a point to close at 7⅞. The issue sold above 8 during the day, settling back in the late trading. The issue was actively dealt in, a total of 26,000 shares changing hands.

Majestic at New Low.

Despite the strength shown by Grigsby the shares of Majestic Household, Grigsby affiliate, exhibited pronounced weakness. The stock sold off from the previous day's close at 1⅝ to a new low of 16¼ on transactions approximating 21,000 shares.

There was no news development to account for the weakness in Majestic. The company, which only entered capacity production at the beginning of last week yesterday made its first shipment of refrigerators for the trade. A car load lot was consigned to the company's Los Angeles distributors.

Insull Utility and Middle West Utilities gave creditable market performances. The latter, which on the previous day was depressed to a record low for the year, rebounded briskly on good support moving up to 24⅝, a net gain of 2⅝. Insull rallied to within a fraction of 50.

Sells Bonds Privately.

Missouri Kansas was in fair demand, finishing at 15. It was reported that the Utility company has sold privately the $20,000,000 Panhandle Eastern Pipe company bonds which it underwrote in connection with the contract recently entered into by Missouri Kansas, National City, and Columbia Oil and Gasoline corporation. It is understood that the bonds of Panhandle company, which is the chief subsidiary of the pipe line company, will not be offered publicly.

Listing of voting trust certificates representing 221,208 shares of common stock of the Celotex company was approved by exchange governors at their weekly meeting yesterday.

Officials of the Celotex company announced yesterday that sufficient common stock has been deposited under the five year voting trust and the program of financial reorganization is now effective.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chicago curb stocks rallied yesterday, opening strongly and holding the improved levels throughout the day. Gas and oil stocks, which have been recently subjected to the brunt of the selling pressure, were among the leaders of the advancing group.

WALL ST. SNAPS OUT OF IT AND STOCKS RALLY

was closely followed by Johns-Manville, the first named scoring an advance of nearly 5 points and the other more than 4 on the day. Western Unions outdid them all, kiting up to 152 for a net advance of nearly 9 points. United States Steel rose 4¼, to 153⅝, and gains of 2 to 4 points were credited to American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, and General Motors.

Rails Chime In.

Even the lowly rails chimed in on the joyfest. New York Central did itself proud with a recovery of 4⅛ points of the losses it has been suffering in the late bear mêlée. Atchison jumped 5½, New Haven 4¾, Rock Island 2, and Baltimore and Ohio 5⅛ points.

More spectacular performances still were provided in Peoples Gas with one of its occasional sizzling runups, this time for 10⅛ points; Canadian Pacific, up 10; Case Threshing Machine, 11¾; and Eastman Kodak, 8⅛ points.

No particular group was favored in the buying movement, the utilities being given equal treatment with the industrials and specialties. Even the coppers and oils, which have been sorely depressed during the last several days, made substantial advances.

Some Losses.

The change about, however, did not come without a few isolated cases of continued selling and the resultant lists of several issues to new lows for the year or longer. Among issues so declining were Missouri Pacific, Republic Steel, Auto-Lite, and International Telephone. Wheeling and Lake Erie made one of its rare appearances during one of the intermittent bear attacks of the day, selling at 100 to a new low.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Pools Quiet Down.

Pool activity is becoming a thing of the past. The few groups that were able to get started at all about ten days ago have been perfectly willing to quit even.

Oil Stocks Hard Hit.

Oil stocks have been among the most severely hit in the current decline. Special pressure has been exerted against the Standard Oils. In spite of a rather steady flow of investment demand the latter issues are selling at new lows for the year. Vacuum Oil and some others in which there is somewhat greater speculative interest at the moment, has given ground grudgingly, although persistently.

Hazeltine Holds Up.

Hazeltine is one of the few radio issues able to maintain any degree of steadiness. The Hazeltine company receives a steady flow of earnings in royalties from the leading manufacturers which have been licensed under Hazeltine patents. Earlier this year Hazeltine directors increased the annual dividend rate from $1 to $2 a share.

Lane Bryant.

CORPORATION EARNINGS

FOX FILM.

President Harley L. Clarke in a tentative statement for the 39 weeks ended Sept. 27, reports a balance for common stock dividends of $10,104,194, against $8,337,196 for the like period last year. The amortization of inventory of films, including participations, increased $3,710,360. The statement said that if the same rate of amortization of film cost as used in 1929 had been maintained, the net earnings would have been $2,890,692 greater. The statement did not take into consideration the earnings of Loew's, Inc., common stock owned by the corporation other than the actual dividends received, amounting to $991,360.

GEN. AMERICAN TANK CAR.

Silas Mayer, president, says that third quarter earnings, with September estimated, will approximate $2,000,000, or at least $1.60 a share on the common stock, compared with $2.29 a share in the third quarter last year.

NATIONAL BELLAS HESS.

Reports gross receipts for September totaling $2,648,891, a decrease of 38.8 per cent from $4,681,955 reported for September last year. Sales for the first nine months of the year totaled $25,475,694, a decrease of 31 per cent from $36,648,025 for the corresponding period last year.

ILLINOIS WATER SERVICE.

Reports gross revenues of $663,319 for the year ended Aug. 31, as compared with $681,892 for the preceding 12 months. Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes other than federal income tax totaled $348,-797, against $325,202. Gross income amounted to $314,408 which compares with $298,000 for the year ended Aug. 31, 1929.

BORIN-VITITONE.

Net earnings in the six months ended June 30, were $6,542 after all charges, or 25 cents per share on the 25,145 shares of preference stock outstanding during the period. No direct comparison with the first half of 1929 is available, but for the full year net was $112,936, or about $2.95 on the preference stock. Net working capital amounted to $249,203 in the first six months of the year, as compared with $679,780 as of Dec. 31, last.

A capitalist's opportunity ....for all INVESTORS

FIRST CUSTODIAN SHARES

CAPITAL ACCUMULATION

FIRST CUSTODIAN SHARES is an investment plan for the seasoned investor as well as for those thrifty people who are just beginning to accumulate capital. The stocks of thirty leading corporations with total combined assets of $22,792,762,192 —some of the most promising and powerful business units in America — underlie FIRST CUSTODIAN SHARES. These companies have an average unbroken dividend record of 27 years—a long period of increased earning power year after year.

Each FIRST CUSTODIAN SHARE represents one two-thousandth, voting when registered, participating ownership of four shares of stock of First Custodian Shares Corporation which in turn represent a unit composed of 144 shares of 30 leading common stocks deposited, together with accruals and a dividend reserve in cash (all income from which accrues for the benefit of the shareholders), with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, under a Custodian and Depositary Agreement designed to fully protect the shareholders.

DIVIDENDS: It is expected that a dividend rate of at least 6% per annum on the net paid-in assets can be maintained.

Semi-annual dividends will be derived from the regular income on the securities and cash on deposit and in part, when necessary, through the sale of rights to subscribe to new stock, stock dividends, and other benefits accruing to the deposited securities. Earned surplus, available for dividends, will be held by the Custodian and may be invested in securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange and rated "Baa" or higher by Moody's Service.

DIVIDEND RESERVE: With each unit of securities deposited there is also deposited in cash a Dividend Reserve which may be drawn upon to maintain and equalize the semi-annual dividends as above described, but must be restored from excess earnings as soon thereafter as possible.

A DISTINCTIVE FEATURE: An outstanding advantage is the provision that the shareholder shall receive the BENEFIT OF ALL ACCRUALS on the invested assets PLUS interest at current bank rates on ALL funds held in cash; and the fact that ALL INCOME derived from the Dividend Reserve ACCRUES for the benefit of the shareholders.

Every one of the securities is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and enjoys an unusually active market. The all-important factor of diversification has been more than amply covered in the portfolio of SECOND CUSTODIAN SHARES.

Each SECOND CUSTODIAN SHARE represents one two-thousandth, voting when registered, participating ownership of four shares of stock of Second Custodian Shares Corporation which in turn represent a unit composed of 144 shares of 30 leading common stocks deposited, together with accruals and a dividend reserve in cash (all income from which accrues for the benefit of the shareholder) with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York under a Custodian and Depositary agreement designed to protect the interests of shareholders. Copies of this agreement are available upon request.

DIVIDENDS: Semi-annual dividends will be derived from all income received from the deposited stocks, including proceeds of the sale of Stock Rights, Stock Dividends, extra shares received from Stock Split-ups, etc., and the income on the dividend reserve. It is expected that a rate of at least 6% per annum on the paid-in assets can be maintained.

DIVIDEND RESERVE: With each unit of securities deposited there is also deposited in cash a Dividend Reserve which may be drawn upon to maintain and equalize the semi-annual dividends as above described, but must be restored from excess earnings as soon thereafter as possible.

A DISTINCTIVE FEATURE: Of special interest and advantage to the investor is the provision in the plan of SECOND CUSTODIAN SHARES giving the shareholder the BENEFIT OF ALL ACCRUALS on the invested assets PLUS interest at current bank rates on all funds held in cash. ALL INCOME derived from the Dividend Reserve also ACCRUES for the benefit of the shareholders.

Appreciation and Return: A nine-year historical record of the deposited stocks, based on mean prices each year and assuming the existence of FIRST CUSTODIAN SHARES, as presently constituted, during the period 1921-1929 inclusive, shows that the price of one share AFTER available annual distributions averaging over 12% WOULD HAVE INCREASED NEARLY FIVE TIMES, as follows:

This historical study further shows that an original 144 shares in 1921 would have multiplied to 642 shares in 1929 as a result of the accumulation of stock dividends and stock split-ups only.

A CONTINUING PROTECTION: FIRST CUSTODIAN SHARES, with its original and outstanding features, is an investment trust designed for the continuing protection of the investor. In the establishment of this investment medium, the first thing determined was not a portfolio — but, more important to you, A HIGH STANDARD OF INVESTMENT QUALITY that would stand the test of years. Each deposited stock has been selected on the basis of its conformity to this fixed standard of quality. Each will be retained under terms defined in the Custodian and Depositary Agreement only so long as each security maintains the required standard.

Return: A nine-year historical record of deposited stocks, based on mean prices each year and assuming the existence of SECOND CUSTODIAN SHARES, as presently constituted, during the period of 1921-1929 shows that there would have been available for annual distribution an average of over $1.56 or over 17½% on an original price of $8⅞ in 1921. The annual distribution would have been as follows:

11.90%	35.48%	7.44%	21.50%	9.26%	24.97%	7.65%	11.90%	27.83%

In addition, a full unit of the original securities would have increased in value from $14,815 in 1921 to $27,019 in 1929, based on mean prices those years.

ENDURING INVESTMENT QUALITY: In the quick changes and far-reaching developments of modern industry, there are no longer any securities that can be put away and "forgotten." The deposited stocks which underlie SECOND CUSTODIAN SHARES were carefully selected because of their HIGH INVESTMENT QUALITY. In order to maintain this standard against the possible effect of events now unforeseen, provision is made so that the original securities need be retained only so long as they continue to be of the highest quality. Replacements must conform in every respect to the originally required standard.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 7,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep.

Hog prices weakened off some after a 10@25c higher opening yesterday and some closing sales were about in line with the general selling the previous day. The top for load lots stopped at $9.90, but 33 butchers averaging 286 lbs reached $10.00.

The general average advanced 10c to $9.00. Outside demand was fair at the advanced prices, but local interests balked and about 6,000 hogs were still in the pens at the close. While receipts for the first three days were only 1,000 larger than a week ago, shipments from Chicago show an increase of more than 9,000 for the three days.

Winter Contracts in Demand.

The recent break in the market for December and January contracts on the hog futures trade attracted buyers yesterday and volume of business was larger at the reduction. Some sales were slightly above Tuesday's close.

December mediums sold freely at $8.75 and January cohtracts brought $8.90. Mediums for October delivery sold at $9.35, while $8.60 was paid for December light. November contracts were being offered at $9.00 at the close.

Medium and weighty steers continued dull at the recent sharp decline, selling $1.00@1.25 below a week ago, while yearlings changed hands under brisk competition, and in many instances sold to slightly better advantage. The latter kinds are back to the highest point since early last June.

Fancy 967 lb yearlings topped the market yesterday at $13.10, while an outstanding load of 1,272 lb steers sold at $12.10, and many loads of good 1,200@1,400 lb averages at $11.25 and below. Bulk of sales at $9.50@11.50 compared with $10.00@12.50 a week ago, the meager showing of top yearlings cutting little figure in the general market. Butcher stock ruled stronger, some 678 lb heifers bringing $12.65. Calves sold steady to strong. Stockers and feeders were firm.

Lambs Mostly Steady.

The lamb market handled the increase in receipts in a satisfactory manner yesterday and prices were held mostly in line with the general selling the previous day. Westerns to packers reached $8.15, against $8.10 Tuesday, while bulk of best natives sold at $7.75@8.00. A few to city butchers brought $8.10.

Receipts so far this week show an increase of about 10,000 head, compared with a week ago, and are 20,000 larger than a year ago. Aged sheep ruled stronger and yearlings sold steady. Feeding lambs met fair demand at $6.00@6.75 mostly.

The average prices of cattle and hogs for September at $10.90 and $10.00, respectively, were highest since May, while the lamb average at $8.00 was lowest since October, 1914. Cattle in August averaged $9.55 and in July $9.50. The August hog average was $9.60 and the July average $8.80.

Combined receipts of all kinds of live stock were largest for the month in four years, due to increases in hogs and sheep. Cattle totaled 231,277, second smallest for September since 1915. Calf receipts at 42,187 were smallest for the month in 13 years. Hogs totaled 525,148 and sheep 526,110.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 9,198 cattle, 24,519 hogs, and 30,583 sheep on the previous Thursday, and 4,643 cattle, 15,466 hogs, and 14,333 sheep a year ago.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Ann, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Sardock is called and he says Protheroe had been dead half an hour and summons the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Ann Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked towards the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime, each thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

A man who represents himself to be Dr. Stone, an archaeologist, is thought to be an impostor. His secretary, Gladys Cram, was seen by Miss Marple going in the woods at midnight carrying a suitcase and returning shortly after without it. The vicar searches in the woods.

INSTALLMENT XL.

I found clearing, because the denseness of the undergrowth was thinned out there, but the branches of the trees met overhead and the whole place was not more than a few feet across.

On the other side, the undergrowth grew densely again and it seemed quite clear that no one had forced a way through it recently. Nevertheless it seemed to have been disturbed in one place.

I went across and kneeled down, thrusting the bushes aside with both hands. A glint of a shiny brown surface rewarded me. Full of excitement I thrust my arm in and with a good deal of difficulty I extracted a small brown suitcase.

I uttered an ejaculation of triumph. I had been successful. Coldly snubbed by Constable Hurst, I had yet proved right in my reasoning. Here without doubt was the suitcase carried by Miss Cram. I tried the hasp, but it was locked.

As I rose to my feet I noticed a small brownish crystal lying on the ground. Almost automatically I picked it up and slipped it into my pocket.

As I climbed over the stile into the lane, an agitated voice near at hand called out:

"O! Mr. Clement. You've found it! How clever of you!"

Mentally registering the fact that in the art of seeing without being seen Miss Marple had no rival, I balanced my find on the palings between us.

"That's the one," said Miss Marple. "I'd know it anywhere."

This, I thought, was a slight exaggeration. There are thousands of cheap shiny suitcases all exactly alike. No one could recognize one particular one even from such a distance away by moonlight, but I realized that the whole business of the suitcase was Miss Marple's particular triumph and as such she was entitled to a little pardonable exaggeration.

"It's locked, I suppose, Mr. Clement?"

"Yes. I'm just going to take it down to the police station."

"You don't think it would be better to telephone?"

Of course unquestionably it would be better to telephone. To stride through the village, suitcase in hand, would be to court a probably undesirable publicity.

So I unlatched Miss Marple's garden gate and entered the house by the French window, and from the sanctity of the drawing room with the door shut, I telephoned my news.

The result was that Inspector Slack announced he would be up himself in a couple of jiffies.

"So we've got it, have we?" he said. "You know, sir, you shouldn't keep things to yourself. If you've any reason to believe you know where the article in question was hidden, you ought to have reported it to the proper authorities."

"It was a pure accident," I said. "The idea just happened to occur to me."

"And that's a likely tale. Nearly three quarters of a mile of woodland and you go right to the proper spot and lay your hand upon it."

I would have given Inspector Slack the steps in reasoning which led me to this particular spot, but he had achieved his usual result of putting my back up. I said nothing.

"Well!" said Inspector Slack, eyeing the suitcase with dislike and would-be indifference. "I suppose we might as well have a look at what's inside."

He had brought an assortment of keys and wire with him. The lock was a cheap affair. In a couple of seconds the case was open.

I don't know what we had expected to find—something sternly sensational, I imagine. But the first thing that met our eyes was a greasy plaid scarf. The inspector lifted it out. Next came a faded dark blue overcoat, very much the worse for wear. A checked cap followed.

"Fancy shirt, I suppose," said the inspector bitterly, as he tore it open.

"The trencher salts," she exclaimed. "Col. Protheroe's trencher salts and the Charles II. tazza. Did you ever hear of such a thing!"

"Perhaps they haven't discovered the loss," I suggested. "I presume these valuable things would not have been kept out in common use. Col. Protheroe probably kept them locked away in a safe."

"I must investigate this," said the inspector. "I'll go right up to Old Hall now. So that's why our Dr. Stone made himself scarce. What with the murder and one thing and another, he was afraid we'd get wind of his activities. As likely as not his belongings might have been searched. He got the girl to hide them in the wood with a suitable change of clothing. He meant to come back by a roundabout route and go off with them one night whilst she stayed here to disarm suspicion. Well, there's one thing to the good. This lets him out over the murder. He'd nothing to do with that. Quite a different game."

He repacked the suitcase and took his departure, refusing Miss Marple's offer of a glass of sherry.

"Well, that's one mystery cleared up," I said with a sigh. "What Slack says it quite true, there are no grounds for suspecting him of the murder. Everything's accounted for quite satisfactorily."

"It really would seem so," said Miss Marple. "Although one never can be quite certain, can one?"

"There's a complete lack of motive," I pointed out. "He'd got what he came for and was clearing out."

She was clearly not quite satisfied and I looked at her in some curiosity. She hastened to answer my inquiring gaze with a kind of apologetic eager tone.

"I've no doubt I am quite wrong. I'm so stupid about these things. But I just wondered—I mean this silver is very valuable, is it not?"

"That's what I mean. The sale of such things would take a little time to arrange, or even if it was arranged, it couldn't be carried through without secrecy. I mean—if the robbery were reported and a hue and cry were raised well, the things couldn't be marketed at all."

"I don't quite see what you mean?" I said.

"I know I'm putting it badly." She became more flustered and apologetic. "But it seems to me that—that the things couldn't just have been abstracted, so to speak. The only satisfactory thing to do would be to replace these things with copies. Then, perhaps, the robbery wouldn't be discovered for some time."

"That a very ingenious idea," I said.

"It would be the only way to do it, wouldn't it? And if so, of course as you say once the substitution had been accomplished there wouldn't have been any reason for murdering Col. Protheroe—quite the reverse."

"Exactly," I said. "That's what I said."

"Yes, but I just wondered—I don't know, of course—and Col. Protheroe always talked a lot about doing things before he actually did do them, and of course sometimes never did them at all, but he did say——"

"Yes?"

New Science Demands Agile Public Minds

Changing World Theme of Expert Here.

Americans must keep their minds agile if they are to understand the implications of the new physics. The old notions of "absolutes" as sought by philosophers, of "immutable natural laws" as hunted by scientists, have given place to science that is in a state of flux. The modern human mind must be awake with a keenness unknown heretofore if it is to grasp the latest hypotheses from scientists and philosophers.

That was the advice given last night by Prof. Evander Bradley McGilvary. He is chairman of the department of philosophy of the University of Wisconsin and an internationally known writer on philosophical and ethical subjects. He was the lecturer at the opening session of the class in contemporary thought at Northwestern university.

Time and space, for instance, which for so many years were regarded as absolutes, as things in themselves, have now no more significance than the abstract platonic terms of love, friendship or beauty.

"In the new theory, which is generally accepted by the mathematical and theoretical physicists," Dr. McGilvary said, "time is a system of relations, not a stream or a thing. And time relations differ with the point of view.

"Is your space some sort of a vessel, a great big container stretching out in all directions? The new view is that space is not a thing but the way in which certain things are related. It is a system of directions and distances. Acceptance of that relieves the philosopher of many old difficulties. Take the old question as to whether space is finite or infinite. Assuming it a system of relations, whether it is finite or not depends on the terms of the relationship.

"Astronomers tell us the size of our galaxy in light years. Whether the universe is finite or not depends on how many galaxies there are, and becomes more or less capable of decision by instrumental method.

"It is important to become familiar with the notion of space and time as a system of relations. Take beauty and goodness. Is beauty an abstraction or a character found in things? Would there be time if there were no events? Newton thought so. It is just as absurd to speak of time, apart from the relation of events as to speak of matrimony apart from people being married.

"Acceptance of modern physics is apt to bring about a kind of open-mindedness. It is apt to break up old crystallization of our thought. Once the upsetting takes place we don't know how far things are going. Take some of the conceptions of the psysicists themselves.

"Prof. Bridgeman of Harvard, one of the great physicists of the world, felt upset when Einstein presented his views. Einstein had written a book about the logic of physics. He tried to get thought so limber that it would not be upset in the future. It is said, for instance, that light takes eight minutes to travel from the sun to the earth. We think of light as in travel. How can you tell? There is no way of finding out how it behaves in empty space. If you were there it would not be empty. It may be merely a certain functional relationship, that something happens in the sun and that eight minutes later something happens here.

"It is difficult to bring travel into the Einstein theory. It may be a seeming only. To many, the ether theory seems exploded.

"Prof. Gilbert Lewis has suggested that we do not have general radiation, but transactions between atoms. The old view was that heat dissipates energy that the universe was dying down. If there is no loss of energy into empt. space, only a movement from one object to another, the universe as a whole is perpetual. I think we feel more comfortable in a universe that is self-sustaining.

"Then philosophers entertain these theories as hypotheses, as postulates. It redeems us from the settled view of the world that was had twenty-five years ago. Every one ought to feel greatly thankful for living in an age when old systems are being broken up and things are less set and stereotyped. Some old despairs connected with the older views are found possibly groundless."

Three Legionnaires Remind Boston That It's Convention City

Boston, Mass., Oct. 1.—(AP)—An advance delegation of the American Legion convention, which opens Monday, arrived in Boston with a bang today. In fact there were several bangs, and a detail of the city's finest were rushed from the nearest police station to city hall expecting to find an armed revolt.

Introductions seemed in order, so Sherwood explained the trio were deputies from San Diego, Cal., to the Legion convention. A salvo of pistol fire was their customary greeting to the mayors of the various cities they visited, they said.

The three Californians arrived in an automobile that had been fitted out as a covered wagon.

The first of the official delegates to the convention to register was Austin Hitt of Telluride, Colo., a past commander of Post No. 12, who received his credentials today. He was closely followed by Brig. Gen. J. J. Garrety, former chief of police of Chicago and a former commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The registration office of the convention reported today that already 20,000 has been received in registration fees, indicating the number of Legionnaires on hand. The fee is $1 per person.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Museum directors and art experts from all the civilized countries in the world were present at Festival hall at Berlin university today when the centenary of Berlin's first museum was celebrated. America was represented by George G. Heye of the American Indian museum, Dr. Bruno Oetteking, and Dr. Bosch-Reitz of the Metropolitan museum, all of New York. The new museum buildings on "Museum island" will be ceremoniously opened tomorrow after twenty years of work, which was interrupted by the war.

British Bishop Makes Yank Religious Drama Director

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Bishop of Chichester, Dr. George Kennedy Allen Bell, has appointed F. Martin Browne, sometime professor of dictation in Pittsburgh university, to the somewhat novel office of "director of religious drama" in the Chichester diocese. This is the first appointment of the kind made in the Church of England. It is hoped to encourage and supervise the production of religious dramas throughout the diocese.

Dish Washer Called Brave as Bear Hunter

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—"It takes as much courage to wash dishes three times a day as it does to go out and shoot a bear," Mrs. Herbert Hoover said to reporters here today, praising the Girl Scouts' outlook toward husework. She is honorary president of that organization, but she takes an active interest in its affairs. She gave her reasons today before she left for Cleveland to join President Hoover.

"I think my love of the outdoors," she said, "began when I was a little girl and used to go for long walks through the woods with my father. It seems to me the more you know of life, the more you get out of it. The more you live out of doors and come to know intimately the trees and brooks and flowers and other living things, the more literature and art mean to you.

"Girl scout work teaches young girls the importance of housework. You know, I think it takes just as much courage to wash dishes three times a day as it does to go out and shoot a bear.

"When did you first become interested in scouting?" Mrs. Hoover was asked.

"That's hard to remember," she answered. "It seems to me I have always been interested in it. I believe it first came to my attention during the war, in 1914, when hundreds of thousands of Americans were stranded in Europe."

She said that when her husband first was made chairman of a relief committee and was in London for a while, the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts came regularly to relief headquarters to offer their services as errand boys and nursemaids. Mrs. Hoover said she was so impressed with their spirit and training that on her return to the United States she became actively interested in the scout movement.

Frank Lloyd Wright Tells New Methods to Make Skyscrapers

One thousand architects, artists, and students yesterday listened to Frank Lloyd Wright, architect, discuss types and trends of present day and future architecture in Fullerton hall of the Art institute. Mr. Wright discussed the use of new materials, including glass and steel, in the building of skyscraper homes. He emphasized the fact that a home is not made up solely of roof and walls, but is toned and dominated by its interior.

An exhibit, prepared by Mr. Wright and symbolic of his architecture, is now on display at the institute. A model of a skyscraper built of glass and steel and dwellings of the same materials form part of the exhibit. Models of several buildings now under construction utilizing the 'glass and steel principle are displayed.

Mr. Wright said the motif for the new architecture was obtained from nature and not from a study of past styles. "There must be no conflict between architecture and nature," he said. "A building should conform to the contour of its surrounding."

Changes Hinted by Chief of the Salvation Army

EAST LONDON, South Africa, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Probable drastic changes in the Salvation Army constitution were forecast today in an address by Gen. Higgins, the army's head, who is touring South Africa.

Decisions covering three alterations would be reached by the conference of army commissioners which will be held in London after his return.

The first, he said, will be to give an electoral body of leaders power to choose the army's head.

The second will have to do with fixing of the retiring age, while the third will establish a uniform principle of vesting the army's assets everywhere in a property company instead of having the general remain the sole trustee.

Dr. F. J. Kelly Aids Survey of Education for U. of C.

Appointment of Dr. Frederick J. Kelly, until recently president of the University of Idaho, as lecturer at the University of Chicago, was announced yesterday. Dr. Kelly is the second college president to come to the Midway in six months, Prof. George Alan Works having resigned as head of the Connecticut College of Agriculture to accept an appointment last June. Both men will engage in a survey of college education which the university has undertaken.

Children's Art Meeting.

The Perboyre Children's National Art federation will hold its first meeting of the season at 2 p. m. today in the De Paul University building, 64 E. Lake street.

THE STAGE

THE date of Maude Adams' return to the stage, after a retirement of so many years that she is now only a tradition to the younger generation of playgoers, is fixed by an announcement from Princeton university. She has accepted an invitation to give her first performance of the new and as yet untitled play which John Colton has written for her in the McCarter theater at Princeton early in November.

Mrs. Fiske, who dedicated the McCarter theater last February with her revival of "The Rivals," staged "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" there last night and will give "Becky Sharp" tomorrow. "The Beggar's Opera" is also on the list of professional theatrical attractions which may prevent Princeton's undergraduates from running up to New York to see a show.

Charles Hopkins, the New York theater manager who adopted "Equity's" idea of a suburban night once a week lifting the curtain at 7 p. m., has changed his mind. Only two of his subscribers seemed to want to get home before midnight.

A dispatch from New York states that William Hodge will begin an engagement in Chicago about Oct. 27 in his self-written play, "The Old Rascal." The theater that he will occupy is not named. Mr. Hodge staged "The Old Rascal" in New York last spring, and the reviewers seem to think that he was making a few mild concessions to the "broad minded" taste of the theatrical times.

Last season it was Mei Lan-fang and the Chinese drama. This season the Hindu drama may come into fashion. At any rate, Sir Kumar Bhaduri, an actor manager from Calcutta, is bringing a troupe of native players, dancers, and musicians to this country for an opening at the Biltmore theater, New York, Oct. 28. His first production will be "Sita," adapted from an old Hindu epic called "The Ramayana."

"Brisach's Way" is now the title of the play called "The Merchant of Paris" which Winthrop Ames adapted from the French and George C. Tyler is staging. It will probably be changed back again. Edward G. Robinson will be its star, under any name, and the cast will include Wallis Clark, Manart Kippen, Douglas MacPherson, Adelaide Prince, Kate Byron, France Bendtsen, Gladys Lloyd, and Henry Mortimer.

John Henry Mears, the theatrical manager who makes globe circling a side line [he holds the record for speed in this achievement], promises to stage a play called "The Queen at Home," written by Shirley Warde and Vivian Crosby. It will begin its career in the New York suburbs Oct. 25. . . . Any old-time Chicagoan can tell you that he remembers when John Henry Mears was in charge of the box office at Powers' theater. C. C.

20 Selected Freshmen Get Outline of Reading

President Hutchins' twenty selected freshmen at the University of Chicago yesterday were given the outline of a course of reading by Prof. Mortimer Adler which they are expected to complete during the next two years. Ten books are to be read each quarter, and the freshmen selected for the course will be given keys to a special library of 500 volumes reserved for their use in the Classics building.

The reading course for the next twelve weeks will include some of the writings of Homer, Æschylus, Sophocles, Plato, Herodotus, Thucydides, Euripides, Aristophanes, and all of the Old Testament. Members of the class, which is declared to be the first of its kind ever conducted by a university president, will attend class but once a week, and there will be no lectures or written examinations.

Prof. Adler announced that the course will cover the most important of western European literature, poetry, drama, fiction, history, and philosophy.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Attorneys for Julia King's Candy corporation object to the headline, "Ask bankruptcy for Julia King Candy company" on a story in yesterday's editions relative to proceedings against Julia King, Inc., in the federal court. Although the name Julia King, Inc., is the only one used in the bankruptcy petition, it was pointed out that this concern was split up last February, the candy business being taken over by Julia King's Candy corporation, which is not involved in bankruptcy, and a new corporation called the Encina company, being formed as a holding company for a restaurant chain. The proceedings are against the latter concern.

In early editions of yesterday's TRIBUNE a picture of Detective Harry Newman of the detective bureau was erroneously identified as Tony Accardo, who was arrested as a "public enemy." The error was corrected in later editions.

Women Oppose Birth Control at Convention

Catholics Also Object to Beauty Contests.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Resolutions opposing attempts to federalize education and legislation for sterilization of the mentally deficient, and urging intensive study of family education to counteract the teaching of birth control and companionate marriage were adopted by the National Council of Catholic Women here today.

Miss Mary G. Hawks of Summit, N. J., was reelected president of the council, which will hold its 1931 convention in Washington.

The council went on record as disapproving and discouraging beauty and endurance contests, as injurious to the physique of women and "unworthy of the high dignity and noble functions of womanhood." It refused to approve any play or motion picture belittling religion.

Legislation nullifying the recently enacted deportation act was favored. The council asserted that the act was "even brutal in its effect of banishing forever from this country those persons, including husbands, wives, and parents of American citizens who have been deported from the United States."

One resolution took exception to what was characterized as a recent attack of Scottish Rite Masons at their convention in Houston, Tex., Sept. 27 on the educational encyclical of the pope and asked the public press to give to the council's resolution the same publicity accorded that of the Masonic order.

The council reiterated the allegiance of members to a ruling of the United States Supreme court declaring parents should have the right to decide whether their children attend public or private schools and asserted that religious training was as important to school children as secular training.

The council went on record in favor of studies to call the attention of the public to the necessity for limiting the manufacture of narcotics and their distribution through the medical profession, and in favor of old age pensions. The convention repledged itself to promotion of the principles of catholicism and of world peace.

Dr. Karl J. Alter, director of the National Catholic School of Social Service at Washington, spoke at the last session of the council convention on social service, describing the difference between charity and social service. He asked an endowment fund of $1,000,000 for support of the National School of Social Service.

Among the four members of the board of directors whose terms expired were reelected was Mrs. George V. McIntype of Chicago.

Priests to Re-enter Schools.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 1.—After an interval of 40 years Catholic priests next week will reënter the Italian public schools to teach religion, in accordance with the concession gained by the church through the Lateran pact.

Up until last year the catechism has been taught in the elementary schools, but religion has been abandoned in the high schools and universities.

With the opening of the secondary schools in a few days, specially designated ecclesiastics will be in charge of religious courses. The Vatican has the right to approve of these teachers. The comparative history of religion will be reserved for university courses, but in the secondary schools the clergymen will explain matters pertaining to the practice of the Catholic religion, and expound and illustrate church decrees and sacraments.

While attendance at these courses is obligatory in principle, parents have a right, in practice, to exempt their sons and daughters. Religious teachers are to enjoy the same rights and privileges of all other members of the teaching staff.

This year in the Italian schools will also be signalized by the introduction for the first time of the Fascist state textbook in the first three grades of the schools.

These state textbooks, which are first, second, and third readers for Italian children, have been revised and redidted by distinguished educators and scholars who adhere to Fascism.

Mrs. W. Borden Plans Parties for Diplomat

BY THALIA

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Linwood Ives, brother-in-law and sister of Adlai E. Stevenson, arrived in Chicago late yesterday afternoon to be the house guests for a few days of Mrs. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. Walter Borden of 1200 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Borden has planned several parties for them. Mr. Ives has been in the diplomatic service for years, and now is first secretary of the American legation at Copenhagen, Denmark, a post which he has assumed this year succeeding five years at first secretary at Constantinople. Previously he held consular posts in Frankfort, Budapest, Paris, Cologne, and Alexandria.

Following their short visit here, Mr. and Mrs. Ives are to go to Washington, D. C. Frisco May Receive Next Cardinal, Says Papal Court Rumor

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Informed Vatican observers say that the next American cardinal will in all probability be from the United States itself and from "an archdiocese toward the west."

Pope Pius XI, it is said, considers that the Atlantic seaboard of the United States is now quite liberally supplied with "princes of the church." Cardinals O'Connell, Dougherty and Hayes, respectively archbishops of Boston, Philadelphia and New York. His desire to have the Catholic hierarchy in America more generally distributed led him to create Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, in the early summer of 1924.

On the next occasion, it seems, his intention is to reach even farther west, should he deem the time opportune to increase the number of America's representatives in the sacred college, and those who profess to know something mention Archbishop Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco.

To be sure, Archbishop Hanna had a little trouble with a former Pope Pius, tenth of that title, 23 years ago. His grace has allowed it to be thus stated in the American "Who's Who":

"Nominated coadjutor bishop of San Francisco, 1907, but failed to receive confirmation of Rome on account of charge of modernism [charge was disproved and the matter dropped.]"

Five years after that Pope Pius X. named the then Msgr. Hanna auxiliary bishop of the Golden Gate city, soon thereafter causing him to be consecrated titular bishop of Tetopolis. Pius X's successor, Pope Benedict XV, made him archbishop of his present see on June 1, 1915. The California prelate will be 70 next summer.

Food Talk.

Bread crumbs are such dull, uninteresting nuisances so far as a lot of housekeepers are concerned. Chops, croquettes, and fish are rolled in them previous to frying and that is about the extent of their use.

There are many good ways to employ stale leftover bread. But all stale bread, however, should not be converted into crumbs. For stuffings and forcemeats the bread is better left as is. Simply dry out the slices and store in a clean, dry, covered container until needed. In making stuffings take the required amount of bread to fill the fowl, add enough cold water to cover and let stand only a minute or two or until just soft. Drain off water, squeeze the bread tightly to express as much of the moisture as possible. When cold water is used the squeezed bread is almost like sponge and free from any stickiness. Never use hot water for this soaking or a disagreeable gummy mass will result.

Bread crumbs prepared by grinding or rolling make delicious steamed fruit puddings, batter bread, griddle cakes, and even cookies. Stale white bread may be delicately toasted, put through a food chopper and used for making a delicious pie crust similar to cracker pie crust.

It also makes delicious bread puddings and it is one of the important ingredients of a most pleasant salad called Gaspacho, which is made in this way: On a bed of lettuce alternate round thin crusts of bread marinated in oil and vinegar with slices of peeled tomato, thin slices of Spanish onions and cucumbers, one or two slices of each ingredient to each salad. Spread finely grated and toasted bread crumbs over the top. Serve with French dressing. This salad may sound absurd, but it is both pleasant and piquant.

TOAST NUT PIE.

Filling:
2 cups rich milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch.
2 tablespoons sugar.
Pinch salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Crust:
2 tablespoons sugar.

Scald milk in top part of double boiler. Mix cornstarch, sugar, and salt thoroughly. Add the hot milk, stirring vigorously to keep smooth. Return to double boiler and cook over hot water 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat egg yolks until thick. Add a little of the hot filling and stir to blend, then add egg yolks to mixture, stirring well. Cook one minute longer. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Pour into the crust that has been prepared in the meantime in the following way: Put the bread crumbs and nuts through the food chopper. Add the next three ingredients and combine like pie crust. Save out one cup of the crumbs to sprinkle on top of the pie. Put the rest of the mixture into the pie pan, shaping the bottoms and sides like a crust. Pour the custard in carefully. Cover lightly with a meringue made of egg whites and 2 tablespoons sugar. Sprinkle cup of crumbs on top. Bake in a slow oven [300 degrees F.] 30 minutes.

Yield, 1 large pie, 8 servings. One serving, total, 455 calories; protein, 38 calories; fat, 214 calories; carbohydrates, 203 calories.

LEMON BREAD PUDDING.

2 eggs.
3 tablespoons sugar.

Lemon mixture: Heat 3 tablespoons lemon juice and ¼ cup sugar to boiling point. Pour this over 1 cup sugar and 3 slightly beaten eggs. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens.

Pour the lemon mixture over bread crumbs and let stand 10 minutes to soften. Add the eggs, sugar, salt, lemon rind, and milk. Pour into buttered pudding molds. Cover and steam 1½ hours. Serve with sterling sauce.

NOW! Impart Color to Gray Hair

GRAY hair is a business and social handicap that you can now overcome without taking chances with uncertain methods or fussing with messy, sticky preparations. Now science has discovered a liquid as colorless as water itself—yet it actually imparts color to Gray Hair—no matter what your age—no matter how gray you are—no matter what the cause of your Gray Hair. It is called Kolor-Bak. It is as easy to use as combing your hair. You simply comb Kolor-Bak into your hair and the Gray goes so naturally that even your friends cannot tell that you are using anything. The beautiful sheen of your hair is left unchanged. Strange as it sounds, the very same bottle of this colorless liquid does for Blonde, Black, Brown, or Auburn. Already hundreds of thousands of bottles have been used. So sure are its amazing results that it is sold on a guarantee that if it doesn't make you look 10 years younger your money will be refunded any time you ask.

It's Persistent Daily Beauty Care That Counts

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A woman friend who knows her human nature as only a woman can into whose ears are poured confidences day in and day out, year in and year out, dismissed the confidential sex with an impatient: "Women are just plain fools!"

Naturally, that called for an explanation or an apology, I being one of the condemned, according to sex.

Reason enough for the impatience, from the friend's point of view, as she explained it: "Yes, they wait until their men start running around with younger women and then they come 'round here and expect to catch up on ten years' neglect in a few days."

The friend conducts, as you may guess, a beauty salon, where women under ordinary circumstances are prone to confidences, surprising, indeed, if you happen to have the adjoining booth.

Or, another class met with in a day's beauty business pursuit, is the one whose trouble isn't holding a man, but catching him. Women not from the young group were being discussed. They were girls, rather, who have postponed marriage and there comes a day when Mr. of the oldtime label 'Right" comes loping along and the girl is all a-quiver. She, too, wants to be made over into a love magnet with a massage and a new haircut.

"Lord," says the exasperated salon chatelaine, 'what can we do with them—their skins gone leathery for want of care their hair just so so, and their figures in need of hiking up or hitching in in a dozen different spots? There wouldn't be any other woman for the first class and there wouldn't be any difficulty with the 'landing' for the second if they were on their beauty job every day. And by that I do not mean being a slave to cosmetic experiments, diets, massage, and marcels."

However, the wrath of the indignant one fell much more heavily on the woman in the triangle situation. The other, at least, she says has the excuse of a career to alibi her. But the women, fairly well off, not burdened with family or household cares, stir her ire.

"Idiots, fools," quoth she, "waiting till the day of judgment, when there needn't be any such day!"

CLASSES WOMEN OF U. S. WITH CHINESE FOR TORTURING FEET

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—The feet of Mme. Recamier, whose beauty artists have extolled in oils, would find the shoes worn by American women today a device of Satan.

Indeed, Dr. Thomas Darlington, commissioner emeritus of the public health department, guest speaker in the weekly health broadcast of Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, declared today that American women rank second to the Chinese in the distortion and crippling of their feet.

"Vanity, not the needs of the body, has much to do with the shape of the modern foot covering," Dr. Darlington said.

"I have made an investigation into the effects of modern footwear on women. I found that high heels shorten the achilles tendon and actually deform the foot and legs; that short shoes cause toenail trouble, bunions, corns and callouses and affect the nerves of the foot; that indigestion frequently is caused by high heels as well as by tight shoes and that short vamp shoes cramp the ball of the foot and frequently injure the bones."

. . . to try this amazing Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique

Whitens Teeth 3 Shades in 3 Days

USE the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique for just 3 days. Then look at your teeth—fully 3 shades whiter! And in 10 days the difference will be so marked that you will never again say that sparkling white teeth are a gift received only by a fortunate few.

Kolynos is a highly concentrated, double strength dental cream that foams in the mouth, thus permitting the Dry-Brush Technique. It cleans teeth down to the naked white enamel without injury.

This means you can use Kolynos full strength; also that the brush bristles retain enough of their stiffness to scrub tooth surfaces properly, penetrate the crevices, pits and fissures, and massage the gums. This is 100% protection, and only Kolynos affords it. For no other dentifrice foams like Kolynos.

Removes Ugly "Yellow"

As it enters the mouth Kolynos becomes a surging, antiseptic foam. It pushes its way into every tiny crevice. It cleans out and disinfects those places where food particles lodge and cause decay. It combats tartar, destroys germs and mouth acids. It leaves the mouth feeling sweet and clean.

In purifying and cleaning the mouth, this amazing foam dissolves and washes away the mucoid coating on teeth—the cause of stain, unsightly discoloration and yellow.

Look for Results in 3 Days

Dull, yellow teeth are unnatural. Like sore, spongy gums they betray the presence of insidious conditions that Kolynos easily removes. Twice a day scrub teeth and gums with Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush. In 3 days your teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades. Your mouth will feel cleaner, fresher.

Rich Yankee to Test Plans for Longer Life

St. Louis, Oct. 1. — (AP) — A Swiss villa has been selected and plans have been completed for a practical test of a theory to lengthen life held by Park G. Hammer, wealthy, retired paint manufacturer of St. Louis, it was announced today by him.

He expounded his long life theories in a book published more than a year ago, predicting the expectancy of life could be lengthened by ten active years or more if people did not walk erect, absorbed sun days many times during the day, subsisted on a vegetable diet, and lived without clothes.

Hammer has just returned from Paris. There he aroused much comment by advertising for Russian emigres to enter a colony for his proposed experiments in diet, posture, and exercise as a means of rebuilding the body and prolonging life. Paris and London newspapers dubbed him "Mr. Methusalah."

Mr. Hammer said today he had taken as his collaborator and co-subject with himself in the experiment Dr. Paul Gregorievitch Kouchakoff, a Russian bacteriologist, now employed in a laboratory at Nice.

Dr. Kouchakoff's wife, formerly Miss Daisy MacGregor Murray, daughter of the late Sir Robert and Lady Murray of Scotland, and her sister, Miss Helen Mary Murray, also will take the body rebuilding course, Hammer said. Hammer will be 67 next Christmas, Dr. Kouchakoff is 49, and the women are younger.

Hammer explained he has leased a villa at Montreux, Switzerland, on the shores of Lake Leman, known also as Lake Geneva. A course of preliminary laboratory experiments will precede the start of the experiment itself. Hammer, long a student of diet and physiology, has no medical or scientific degree.

Keep Your Word and Your Child Will Keep His

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A booklet on sex education will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Well," she sighed, "I may as well get that orange cake made for Jenny and off my mind."

"I don't see why under the sun you want to make a cake for Jenny, of all people!" exclaimed her husband.

His wife, thinking the explanation merited it, sat down. "It's like this, Bill," she said. "Every time Jenny has a piece of orange cake here she raves about it. So the last time I said, 'The next time I make one for us I'll make one for you.'"

"Foolish woman!"

"Of course—the words were no sooner out of my mouth than I regretted them. I've been doing rash things like that all my life. But I suppose it's because I've always had such a contempt for people who don't keep their word that I've simply driven myself to make good on my wild promises as well as my rational ones. You must acknowledge that I'm a woman of my word, Bill—now mustn't you?"

He nodded.

"Go ahead and make your cake—I'll wait for you."

The child of such a mother is almost sure to be a child of his word. In almost no other trait of character, it seems to me, is the influence of example more direct than in this one. The child whose parents always keep their word to other people as well as to him, whose promises are not idle remarks but a contract to be fulfilled, is pretty sure to be as good as his word, too.

A mother and a father and a teacher and any one who has a close relation to a child can influence him strongly by their own dependability in this matter.

There are two ways in which a child can sense this quality of character. He can feel it in a grown person's dependability toward another grown person, and in that some grown up's dependability toward the child himself. If he hears promises made and broken, a word lightly given and taken back between others, it makes its impression. But it makes a much more vivid impression if it concerns the child, himself.

"I'll bring you a present when I come home," "I'll be back before you go to bed so I can say good night to you," "Come to supper now and you can finish your game afterwards"—are all things of great importance to a child. For his happiness, his faith in you and for his character's sake, keep your promises to him. If occasionally it's impossible, then make much of the explanation of why you couldn't get the present, or if you're unavoidably delayed, call him on the telephone to say good night.

Once your word is given, be meticulous in the keeping of it. Sometimes it will be hard, sometimes inconvenient—but it will be worth while in the end for both you and the children.

In addition to this, occasionally, you can point things up by a direct remark, "I promised you, so of course I will," or "You know I always keep my word to you, don't I?" will supplement the foundation you lay by your own example.

Burgundy Red Sparkles in Evening Fashions

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.] —Look upon the wine when it is red, especially the kind that is known as Burgundy. Not to violate the laws of prohibition but to note and remember the most gorgeous of all colors, for it's the most fashionable of Paris shades for fall and as a color you may drink it in. In the immortal words of Andy Gump, "There's no law against it."

Burgundy red is becoming to all complexions, and when, as in the Paris evening mode, it is translated into lustrous satin and silken velvet, it has all of the depth and beauty of a jewel. Burgundy red velvet evening coats will be exceedingly chic this winter, worn with self-toned white, pink, or black evening frocks. Burgundy red evening dresses will also appear in exclusive circles.

Over this dress goes the velvet blouse jacket sketched. This jacket has the new full sleeves of Paris fashions, with a heading at the armholes that stands perkily erect. These sleeves are a bit longer than elbow length and loose and lined with satin. The jacket body is tied on at the waist line, where it is crushed into a girdle effect, though the ties are in one piece with the jacket front. When this jacket is worn, this becomes one of the late afternoon ensembles that Paris adores.

Youngsters Like a Mother Who Acts Role of Grownup

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have a wonderful mother and she has been so good to us three kids. She supported us from infancy, after my father died. She is only 42 and looks young. She never puts on rouge or lipstick and never tries to dress like a flapper. I wouldn't do anything to hurt her now."

The above is an extract from a 19 year old's letter. The paragraph has nothing to do with the girl's problem, but it does give rise to the question: "What type of mother are young people most proud of?" Isn't it the parent who acts like a parent, talks like a parent, and is a real parent?

A youngster of 17, wild, the butt of uncivil remarks from boys driven to frenzy by a jibe from a youth she adored, said: "H——, what else could I be with the mother I've got?"

The mother of two boys, 12 and 14, told of an incident relative to smoking and her. She smoked little, never in the sight of her sons until one day she took up a cigaret when the youngest boy was present.

The boy's eyes blazed. In a high, threatening voice he said: "Mother if you smoke that cigaret you can have Junior (the older boy) for your son. I will be only a distant relative."

Letters I have received from girls of mothers who imbibe too freely would make your heart ache for the young ones. They feel the disgrace as only youth can feel, "being different from other girls or boys."

I remember a protest from one young woman about her mother copying her hair style and stealing her dress on a certain occasion when she was wanting to look less than her years. "And she," the girl wrote, "is old enough to me my mother!"

Children have a picture of what a mother should be. She does not have to be a frump nor a Puritan, but they seem to want her beyond criticism. She may wear rouge and touch up her lips, but the manner, dress, and conduct of flapper flavor are unpopular among the younger generation. They want something, somebody to look up to, to respect, to "brag about" to their playmates, as you know if you've ever played eavesdropper on a crowd of youngsters.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

GIRL'S DRESS.

The tucked shoulders and bows add a note of smart trimming to the bodice of this dress, that is shaped to affect a hip yoke. The dress is one piece, front and back, from shoulder to flounce, and is smart made of navy wool crêpe. Challis, rayon novelty crêpe, and the heavier weight cottons are suitable and smart for school days.

The pattern, 2701, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2½ yards of 35 inch material with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting.
